

honoring us in this respect is apparent from the fact that two more of our members have made it their life-purpose to become workers for Christ in heathen lands ; while at least six others have signified their intention of offering themselves as Missionaries, should the way become open for them thus to serve the Master.

We will not here enter into a detailed account of the Home-work undertaken and cheerfully carried on by the Society during 1895,—of the literature sent to lumber camps and poor congregations, of the flowers carried to the sick, of the relief given to the poor and destitute. Suffice it is to say that most of our members are actively engaged in Christian work.

Our membership during the past year has remained about the same as in 1894. We regret this : for we know that the Society has been a blessing to all those connected with it, and we feel sure that, if more of the young people of the church united with us in spending one hour on Saturday evening in Christian conference and fellowship, the result would be of very great benefit both to them and to us. This statement is amply attested by the letters received from time to time from former members, and especially from students who are now settled as Pastors in different parts of this Continent. We cordially invite the members of the congregation, and especially the young people who are strangers amongst us, to attend our meetings. The Social Committee have arranged for a social hour on the second Saturday evening of each month, and these gatherings afford an excellent opportunity for those who might otherwise hesitate about joining us to become acquainted with the members of the Society.

JOHN TURNBULL,

President.
