

has been given to the wording of definitions, with the intention of making them clear, concise, yet sufficiently complete. It also contains a large amount of information arranged in tabular form which is not considered ordinary dictionary matter. The very important features of pronunciation and derivation have received the most careful attention. The system used for expressing the sound is extremely simple, and yet it indicates with accuracy the exact pronunciation of the word. The illustrations are exceedingly good, and the coloured plates a very valuable addition to the work. The volume is bound in a flexible cover, which is a very great comfort in its use. The publishers have succeeded in producing a book of very attractive appearance and convenient size. By the use of a large page, with a compact but clear type, they have succeeded in furnishing a volume which has within its cover an almost incredible amount of matter

L. Bunk, Medical Bookseller, 15 Castlereagh St., Sydney.

We have to thank the publishers for a copy of this volume, which, besides containing the names of the registered practitioners of the Commonwealth of Australia, is filled with a large amount of useful medical information. It gives the legal medical table of fees of the various provinces, a glance at which would certainly stir up a spirit of envy among Canadian practitioners. The medical laws of the different provinces are given in full, and full particulars of the various Universities are also inserted.

PUBLISHERS DEPARTMENT.

THE LIVING AGE.

Boston's long established weekly magazine, The Living Age, opens its two hundred and twenty-eighth volume with the number which bears date on the first Saturday of January. So long a period of continuous publication, running back fifty-seven years, presupposes qualities of enduring value in the magazine and a large measure of attachment on the part of its readers. The fact is that the editors of the magazine have been singularly successful in retaining the characteristics which gave the periodical its original hold upon the reading public, and at the same time broadening its scope and introducing new elements of variety and timeliness. All the conditions of periodical publication have greatly changed since Mr. Littell established this magazine in 1844, but, while other magazines have come and gone, the old Living Age has held its place and is even more indispensable to-day to alert and cultivated readers than it was half a century ago. It is still the only weekly magazine in its field, and its frequency of issue enables it to reproduce the most important articles from foreign, and especially from British magazines, reviews and literary weeklies, with a freshness impossible under other conditions. Literature, art, science, biography, travel, poetry, public affairs and the best fiction in short and serial stories find a place in its well-stored pages, and there is not a single weekly number which does not contain something which intelligent readers of whatever special tastes would be poorer for missing. The magazine is published by the Living Age Company, Boston.
