

THE STAR
Wed.-Thurs.

The Girl With the Piercing Eyes
BESSIE BARRISCALE
In the First of Our New Robertson-Cole Productions
"All of a Sudden,"
Norma"
Also "British Weekly"

Beginning Next Saturday
Feature Events Will Be Staged.

I'M MICKEY

Meet Me At
THE UNIQUE
Any Day This Week, Matinee or Night.
I Don't Keep Late Hours, So Be Early!
Hundreds Turned Away Last Night.
Mats. 2, 3.30 - 10c, 15c.
Eve'ngs, 7, 8.30 - 15c, 25c.

German Admiral Demands Freedom

Boston, Nov. 5.—A letter alleged to have been written by Admiral von Reuter to Premier Lloyd George, protesting against the detention of the admiral, who commanded the German fleet at Scapa Flow when it was scuttled, and other officers of the sunken fleet, is published in the Taegische Rundschau.

Regarding the scuttling of the warships, Admiral von Reuter is quoted as saying:

"I was obliged to assume that war had again broken out, from the announcement in the British press regarding the rejection of the German counter-proposals to the peace treaty. Even if my idea that war had again broken out subsequently proved erroneous, nevertheless, I acted in the conviction that it was war, and my subordinates therefore cannot be treated except in accordance with the usual customs of war."

Mrs. Walter G. Miller, 87 Chesley street, returned from Boston recently, where she had a happy re-union after twenty-eight years, with two brothers, living in Peabody.

J. Stuart Blackton Feature Pictures, Inc.
The Moonshine Trail
HUMAN HEART DRAMA
A Blackton Production
6 PARTS

Cynthia from the Kentucky hills comes to New York to escape the trail of "moonshine."

A Photoplay of Timely Interest With
Sylvia Breamer
—and—
Robert Gordon

She finds that the "moonshine" under another name has caught her fiancé in an hereditary grip.

Also Showing Larry Semon in
"The Simple Life"
Big V Special Comedy in Two Parts

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY At 2.30, 7, 8.40

BIG FOOTBALL GAMES COMING

The harvest season of football is at hand. The eleven of the colleges and universities are about to reap what they have sown. The big games—those traditional spectacles of the gridiron—ward which the coaches have pointed their teams, are just ahead and the intervening time is too short to permit of further experimenting. The mentors must stand on what they have built. They no longer can rip apart and remodel their machines. For weeks every energy and effort has been expended to gradually work the team to a state of perfection, both in physical condition and playing ability, for these contests.

At most of the so-called larger institutions one or two games are the fixtures each year. Victory in their feature games discounts anything that may have transpired previously during the campaign on the chalk-lined turf. The other games on the schedules are arranged more in the way of practice gallops, designed to test in a measure the progress made in the development of the teams. Frequently in recent years they have resulted in upsets. Frequently the "underdogs" have been compelled to bow in defeat before the eleven which were intended to be used as sparring partners, but, later in the season, if the team is able to humble its traditional rival or rivals, even though those rivals be weaker than many another team, the past is blotted out and the big team goes down in its university's history as a highly successful eleven and its coach shares proportionately in its glory.

The time has arrived when these teams are to be put to their "real tests." Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Cornell, West Point, and Annapolis are on the eve of those games which, to them and to their thousands of supporters, mean more than anything else in a football way. Beginning next Saturday the first of these classics of the gridiron will be staged. In a football sense the contest does not measure up to that which was played at Hanover, N. H., on Saturday, when Dartmouth and Colgate grappled in a game that might have decided the more or less mythical championship of the east. As a traditional spectacle, however, it means infinitely more. Harvard will journey to Princeton to tackle the Tigers. The Crimson has not yet been beaten. Princeton has but to their betterment preceding episode. The following week Yale and Princeton clash in a Bowl at New Haven. Yale, as well as the Tigers, has been beaten, but this fact will not deter some 70,000 enthusiastic spectators from crowding their way into the gigantic concrete amphitheatre to pay homage to their teams.

On Nov. 22 Harvard and Yale meet at Cambridge. On Thanksgiving Day, Nov. 27, at Philadelphia, those ancient rivalries, Pennsylvania and Cornell, will play. Both eleven have suffered humiliation at the hands of so-called smaller opponents, yet the same cheer-laden, rabidly enthusiastic crowd will tax the capacity of Franklin Field to see the all-important tussle. And on Nov. 29, here in the midst of this bustling New York, will be staged a game which attracts more widespread and general interest than all others—the contest between the Army and Navy at the Polo Grounds.

Thus, beginning next Saturday and continuing for the remainder of the season, each week will be featured by one of those football fetes without which no season seems complete.

DAUGHTERS.

To the Editor of the Times,
Sir,—Should there not be devised some way of protecting little children, not from mechanical dangers, but from the inhumanity of man?

Yesterday, on her way to school, my little girl of eleven narrowly escaped very serious injury. A man rushing out of an alley off Main street, ran into the child with such force that she was thrown violently sideways to the ground and became unconscious. Recovering a little, the child picked herself up and continued to school, semi-conscious. At school she began sobbing violently. She is suffering severely from shock and complains of pain and frequent dizziness, serious enough.

The broken part of the incident is this: that the man did not even stop to see whether or not the child was injured, but was met by others a block or so away, still running.

I think the incident deserves publicity. It may give the man who did the act food for thought. It should warn others to avoid pushing at right angles to a public street, and thus help safeguard the children.

QUEEN SQUARE THEATRE

Cynthia from the Kentucky hills comes to New York to escape the trail of "moonshine."

A Photoplay of Timely Interest With
Sylvia Breamer
—and—
Robert Gordon

She finds that the "moonshine" under another name has caught her fiancé in an hereditary grip.

Also Showing Larry Semon in
"The Simple Life"
Big V Special Comedy in Two Parts

WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY At 2.30, 7, 8.40

OPERA HOUSE VAUDEVILLE

A Good Show—Business As Usual!

Barbette Novelty Wire and Aerial Act	TONIGHT 7.30 and 9	Serial "Perils of Thunder Mountain"
--	-----------------------	--

Old Homestead Male Quartette
Vaudeville's Sweetest Singing Four, in Songs of Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow.

Gwen and Clark Comedy Singing and Musical Skit	Gertrude Dudley and Co. High-class Vocal and Piano Offer- ing	Ball Brothers Knockabout Com- edy Riot
---	--	---

HERE'S A LAUGH CREATOR!

The Lyric Musical Stock Co.
—PRESENT—
TEN NIGHTS IN A BAR-ROOM

MATINEES AT 2-3.30 PRICES 10-15
EVENING AT 7.15-8.45 15-25

EMPRESS THEATRE WEST SIDE

"THE BROKEN LAW"
A Strong Five-Reel Drama, Full of Love, Mystery and Tragedy.
See William Farnum at His Best in This Picture!

HAROLD LLOYD
In One of His Usual Side-Splitting Comedies.

About 125 boys were present last evening in the Y. M. C. A. at the first meeting in connection with the Tuxis Boys' programme. Addresses were given by Captains S. B. Stokes, A. P. Cruikshank, F. I. Woodworth and T. C. Armstrong. Group leaders were appointed as follows: T. C. Armour, Trinity class; Rev. R. T. McKim, St. Mark's; H. Hopkins, Exmouth street; Alfred Stevenson, Queen Square; J. A. Kennedy, Portland; Mr. Henderson, Central Baptist, and A. R. Cruikshank, St. David's.

A WISE FATHER

Proud Parent—Here, son, is something that will help you set yourself up in business when you grow up.

GERALDINE FARRAR
In a Goldwyn Production of Eastern Days and Alaskan Nights

ENTITLED
"SHADOWS"
SIX REELS

By Willard Mack, Directed by Reginald Barker

Miss Farrar is supported in this great Picture by Milton Sills, Tom Santschle and Fred Truesdale

CANADIAN PICTORIAL SHOWS N. S. APPLE HARVEST AND OTHER EASTERN SCENES

Gaumont Weekly and Kinograms

IMPERIAL

EIGHT MILLIONS FOR ROADS AND BRIDGES IN STATE OF MAINE

Special Session of Legislature to Arrange it—Equal Suffrage For Women of The State

Augusta, Me., Nov. 5.—The national constitutional amendment, granting equal suffrage to women was ratified by the senate by a vote of twenty-four to five, with two absentees, at the special session of the legislature which opened yesterday. It now goes to the house.

In addition to woman suffrage, the high cost of living, a bonus for soldiers, sailors and marines who served in the world war and harbor improvements, were other subjects presented to Governor Milliken for consideration.

The session was called primarily to arrange for a $8,000,000 bond issue, authorized at a special election in September, for the construction of highways and bridges.

LOCAL NEWS

A Girls' Club was organized in St. David's church last night. Miss Stella Payson presided.

Ronald and Clifford McAvity returned yesterday from Lepreux, where they had been on a shooting trip. They got a moose and also shot a black bear weighing 400 pounds.

At a meeting of property holders of Lansdowne avenue a committee was appointed to interview the city commissioners with respect to the matter of street improvement.

The case against Thomas Ramsey, charged with having liquor in his possession illegally, was resumed yesterday afternoon in the police court, and postponed until Thursday at 2 o'clock. W. M. Ryan appeared for the defence.

TOOKE COLLAR
A NEW STARCHED
TOOKE COLLAR
For Men and Young Men

USE The Want Ad Way.

MUTT AND JEFF—JEFF GETS IT DOWN TO ONE MAN
(COPYRIGHT, 1919, BY H. C. FISHER, TRADE MARK REGISTERED IN CANADA.)

I DON'T LIKE THAT ONE-EYED GUY THAT MUTT'S INVITED UP TO THE ROOM TO PLAY POKER. I SAT IN A GAME WITH HIM LAST WEEK AND I CAUGHT HIM CHEATING. HE DEALS FROM THE BOTTOM OF THE DECK.

HURRY UP, JEFF. WE'RE EACH TAKING A FIVE DOLLAR STACK OF CHIPS

I CUT AN ACE. IT'S MY DEAL.

DEAL THEM OUT

WHAT LIMIT ARE WE GONNA PLAY?

HOW ABOUT A DOLLAR LIMIT?

THAT'S SATISFACTORY TO ME—

AND THE FIRST GUY I CATCH CHEATING I'LL KNOCK HIS OTHER EYE OUT.