slave, scarcely 18 years of age, who has been bastinadoed three times within the last eight days for saving his prayers, and, despite of the chastisement, he has just now been discovered repeating given, and Anne having slipped down a them again." Anne asked him to-show her the slave; and from the window stell if I had such a slave, I would cause him to be impaled on the spot."

Anne related to her mother what she I have been in the hands of the Mahohad witnessed. Both were of opinion metans. I am a Christian nevertheless, that they would confide in a person so though I have not got a single prayer, faithful to his God. The same day except one to the blessed Virgin, which Anne perceiving him alone, opened the my mother taught me in my infancy. I window and made signs for him to ap- say it very often; it was that which proach, and take up some pieces of mo- caused me to be punished so cruelly, ney which she threw down; the poor but I still continue to repeat it; the hocreature trailed himself along, not being it Virgin has commanded me to do so. able to stand because of the bastinade, I often see her in steep; she promises I and taking the gold prostrated himself shall be soon delivered. I do think clesed, and he retired.

having given the signal, threw down a fellow-slaves, will be ready to sacrifice larger sum of money, with a letter to the r lives to be useful to you."

There is now in the prison a young and all in concert blessed the Lord for the prespect of redemption held out to them, while they prepared their an-

Some days after the signal was again. cord, the slave fastened to it a paper, on which was written the following lines, descried a young man, couched on a lit- wille be gethered up her usual donatle straw, with his hands joined and his tion :- " May God preserve in you the eyes raised to Heaven, and repeating good sentiments he has inspired, and resomething. "I would venture to say," ward your benevolence towards me. said the Caite, "that he is still praying; I am like you anxious to be freed from captivity, not only because I suffer so. much, but to be instructed in my holy After saying this he went out, and religion; for since I was five years old, to thank her. The window was then you are the means by which she intends. esed, and he retired. I am rea-The following day, at a favorable dy to execute your will, and I can hear, Anne opened the window, and pledge myself that two Neapolitans, my

the following effect :- " Christian, the | This reply, while it supported the constancy you have manifested in con- hopes of Angelique and Anne, renewed fessing Jesus Christ, convinces us that the sorrows of the former. This pious you will not betray our secret. We and sensible woman thus thought withare two Christians, anxious to escape in berself; this young man was capturfrom this infidel land; if you have a ed at the age of five years, my sen had fellow-s'ave in whom you could confide just reached that term when torn from to assist you in delivering us, we shall; my arms !! Perhaps this is be, said furnish you both with money sufficient Anne. God is omnipotent, my child, for your ransom." On reading these replied Angelique; he has conducted lines, the slave was almost beside him- me to you : he can restore me even self with joy; he showed it to two Nea-; both my sons—but who knows if this politans who had been sold with him, may be either of them? how mily