

DUKE BECOMES LL.D. AND MEMBER OF PRESS CLUB

Attends Upper Canada College—Duchess Visits Sick Children's Hospital.

Upper Canada College was visited by the Duke and Duchess of Connaught yesterday afternoon, the duchess visiting the Sick Children's Hospital, and the duke had a degree conferred upon him at Toronto University, and was entertained by the Toronto Press Club at the King Edward Hotel.

At the college the rifle company formed a guard of honor at the entrance. Principal Auden and W. G. Gooderham, chairman of the board of governors, received them. The students were assembled in the main hall. The principal spoke briefly, telling of the foundation of the college under Governor Colborne. Then the head boy, Ralph Gibson, read an address. After the duke had replied he commanded the principal to declare to-day a full holiday. A reception was then held to the governors and ladies.

The duchess visited the hospital later. She was received by John Ross Robertson, chairman of the executive committee; Miss Brent, superintendent, and the staff and trustees. One of the patients presented the duchess with a bouquet.

Duke a Doctor of Laws. At the university 300 students were assembled in Convocation Hall. There his royal highness had conferred upon him the degree of LL.D. In answering the address the duke expressed admiration for the many spirit displayed by the students of Ottawa College and Varsity in their recent football match, witnessed by the duke at Ottawa. Her royal highness was presented with a bouquet from the Women's Alumni, three young ladies making the presentation.

Among those there were: Mr. James Whitney, Mayor Geary, Sir William Meredith, Lieut. Gen. Gibson and President Falconer. The duke replied to the address of welcome as follows: "I appreciate the high honor by conferring upon me the degree of doctor of laws of the University of Toronto. It may interest you to know that the degrees I hold are also Imperial ones: Oxford, Cambridge, Dublin, Lahore and Cape Town. I believe you have been inspired by a desire to show again the feeling of loyalty and devotion to the person of the King and his throne. As you have been reminded, the late King was an undergraduate of the University of Toronto and the present King holds an honorary degree. "It is now within 18 years of your centenary and since the days of your foundation you have been taking a foremost part in educational progress, and have exhibited an exemplary devotion to duty. I hope that as long as these tenets guide you, the University of Toronto will always hold the high position in the world that it does today. "I know you are keen not only on the intellectual side, but on the matter of sports and games. I watched the splendid fight between Toronto and Ottawa College at the annual regatta, and I am sure the spirit of good temper shown by the undergraduates of the university augurs well for their future in any possible endeavor. "I hope I shall have many opportunities to come amongst you and show how much in sympathy I am with you all and with the splendid work you are doing in Canada. "Admirals Canadian Art. In the morning they went to the Art Museum on College-street, where they were entertained by members of the Royal Canadian Academy. It was an informal affair. Among the artists present were: William Brymner, president of the Royal Academy, Montreal; James Smith, Hamilton; M. J. Carthy, Ottawa; E. Maxwell, Montreal; M. Matthews, F. M. Bell-Smith, E. Wylie Grier, Robert Harris, Montreal; Mr. and Mrs. F. McC. Knowles, T. Mower Martin, Homer Watson, of Don; Gustav Hahn, Harry Britton, R. F. Gagen, J. C. Miles, Mrs. H. M. Reed, and others.

STEEL BARS HIGHER Judge Gary Says Bankruptcy Threatens Many Industries.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.—(Canadian Press) Simultaneous advance in the price of steel bars by the United States Steel Corporation and the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the latter one of the largest of the independent producers, was announced today. For immediate delivery, bars have gone up $1 per ton, Pittsburgh basis, and for future delivery, the increase amounts to $1.25.

More than ordinary interest attaches to the increase by reason of the testimony offered by Judge Gary before the senate committee on interstate commerce to-day. Chairman Gary was quoted as saying that many manufacturers were at the moment selling below cost and were threatened with bankruptcy if they continued.

In well informed trade circles, it was declared that orders recently received by the steel corporation have increased the output about 40,000 tons daily, which is considerably in excess of recent operations.

ARIZONA WANTS A SEAPORT AND COAST LINE. Arizona is the big territory lying at the extreme southwestern angle of the United States. It has an area of fifteen square miles, enough to make fifteen states of the size of New Jersey. As yet it has a population of only 204,354, or about half as many as Essex county, but it is ambitious to become a state and to acquire a coast line and a seaport and thus develop maritime importance.

At present Arizona is completely landlocked. On the west it abuts the great States of California and Nevada, separated from them by the tortuous line of the Colorado River, but on the east it is separated from Mexico by only an oblique, imaginary line, running for more than 200 miles in a north-westerly direction. This oblique line, which at the present time, a source of great discontent to the citizens of Arizona, and also to the United States, for it runs almost parallel with the coast line of the Gulf of California, leaving a strip of land some fifty miles wide and 150 miles long between Arizona and the coast line; a strip about 100 miles wide and 150 miles long, and running its whole length in the Arizona desert; but before anything can be done to remedy these conditions the permission of Mexico must be obtained, because much of the necessary work must be done south of the Mexican boundary.

The main reason, however, for acquiring the strip of territory above referred to, is the fact that it would give Arizona and the United States, 150 miles of coast line. It would, in the not distant future, provide a new line of communication of our own, from the Gulf of California to all the western Mexican states and another route of access to the Panama Canal. Its commercial value is at once apparent. Arizona has vast agricultural areas awaiting irrigation and "dry farming." It has inexhaustible mines, as yet unopened, and it has great timbered regions which have never been touched. All of them will, sooner or later, have to yield their treasures, and in looking for a market for all this wealth a water route thru the Gulf of Mexico and the Panama Canal, and independent of the transcontinental railroads. As for the reasonable price for the strip of land which is now of very little use to her, would probably induce her to part with it; the more so because the Mexicans have set long eyes upon this strip, which will be commercially advantageous to the Mexican states as well as to California and Arizona. Since both Uncle Sam and Arizona have set long eyes upon this strip, it will be interesting to watch the steps taken and the statesmanship exercised in getting possession of it.

Toronto Symphony Orchestra In view of the Franz List commemoration, the Toronto Symphony Orchestra will afford an opportunity of hearing the master's celebrated Interpreter, Arthur Friedheim, at the concert announced for Wednesday evening, Dec. 6, at Massey Hall. Mr. Friedheim has this season been conducting List's concertos and recitals in all the great musical centres of Europe, and has now come to this continent to continue his work as the greatest living exponent of the Hungarian master. The program of the concert will be a particularly attractive one. Besides List's concerto in A major, with orchestral accompaniment, Beethoven's fifth symphony and several short numbers by both soloists and orchestra will be played.

HOW THE RUSSIANS HUNT THE WOLF. There are many ways of hunting the wolf in Russia, some very curious and exciting and others as tame as target practice. The most sportsmanlike way, according to a writer in The Wide World Magazine, is by means of hounds, and all over Russia to-day there are well-to-do sportsmen who hunt the animal in this fashion. Wolves are also taken in pitfalls and shot, while still another way is to drive in a sleigh thru the forest in time of hard frost, when the wolves are bold with hunger. At the back of the sleigh one or more sportsmen lie snugly under their fur rugs with their rifles ready. A young pig is carried in the sleigh, and its cries soon reach the ears of the lurking wolves, which cannot resist following the sleigh, and are speared by the sportsmen. One of the most picturesque ways of hunting the wolf, perhaps, is that which one may see in the west of Asia, on the bleak Kirghiz steppes. The Tartar tribes are wonderful horsemen, and they ride after the wolf in very large parties. Not only are dogs used to overtake a quarry, but because a fleet wolf may get away from them, eagles are used, being trained to help the hunter in very much the same manner as falcons in older times. The great bird sits on the hunter's wrist until it is let loose; then it soars into the air, sails after the quarry and swoops down upon it. Its duty is not to kill, but to "bother" the wolf, by flapping its wings in its face and driving its sharp claws into the animal's back. Such hunting makes capital sport for the riders, but apart from this, the wolf hunting is a real necessity in those parts, the brutes being far too partial to the lambs and kids of the Tartars' flocks.

Honest Horse Deals? Judge Merson Thinks There's No Such Thing.

Everyone has his opinion, and Judge Merson has his, especially on horse deals, and very decided at that. The case before his honor was that of James Francis against Alex. Manson and Wm. Menary for $50 on a horse deal. His honor said: "In horse deals, the moral aspect is not pronounced. David Harum seemed to be about right, when he laid down the motto of 'do the other fellow first.' This is part of the game. You people who deal in horses are so smart, that it is hard to get at you."

It is true that in the large majority of the 1200 municipalities in the province, an ordinance has been passed making vaccination compulsory, but how many of them really enforce it?" he said.
