EXTRA GOOD YEAR FOR ALBERTA FARMERS

Calgary, Alberta, Sept. 4.—Owing to the greatly improved weather conditions, the grain and other field crops of central Alberta will be decidedly better than was thought possible a month ago.
The price of all grain is about twenty-five per cent higher than for years.
Every indication points to the most profitable year for the farmers of this part of the country ever had. For the first time wheat in Alberta has passed the dollar mark.

BEANS FIRM

A firm feeling prevails in the market for beans owing to the limited supplies available on spot, for which there is a good demand. According to recent advices from the west the prospects are favorable for a good crop, as the acreage sown was 51,140 acres, which promises to yield 17.2 bushels to the acre, or a total of 879,625 bushels, which is however, smaller than last year's crop.

PRAYING FOR THE FIGHTERS

S. A. P. Clarke sends the Toronto World the following extract from a letter written by his wife, who is in England. "Every day exactly at 12 o'clock the church bells ring for a few minutes and everybody, by common consent, stop whatever they are doing and pray for the soldiers and sailors at the front and for the bereaved ones left behind."

SUSSEX WANTS CAMP

Geo. W. Fowler, M. P., will leave tonight for Ottawa to see what can be done about making Sussex a mobilization camp if Valcartier is abandoned for the winter season.

Promise of Peace In Mexico

(Bradstreet's)
While the clash of arms has been resounding on many battlefields in Europe, a promise of peace has been settling down upon long distracted Mexico. It was at one time thought that the transfer of power from Carranza to Carranza would have to be brought about by force, in view of the difficulties which arose between the former and the Constitutionalist leader, but the situation was relieved by the retirement of Car-rujal from the provisional presidency and his departure from the Mexican capital, the latter event occurring on August 12. On Thursday, Aug. 20, General Carranza made a peaceable, triumphal entry into Mexico City, and on the same day Carranza left Vera Cruz for Galveston. Carranza declared in a public address on the occasion of his entry that though the successful revolution which he had headed did not proclaim a policy of pardon, it harbored no rancor, and all it did would be based on justice. In addition, he promised the people a real constitutional government. On August 21 the new chief of the state issued a circular declaring that he had assumed executive control under the plan of Gaudelupe of March 27, 1913. One of his first acts was the publication of an order restoring stamp duties to the rates at which they had stood prior to the Huerta regime. The situation has been decidedly improved by the re-opening of several important banks in Mexico City following the announcement by the government of its willingness to receive the currency issued by Huerta for all payments due to the treasury.

Mexico, it is true, is not entirely free from disturbance at present, but the Constitutionalists, are gradually crushing out such disaffection as exists, or removing it by means of negotiation. According to late advices, the day that witnessed Carranza's entry into Mexico City saw the defeat of General Orozco by Colonel Salinas. Within the week it has been learned that Zapata, long the leading revolutionist in the south of Mexico, is willing to lay down his arms providing certain agrarian measures are carried out. There has been some uneasiness in regard to the attitude of Villa, the most efficient fighting chief of the Constitutionalists, toward Carranza. He is quoted as saying that he has no personal feeling for or against the latter, but that he is determined to do what he can to prevent Mexico from suffering under a military regime again. He is thought by some to be aiming at the presidency himself, but others say that he is in favor of the election of a civilian. His services to the Constitutionalist cause render him a man to be reckoned with.

UNEMPLOYED PUT TO WORK GETTING GOLD OUT OF THE SASKATCHEWAN RIVER

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 4.—Scores of men, working with "grizzlies" and pans, are scattered along the banks of the Saskatchewan River, which bisects Edmonton, washing gold from the gravel and sand on the bars. The daily clean-up ranges from $2 to $4 a man. Experienced miners are directing the work, which is designed to solve the unemployed problem during the next three months.
"The plan, which was suggested by Dr. W. D. Ferris, will give employment to several thousand men within the city limits and as many more up and down the river," said M. S. Booth, commissioner of safety and health. "It has been taken up by some of the old-timers, who washed out from $40,000 to $50,000 in gold each season in the early nineties, when Edmonton was a village, and they are giving their services in teaching the men to work the 'grizzlies.' Place miners say that the newest tenderfoot should make from $1.75 to $2.50 a day." A gravel company, which has been operating in the Saskatchewan river since territorial days, using a steam dredge to take the gravel from the beds and bars, takes out thousands of dollars in four gold each season. The fine particles of the precious metal are caught in wooden blankets after passing into the riffles.

"There is gold in the river for anyone who isn't afraid of a little hard work," said L. W. Huff, who has been engaged
