

- Don't be afraid to check the load stow again before commencing - with your measuring tape!!
 - Do not rush the load, ensure that your preplan and precautionary measures are being adhered to.
 - Don't hesitate to take photographs as the stow proceeds.
 - Don't ignore damage on loading, regardless of how small it is.
 - Do have your own surveyor check the stow before closing, locking, and sealing the doors if you are unsure.
- Do consider your own reaction if you received goods in a damaged or useless condition because of lack of care in stowage.
 - Don't think that because the insurance company has provided a monetary recompense for the damage, that damage control is over.
 - Do ensure that the goods have been packaged and stowed so that despite any problems en route, they arrive in good condition — just the way you would like to receive products.

Remember it is your business that you are looking after.
