Bluebird Extraordinary

MOTHER O' MINE

In this great picture there is no spectacle attempted. The true-to-life, simple, homely story of a mother and son is told in a straightforward, unpretentious manner. The character, most dear to all, is there, in Ruby "Ma" Fayette, who portrays the part of the mother. You will find an exemplification of your mother—your mother as you like to remember her.

There's one man "OVER THERE" WHO IS FIGHTING FOR YOU

There is a purely personal reason why you are deeply concerned in the black band that crosses the map in northeastern France.

Somewhere along that deadly maze of trenches a strong-hearted, manly soldier is fighting for you, fighting for you just as truly as if he were attacking a desperado in your own home who was attempting your life. In fact he is fighting in your place—offering his life for your liberty, and that of posterity.

Visualize him. Get his image fixed in your mind and his spirit of sacrifice in your soul. You will then better appreciate your duty to him and be a better citizen for it.

You are one of these citizens of whom he is a direct representative on the battle line. Are you loyal to him? What are you doing for him? If he is man enough to fight for us over there, we must be men enough to work for him over here. We want him to have everything he needs, regardless of cost and this means ships, guns, munitions, food, clothing, hospitals, and endless supply of comrades-in-arms. Above all, he must have our moral and financial support.

If we are worthy of him we will save for him, sacrifice for him, and give for him without hesitancy and without stint. If he can afford to fight for us on the battle field, we can afford to fight for him in the grain field and in every other field of effort that will aid him.

Keep him in mind. Stand by him. Be worthy of him. We must share in
