chall know no law but the will of the people, expressed through Congress, and Senator Sumner thus expounds the Constitution according to the new lights of Republicanism :- I have already exhibited the power of Congress in four different sources; but beyoud these is the principle that 'Congress, in the exercise of political powers, cannot be questioned?

We see now how silly were those who looked upon the great war, as a war of Slaverolders on the one hand, against Abolitionists on the other. It was from first to last a struggle, a desperate and bitter struggle, betwixt Constitutionalism on the one hand, and Absolutism on the other; and in have not besitated to contribute their offerings to this this palpable fact lies the secret of the favor which the Southern or Constitutional party found with some, and of that which the Northerners or deceased, and of themselves are a recommendation champions of Absolutism found with others.

It has been long ago said, " show me a liberal, and I will show you a tyrant at heart; one who wants only the power to be a despot." Now of all despotisms, that which is exercised in the name of a majority is always most cruel, always odious, always degrading to its victims, or the unhappy creatures subject to it. But when that despotism, as in the United States, has been imposed by force of arms upon a brave but conquered minority, it is then most cruel, most odious, and most degrading.

The Absolutist party in the United States have triumphed, and the fruits of their victory has been well summed up by General Grant .-No longer, as in the olden time he would have done, does he propose to guide himself by, and submit himself to, the written Constitution or Supreme Law of the United States as interpreted by the Sopreme Court; but be form of the paper is altered, and it now reaches makes open and fearless proclamation of his contempt for that Law, of his deliberate intention to trample the Constitution under foot, and to accept in lieu thereof the brute will of the masority as in Congress expressed.

That this was, par excellence, the issue raised by the first gun fired at Sumpter in the late war, every one not a born fool saw from the first; and every one save one of your canting Pecksniffs was ready to admit. It was attempted at a later stage to drag in "slavery" as the cause of the war; though the Tartuffes who did so. knew full well that Mr. Lincoln and the Northerners generally, osteniationally resudiated Abolition designs. To preserve the Union - that is the territory of the United States, though that could only be preserved at the expence of the written Constitution - they were ready-so in Proclamations innumerable they boasted-either to perpetuate slavery, or to emancipate the slave; and if at last they emancipated him, it was, as they not only arowed, but boasted, as a war measure that they did so, as a clever stroke dictated tolely by political and strategetical exigencies, without reference to any principle whatsoever save that of "saving the Union." Yet in spite of these facts, indelibly recorded in history, sleek-faced men, with an insolence of Tartufferie, which even a Moliere could never bave dreamt of, call the late war a Slaveholders' speak of it, or of any of its phases as a rebellion ; and indeed if either of the parties thereunto could logically be called "rebels," it was the Northern party - the party who were fighting against the "written constitution," to which, and not to a personal sovereign as in European monarchies, allegiance was due.

In plain fact, matters had come at the time of the election of President Lincoln to such a pass that the Constitution could only be maintained at the expence of the Union, and the Union could only be held together by the overthrow of the Constitution. The Northerners mide their choice; the Southerners also made their's, and were worsted in the terrible conflict, gallantly sustained on both sides, which ensued. At first, perhaps, except to a few, the inevitable results of this triumph of the Union or anti Constitutional party were not fully apparent. Some of the more moderate Northerners seem to have for a time lingered under the delusion that they might overthrow their Constitution, and still preserve their Constitution; that they might at one and the same time, both eat their apple, and have it in their pocket. By this time, however, and by the straightforward language of the President elect, they must be fully undeceived. From being a body of well-defined and "limited powers," fimited by a written Constitution whose provisions were interpreted by a Supreme Court of Judicature, Congress has become an Absolute, unlimited power; the President has lapsed into the mere clerk for executing its decrees; and the Supreme Court, that noble tribunal as an integral portion of the old Constitutional organism, has been excised, or cut off as no longer needed. Never was Revolution more thorough,

We have received the following Appeal for funds in aid of the monument which it is proposed to erect to the memory of the late lamented Father Miggault :-

Sir,-The Reverend M. Mignault, whose loss the country this day weeps should live for ever in the memories of those who knew him, and who were the object of his tender cares. Monseigneurs, the Bishops of Montreal, St Hyacinthe, and Germaniapolis have in this intent expressed the wish that there be erected in the Church of Chambly, a monument destined to relate to future ages who this good priest, this true friend of the country was These honorable prelates work of gratitude, and filial piety: their names appear at the head of the sutscription list which was opened the very day of the funeral of the regretted which bids me hope for success in my enterprise.

Subscription lists will be opened at the Bishoprics of Montreal, St. Hyscinthe and Three Rivers, as well as at the Presbytery of Chambly. Arrangements having been made already with one of the first artizans of Montreal, the sums subscribed for should be prid at once. A full list of subscriptions will be published in the papers.

Possoning .- The authorites are investigating a supposed case of possoning, in which a wife has, unsuccessfully, been ecdeavouring to poison her husband for the last eighteen months. The parties reside in vitre street, but their names are not, for good reasons, at present made public. - [Daily News.

ANOTHER VIOTIM. - A young man named Charles Larivierre, of Mignoune street, fell from the fourth storey of the building now in course of erection on the north side of Little St. James street, by Mr. Henry Judsh, and died almost instantly. He was carried into an office opposite, and a priest and doctor were immediately sent for, the former barely arriving in time to administer the last rites. It appears that Lariviere had just reached the fourth story with a hod-ful of brick, when his foot caught in a rope, and be was percipitated through the batchways of the several floors to the basement His is the fourth life that has been lost in the vicinity of Little St. James FATAL ACCIDENT ON THE G. T. RAILWAY .- This morning a brakesman on the Grand Trunk Railway, named James Dunlop, lost his life near the Lachine Junction. It appears that he was on the platform of the brake, when his feet slipped, and he was thrown down between the cars. The train was stopped as from the Chaudiers gold mining district. Some weeks quickly as possible, when the unfortunate man was found entangled underneath the body of the car. He was at once extricated but died immediately. An inquest was held upon the body and a verdict of Accidental Death' returned. Deceased had been in the service of the company for about ton years, and leaves a wife and four children.

Wife Desertion .- We have just heard of a most heartless case of wife desertion in this city, terminating in the mas nity of the wife thus cruelly forsaken, The husband, some six weeks ago, absconded with a female, herself not long since left a widow, and not content with this he drew some money of his wife's from the bank, leaving her literally destitute. A person who had some slight acquaintance with her took bet in till she might obtain some employment, but brooding over her trouble, she became incane. She was then taken to her mother-in-law who, if we have been rightly informed, turned her out and she was ultimately taken to the police-station and thence to iail. where she remains till arrangements can be made to remove her to the Beauport Asylum. And yet this beartless husband was at one time a young man of considerable promise but taking to drink he fell in with loose companion and has thus fallen to the depths of baseness to which we have alluded .- [Wi:-

A Woman Lost .- On Friday last, at noon, an old woman of about 55 years of age, named Mrs Kerman, left home at Petite Cote and has not been seen by any of her family. She came into the city, Papinean Square and thence she went to another friend's Since she left this latter place she has not been heard of. Her son, a young man, just returned from the States, came to the Central Police Station vesterday afternoon to get the asistance of the detectives in finding his mother. Her busbind and four sons bave been searching for her in vain Sunday and yesterday. She appears younger than she really is, and has always been a sober respectable woman. -[Daily News.

THE SIDEWALKS -We call the attention of house bolders, shopkeepers, and also the police to the state of the sidewalks, in respect of proper removal of snow and ice therefrom. Unless this is done universally and uniformly it had better not be done at all. When one does it, and his neighbour fails, there is simply created a pitfal, troublesome by daylight, but actual ly endangering limbs, perhaps life after dark. The br-law regulating this is one of the most important and beneficent, and we trust to see it enforced .-Witness.

THE WHARVES - The seagoing vessels with the exception of two bave left our barbour and men are engaged c'eaning the wharves, the temporary sheds are being taken down and soon that locality where for the last six months the hurry and bustle of trade has been going on will be deserted.

OTTAWA Nov. 21. - Whelen was removed from gaol last night at twenty minutes to 11 o'clock in compliance with the writ of Habeas Corpus issued by the Court in Toronto on Thursday last The intention to remove him by special train to Toronto was carefully concea'ed by the authorities from the public The streets were comparatively deserted and a back route was taken to avoid observation, so that none knew but those efficially concerned in the matter that the notorious Whelan was outside the prison walls. He was driven in a sleigh by John Grabam of the Albion Hotel well guarded and heavily ironed and handenfied in the immediate quatody of Sergt. Davis and Constable McVitty, both noted for trustworthiness Whelan as usual was reckless and profane in his remarks. The train at once grarted for Prescott. He was acompanied by Sheriff Powell J. O'Reilly, Adj', Falls, F Buchanan, T. Zallikopper, Sergeant Davis and Constable M Vitty. It is expected that the arguments in the case will be heard on Wensday The military guard is main sined over the Jail as before. It is said that Slattery and the other prisoners confined here, in connection with the Whalan trial will be liberated on bail, with the exception of those already indicted.

ARBIVAL OF WHELAN .- Toronto, Nov 21 -- Whelen, the alleged murderer of McGee, arrived here per Grand Trunk Railway at noon to day. He has been brought here on a writ of Habeas Corpus and will be examined before the Judges on an early day for the purpose of hearing arguments of his Counsel in favour of granting a new trial He was accompanied by Sheriff Powell of Ottawa, and two prison of On his errival he was at once conveyed to gool and given in charge of Governor, Allan All was managed in the most perfect manner the public knowing no hing whatever of the circumstance until the publication in the evening papers.

TEMPTATION TO ORIME - Mail Bag Lost - One of the mail-bags desnatched from the post-rifice yester day, morning at five c'clock, lost on the street and left behind the rest, was found by an honest newshoy on his way to the station, and returned by him to the Diogenes will avoid the danger, and continue to office. If it had fallen into other hands what might have been the consequence? The bag reped lopen -rifled of its contents; and then blame thrown upon every one near or remotely connected with the trans mission of that mail, and investigations without and resulting in nothing but varue suspicious, possibly unwarranted dismissals . We have before alluded to the very unsafe condition of the mail wan, and it is high time the authorities would look into it. There has been too much mail matter lost of late and innocent parties are b'amed all round. The hoy who re tu ned the lost bag yesterday morning was rewarded by the presentation of $5 - Toronto Lealer

DARING ROBBERY .- Thipnews, Nov. 18 -The store of Mesers J. S. & T. Macklem at this place, in which is situated the Post Office, was entered this morning at one o'clock The assistant postmaster, who sleeps above the office was unfortunately unarmed, and was compelled to remain in his room by one of the gang standing at his door with a revolver. They then proceeded to blow open the safe which contained $150 and then they made off. The alarm was given and the villagers aroused, but no trace of the robbers could be found, and as yet no clue has bren ob tained.

Wire Munder. - Chaibam, Out., Nov. 18, 1868 -On Monday night a man named Charles Resume committed a murderous assault upon his wife with an axe, inflicting severe wounds on her head, face and neck. The unfortunate woman died this morning.

COVERING GOODS AT FIRES .- Ohief Bertram has Mr. Wright, of Montreal, were admitted to practice suggested that much property would often be saved in Courts of Law in Ontario. furniture on the lower flats of building when the upper is dreuched with water. This is doubtless a good idea, but would require a special service, consisting of at least two men a horse and light vehicle, divided into compartments containing different sized tarpaulins, which could be got at in a moment. As this would be for the benefit of the Insurance Companies, it is only right that they should bear the expense but as the institution would always have to start with the reels, day or night, accomodation for the horse and vehicle might be given at one of the fire stations. Two men would be required as a relief.

QUEBEC Nov. 23 - A man named Pierre Desjardins was killed on Saturday last. He was engaged with s party of men in removing gravel from the side of the hill at Mill Cove, about a mile west of the G. T. R. station south Quebec, when a large stone at the top of the cape became detached and before Desjardies could escape from his persions position it rolled down with tremendous velocity, passing over his body and crushing him to death. His remains were so mangled and torn as to be altogether unrecognizable. The deceased had been frequently warned of the danger he incurred by approaching to closely to the cliff. He leaves a widow and child.

MELANCHOLY DEATH-LOST IN THE WOODS .- A sad story of death from cold and exposure comes to us since, an old man named Thomas Slowey, a settler in the Township of Cranbourne, Dorchester, started to return home from the mines where he had been working for some time. On his way to Cranbourne he had to traverse a stretch of bush of about twelve miles, which he often before travelled; but, a range to say, whether owing to his failing sight or some other cause, he lost his way and was never afterwards seen alive. His continued absence led to enquiries being made about him, but all that could be elicted was that he had started for home, taking with him a pair of new boots and a quantity of provisions for his family. A party was then organized to acour the country, and, a few days ago, they came upon the remains of the unfortunate man in the woods, laying balf buried in wet and snow, with the provisions and the rest of his pack untouched. From the position of the body and other indications, it was evident the poor old man had lost his way, and, becoming bewildered and benumbed with cold, had laid down calmly to meet his end .- Quebec Chronicle.

On Saturday last two men named James Casswell and Thomas Swanson, when returning home from the village of Duart, in the township of Oxford, quarrelled over a bottle of whisk y which Caswell vas carrying, and refused to give it to Swanson. When he asked for it, Swanson struck Caswell with shovel and inflicted such a severe wound that Cas well died yesterday. Swanson immediately gave bimself up to the Magistrate.

SINGULAR ACCIDENT .- On Saturday evening an accident of an unusual character occurred on the Grand Truck Railway. As the train coming east was nearing Guelph, one of the lamps in a passenger car fell to the floor, and was broken, and in a mcment the car was in flames. A scene of terrible consternation ensued among the passengers, who, however, were fortunate enough to escape into the other car without injury. As quickly as possible the train was stopped, and the flimes extinguished, though not before the car was completely gutted. The accident delayed the train nearly an hour .-Guelph paper.

NARROW ESCAPE. - Cn Wednesday evening last, a equaw, while engaged in selling her wares to passengers on board of the evening express, lost her footing as the train was in motion. Falling between the cars and the platform, her legs lay across the rails, when a gentleman, who happened to be standing by at the time, grasped the woman by the shawl, dragged ber from ber perilous position, and brought her to the platform. The escape was a miraculous oue. - [London Prototype.

NARCHTICS -A few days since a young mother went out on some business, leaving her child in charge of a young girl, who had occasionally seen laudanum given to the child when it became restless The child became restless ouring the mother's ab sence, the girl gave it some laudanum, and now it sleeps the long sleep in the cemetery -St Catherines
