NFU boycott of Kraft spreading

Regina (CUP) - The boycott against Kraftco Corporation gained momentum last week as members of the National Farmers' Union Picketed grocery chain stores in major prairie centres and in the Peace River country of Alberta.

The purpose of the picketing was to persuade consumers to boycott Kraft products thus helping dairy producers in their battle for collective bargaining.

Kraft has been chosen as the target of the boycott because it is the largest corporation in the food-marketing field in Canada.

In Regina, 52 picketers covered ten stores on Saturday. The Co-op and Safeway allowed the picketers -- mainly female members of the NFU -- to stand inside their buildings and distribute material, however Loblaws and Dominion would not allow them to enter.

In Edmonton, 150 picketers covered 14 stores but weren't allowed to enter any. In Saskatoon 125 picketers covered 14 stores.

Picketers reported favourable response from consumers, and clerks at some stores told them sales of Kraft products were noticeably down.

NFU locals in Saskatchewan plan to picket grocery stores in smaller prairie centres in the next few weeks and to distribute boycott material. Similar picketing has already taken place in Ontario and boycott activity will move next to B.C. and P.E.I.

At an evalutation session following the Saskatchewan picketing the Saskatchewan Federation of Labour promised the NFU its full support in the boycott. The Regina Labour Council and the Regina Students' Union have also voiced support of the ban.

National co-ordinator of the campaign, Don Kossick, has discounted stories and editorials appearing in the commercial media that the boycott is labour union members out of work. Workers at Kraft plants are not unionized, and the NFU has lifted the boycott against products from two of Kraft's subsidiaries, Sealtest and Dominion Dairies, because they are unionized.

Kossick said farm union and labour union people are united in this boycott because Kraft is their common enemy. The unorganized workers at Kraft plants who cannot bargain collectively to obtain a living wage are in the same position as the farmers who are at the mercy of international corporations like Kraft or Carnation who use provincial marketing agencies to set prices and quotas.

Kossick said consumers would also benefit if farmers gain the right to collective bargaining since this would put some controls on such international

New rules written for students' protection

General Faculties Council Monday formalized another bit of bureaucracy which is intended to give students a fair

In a boring debate, GFC set up a procedure by which students can appeal academic grievances which have to do with promotions, failures, graduations, and transfers from one faculty to another.

The highlight of the afternoon occurred when Students' Union Academic Vice-President Dave Biltek moved that the faculty appeal committee be composed of half students and half faculty. Various faculty members felt that there would not be enough students to serve on the committee and that individual faculty councils could not be bound by GFC requirements in this area. They also felt there would be a conflict of interest if students were to judge their own peers and that students would lack the competence to make the serious decisions academic appeals require.

Biltek's motion was defeated. However, a subsequent motion merely requiring that some (or only one) students sit on the committee was passed.

The substance of Moday's debate required each faculty to formalize regulations regarding transfers, promotions, graduations, and withdrawals. In many cases, faculties already have these regulations.

Each faculty will also set up an appeals committee, which will have students on it. To launch an appeal, the student asks his dean for an explanation of his situation. If the explanation is insatisfactory, the student asks the dean for an appeal hearing by the Faculty Appeal Committee.

Their decision may be appealed to the GFC Academic Appeals Committee. This is the final authority on this matter on

It is significant to note what GFC did not debate at this time. They did not discuss appeals concerning individual courses, and appeals concerning denial of admission to the university.

The next regular meeting of GFC will be held November 29.

Great staff

The Gateway needs more staff. We have expanded to 16 pages, and are anticipating more entensive and intensive coverage of many campus affairs. With this objective in mind, we are looking for staff to cover General Faculties Council and its committees, student, faculty organizations, students' union organizations, and campus issues.
