Churches were rung at intervals during day, now revived and celebrated in the spirit of bygone times.

The Anniversary of the Gunpowder Piot was observed at Bristol on Tuesday with more than usual earnestness. The recent aggression of the Church of Rone tended to evoke an inwonted demonstration of Protessant feeting, and there was more than an average number of "Guys" in the street, and a more general display of bonfires and fireworks than has been seen in that city for many years past. At the Cathedral and many of the parochial Churches Divine Service was held and Sermons preached in reference to the nature of the Festival and the historical incident upon which it is founded. The congregations were large, that at the Cathedral comprising the Right Rev. the Lord Bishop of Gluscater and Bristol, asceral Members of the Town-Council and Magisterial bodies, and a number of the Clergy and principal Laity. The Anniversary Sermon was preached by the Rev. Canon Harvey, who referred in distinct terms to the recent Papel Bull, and the institution of a Cardinal Archbiship of Westminister, as evidence of the unchanged spirit and ambition of, the See of Ronce, and who entered appon a scriptural and historical disquisition to show that the Pope has no cla m to the pretensions he makes as supreme head of Christendom, and that for first the six centuries of the Chu ch no such power or authurity was claimed by the Bishop of Rome.

Our correspondent at Exeter says:—It has been a custom much honored by observance in the City of Exeter, as the Fffth of November of every year comes round, for the citizens to display a large number of brilliant rockets, and to illuminate the ancient Cathedral by means of a huge bonfire. Occasionally persons obnoxious to local popular feeling have been represented by effigies, and burnt on the Protestant pile. A week or two since, and there was want of a fit subject; but the recent Papal Bull supplied the deficiency; and from the collections made, something unusually grand was expected. About £20 or £30 was easily raised in the city, and this sum was devoted to a great Anti-Papist demonstration. The morning was duly ushered in by the incessant firing of cannon, and expectation was excited by the appearance of large placards on the walls. *November 5.1850.
