

EVERY LITTLE BIT HELPS

and glaring toward the door, while Mrs. DeWynt shrank back in alarm. Every eye followed those of the little animals. There, framed in the hangings of the doorway, stood a girl; and beside her was a creature I at first supposed was a dog. Esmeralda had arrived!