OTTAWA

A Liberal M. P. Keenly Griticizes the Militia Management.

Says the Skeleton System is Not a Success in the Rural Districts.

Why Was Lord Dundonald's Annual Report Suppressed by the Minister? Leader of the Opposition Has Only Good Words for the Commanderin-Chief.

OTTAWA, July 2.—The feeling prevailing in the country that the Canadian militia force has been improving during the last few years will be discouraged by the statements made by Col. Thompson, the liberal member for Haldimand, and Monck, in a speech in the commons on militia matters. Col. Thompson is a very strong party man, but he is also an enthusiastic officer whose interest in the militia overshadowed his interest in the government and he has exposed many bad features in the admi nistration of the militia department. If we are to pass He considered it discouraging to find judgment on the evidence submitted that with three-quarters of a million by Col. Thompson, the decision must dollars more than were spent some be that the militia department is one years ago, the militia force is on the of the most mismanaged branches of verge of collapse. The government, inthe administration. Parliament has stead of proposing a freak navy and always dealt liberally with the militia embarking on wild-cat defence since the liberals came to power, but schemes, should lend its every energy instead of the millions of dollars be- to developing a general scheme of iming spent to advantage, the force has perial defence, which would result in short time, if existing conditions prevail, it will become little more than a had not fallen on deaf ears, and he militia in name. The Canadian militia force is organtzed on what is known as the skeleton system. On a war footing a company system the ordinary company consists of 3 officers, 6 non-commissioned officers and 36 men. The idea is to have imber of men available in case of untrained recruits. The skeleton sysnot a success. In the camp at Niagaraon-the-Lake this year one company energy. Lord Dundonald is doing his best to clear out the dry or from the was represented by 2 officers, 8 nonwas represented by 2 officers, 5 noncommissioned officers and 2 men, one commissioned officers and 2 men, one the cook it must have been hard for the officers to assume a commanding appearance with such a scarcity of material to command and it was not surprising that they left for ne disgusted with the Canadian militia. Col. Thompson declares that many cases instead of a skeleton force being turned out, only "the shadow of a skeleton of a skeleton' appears in camp. Men who are en thusiastic militiamen soon become dis-gusted with this kind of thing and the next year in camp finds them miss

Another regrettable feature noticeable about militia camps in Ontario this year, was the extreme ages of the men serving. In the ranks were some who had served in the Fenian Raid and others who should have been at home with their mammas. However, there is absolutely no choice and officers are compelled to take the material Col. Thompson thinks that the only solution of the difficulty lies n an increase of the daily pay from 50 cents to $1.00. The govern promised to take the matter into conideration and it would not be surprising if the supplementary estimates contain a vote for this purpose.

But apart from the willingness of the government to meet the wishes of Col. Thompson and those who supported him, there is a very serious question before the public. It is well known that Lord Dundonald's annual report was for some reason or other suppressed. Parliament has been re-fused access to that document on the ground that it is confidential. It is the general opinion that the report is confidential for the simple reason that it calls attention to many defects in the administration of the militia department. Since he came to Canada, Lord Dundonald has suceeded in carrying out many reforms, but he has been unable to impress the government with the necessity of instituting others which are quite as necessary Persons in the militia department who were in the habit of tramping on the corns of General O'Grady Haley found a different proposition in Lord Dundonald, and some of those high in authority were given to understand that the present commander in chief would stand no nonsense. There is would stand no nonsense. There is reason to believe that Lord Dundonald aursued just such a course in writing his report to the minister. Col. Thompson has succeeded in doing what Lord Dundonald failed to do and has brought to the attention of the country some of the cases in which utter mismanagement has characterized the militia department and before the session is over Sir Frederick Borlien will doubtless be compelled to explain to the commons the "whys and wherefores" of the situation.

Col. Thompson stirred up such a formet's nest that Frank Oliver, the independent representative of Alberts, was moved to come to the defence of the department. He accused the opposition of endeavoring to make polireason to believe that Lord Dundonald tical capital out of the situation in-stead of trying to aid the minister in solving the question. The opposition, during the past three years, have given the government many valuable hints as to how Canada should be governed, but there is no reason why they should assume responsibility for the neglect of the minister of militia. The conservative party have always made it a point to refrain from undue criticism of the militia estimates. They have invariably given Sir Frederick Borden support in all the reforms he has broached, and when Mr. Oliver accused them of lack for supports. cused them of lack of sympathy with the citizens soldiers of Canada, he is probably thinking of the liberal party, which, when in the opposition, threw every possible obstacle in the path of he then minister of militia

The opposition are selzed of the importance of maintaining efficiency among the rural militia. It is an important and integral part of the force, and n strength it overshadows the city ons. Mr. Bourassa and others f his stripe would wipe out the rural militia if it is to cost mere money to keep it at its present strength. The he integrity of Canada, Mr. Clarke declared in ringing tones that we were not living here on sufferance, notwithstanding what had been said by some of the liberal speakers. "We are here, and we are here to stay and we are going to maintain this country at all times and at all hazards," declared Mr. Clarke. When the house was told that the militia force of this country is only the shadow of a skeleton, he thought it was high time to pay more attent to the administration of militia affairs than has been done during the three or four years. It had been said that in the event of Canada's territory being attacked we would have to look to the United States for protection, but Mr. Clarke is confident that he will never live to see the day when the same protection which is accorded to refused to Canada.

The member for West Toronto called attention to the large increase asked for in the militia estimates of this year. ing. Mr. Clarke hoped that his appeal was supported by the leader of the op-position, who declared that there was fuse to vote all the money necessary will have no excuse to offer next year isted in the Niagara camp this year. a man of wide experience and untiring he could get money enough. energy. Lord Dundonald is doing his officers have been in the past, the militia force will become little short of a farce. In the good work let us wish him every success and trust that our soldiers may never again have to be held up to ridicule in the Canadian
