L'Etete
Miss Viola M. Williamson, L'Etete, N. B., writes:
"I suffered much from nerve trouble — was all run down and had all the usual symptoms — loss of appetite, weak, sensitive to light and sound, stomach trouble, headaches, etc. After taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, along with the Kidney-Liver Pills, I am able to work with renewed strength and vigor, and feel that I should add my testimony as to its wonderful curative powers. I am not able to say enough in praise of these medicines and shall always recommend them to sick and suffering humanity. I have taken, in all, about 15 boxes of Nerve Food, and am well satisfied with what it has done for me."

Muniac
Mrs. Walter Wright, Muniac, N. B., writes:
"I suffered for about six years with stomach trouble described by the doctor as indigestion. I was constantly distressed in the pit of the stomach, so bad at times as to cause vomiting. I had very severe headaches and was also much run down when I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. The use of four boxes completely cured me and I want to express my appreciation of this medicine. My husband was cured of a bad case of piles by the use of Dr. Chase's Ointment."

Albert
Mrs. George T. Tingley, Albert, N. B., writes:
"Will you please allow me the privilege of giving my experiences with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food? I was for a long time in a very nervous, run-down condition, and much depressed in spirits. I suffered a great deal at times, and it was four or five years before I fully discovered what the real trouble was. The least noise would irritate me, and at times I felt as though I certainly would go crazy. I took various medicines recommended me and consulted different doctors, but to no effect. A friend advised me to begin the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food at once. I complied with the request by procuring the medicine at the earliest convenience, and can truly testify today to the great benefits I received therefrom. I was able to see a marked change in my condition before I had finished the use of two boxes. I kept up the treatment, however, until I had taken about a dozen boxes, and now feel safe in saying that I am cured of nervousness. I am entirely relieved of those terrible feelings I used to have, and cannot too highly speak of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, which has done so much for me. I shall ever be ready to testify to the merits of this wonderful remedy, and gladly recommend it to all who suffer as I did, feeling sure it will give them quick and permanent relief."

Balmoral
Madame Joseph Le Belle, Balmoral, N. B., writes:
"I was paralyzed for five years and during that time was treated by two doctors without obtaining much benefit. When I read in Dr. Chase's Almanac how people were being cured by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, I immediately sent for some and began its use.
"I can now say that I have been completely cured by using this treatment and many of my friends, hearing of the remarkable results obtained in my case, have since begun the use of this medicine. I am so gratified at being cured after suffering so long that I never tire of telling people about my remarkable experience with Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

At this season almost everybody is in need of restorative treatment to keep up energy and vigor and to maintain health, strength and vitality. Everywhere people are talking about Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, because it seems to be exactly what is required in the great majority of cases to restore the run-down human system. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.75, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co. Maxwell
Mrs. Robert Bustard, Maxwell, York Co., N. B., writes:
"I can say that Dr. Chase's Nerve Food entirely cured me of what I believe was the beginning of locomotor ataxia or paralysis. My nerves were very bad and at night I could not sleep at all, nor could I control my arms or legs. They seemed to fairly jerk me off the bed.
"For six months I was this way and cannot describe what I suffered, but now I am entirely cured, thanks to Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is a pleasure to recommend this great medicine to anyone suffering as I did from nervous disease."

Parleeville
Mr. Edmund E. Perkins, Parleeville, N. B., writes:
"It gives me great pleasure to state that I have used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with the most gratifying results. I was greatly broken down in health three years ago, and in a very weakened condition. I tried all the celebrated doctors and despaired of ever getting better. Finally, however, I began taking Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and in six months I had gained twenty pounds and felt just as well as I ever had. I can never fail to speak in the highest terms of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, as I never expected to look so well or feel so strong again."
("Declared before me in the town of Sussex, Kings Co., N. B., this 20th day of November, 1917.—H. W. Folkins, Police Magistrate.")

St. Francois
Mrs. Xavier Albert, St. Francois, N. B., writes:
"My daughter, Imelda, was troubled for four years with nervousness. Almost every night, she would take nervous convulsions. We took her to a doctor, but he did not do her any good. Finally we began to use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and gradually the convulsions were less and less frequent, until they disappeared altogether. It was two years ago that we began the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and six boxes completely cured her. We are very grateful for what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has done for her."

St. John
Mrs. S. M. Barton, 34 Adelaide St., St. John, N. B., writes:
"For over fifteen years I was afflicted with spells which were of exactly the same nature as epileptic fits. My body would twitch all over, my hands would close, then I would get rigid and become unconscious. I used to have these spells as often as every two weeks, and they would leave me with terrible pains in my head, lasting two or three days. I would be so weak and melancholy that life was a drag to me. I suffered terribly, and although consulting several doctors, received no results from their treatment. I read in the newspapers of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and noticed that it had cured cases similar to mine, so I commenced using it, along with an occasional Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I could see in a short time that this treatment was helping me, so I continued using it for some time. The result was a perfect cure, for I have had none of those spells for the last three years. I have five of a family, do all my own work, and feel real well. If this letter is of any use to you, you are at perfect liberty to use it for the benefit of others."

FRANCE STIRRED OF TREASON UP AGAINST

Publication of "Accusation" Will be Tried Height Which Defendant Seek

(New York Herald.) Paris, Nov. 23.—One week from day the electors of the arrondissement of Mameas et le Mans, in the Department of the Sarthe, decide, whether Joseph Pierre Marie Auguste Caillaud, formerly President of the Council, now in prison on a charge of infidelity for a premature and dishonouring peace with Germany, is to be returned to the Chamber of Deputies, for which he announced his candidacy on October 24.

Interest in the forthcoming election has been heightened in the last days by the fact that the indictment or "act of accusation" which the Senate has prepared against him has been made public. The trial itself is set for January 14 next, before the High Court of the French Senate. Embracing more than 10,000 words and signed by Thomas Lescouvé, a member of the Cour de Cassation, the "accusation" is a revelation of personal familiarity only with American styles in jurisprudence. It reads like a condensed novel or an article in a Sunday newspaper rather than a weighty legal document upon which France has its case against its former Premier. Its style rivals the best orations of Demosthenes. Nowhere are there any "deposes," and only a few of the familiar "sais." The "accusation" is developed with all the care that is developed with all the care that an orator would put to a three-hour speech—strong and weak charges fully placed for best effect, slight questions occurring when the main becomes involved, and summarizing the important points found when made. The peroration alone lacks the power of an orator, for in a weighty mouthful of a sentence it sums up the case as follows:—
"The above named is accused of infidelity since his declaration of war, 1914, 1915, 1916 and 1917, either France or in foreign countries, attempted against the interior security of the State; by manoeuvres, intrigues, intelligence, with the enemy, to favor the enterprises of the latter toward France or her allies, warring the common enemy, the nation of which would also favor the advance of the enemy armies—crimes which are punishable by Articles 77, 79 of the penal code, 205 and 64 of the code military justice."

Strange to American Lawyers
What seems most strange to an American reader are the arguments which recur again and again in what is called upon under American law a mere statement of evidence. Time again the French prosecutor recites several circumstances, and from these endeavors to draw conclusions, direct or otherwise. And if he wishes to emphasize a certain point he does not hesitate to print as many as the exclamation points after his sentences. Again, the accusation is not stick to the four years preceding the declaration of war, but rather saying so, but at times castra reference to the accused by reference to his conduct during the Moroccan campaign between France and Germany, 1911.

Articles from the French and the man press conversations with citizens and even the reports spout out by the family servants are used in the accusation against Mr. Caillaud as well as the evidence of his own actions. The whole case against the erstwhile Premier is outlined in the opening paragraphs of the indictment, which charges as follows:—
"When, since the first days of war and during the duration of war all the governments which succeeded each other in France agreed on the same programme, which was the vital obligation for our country, carry on by the force of arms the national defence until the surrender of the enemy, Mr. Caillaud, French politician whom Germany posed to the men who represented the policy of France and who was Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, to base most serious hopes to bring our country to accept the conditions of 1911."
