

Beaconsfield, Manitoba, to which we have this year contributed $101.75, has been for some time without a Clergyman. The Bishop of Rupert's Land, writes that this has been a source of great disappointment to the people there, and deplores the difficulty of getting men to fill the vacant places in his Diocese.

A new and interesting branch of work has been taken up this year, namely, the Zenana Mission, or work in behalf of women of India. We send our contributions through the Church of England Zenana Missionary Society, a branch of the C. M. S., for distribution.

We are glad that we have been able to help a little ; this year we have sent $323.86. Of this $41.59 came in the envelopes, which are given to any who will take them, one for each month, to gather during that time the stray cents and little silver pieces which can be saved, by small acts of self-denial.

The young ladies have formed a working party which meets once a fortnight at private houses, and they are making gifts to send out for the pupils in the schools in India to be distributed at Christmas. They are found very useful, in inducing the children to attend at first and also in helping the missionaries to gain an entrance into the Zenanas. Their letters often express grateful thanks for such gifts.

A little has been done for the Society for the propagation of Christianity amongst the Jews. Extracts from accounts of their work have been read at our meetings, but this we have only commenced, and hope to have more to tell about it another year.

The Rev. W. F. Campbell, General Secretary for the Board of Management of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary Society of the Church of England in Canada, addressed one of our meetings, and henceforth a statement of our work and contributions will be sent to that Board.

Altogether $1,192.15 have been raised during the year.
