A North Side Fad.

However competent a housemaid may be, she must w ar a "uniform" if she de-sires employment in the North Side families of Chicago. No reason is given why this fad is limited to one section of that city. This outfit consists of a blue and white cotton dress, white apron and white cap. The general effect is some-what similar to the costume worn by trained nurses. For the different grades of work there are certain styles. The cook must wear a dress, apron and cap of an entirely different design from that set aside for the bousemaid, and the fabric designated for her must have a differ ent stripe. It is considered a hardship by some of the servants that the girl must supply the uniform out of her wages, but when she registers at an agency her chances of employment are small, it is said, unless she states her willingness to provide the dress.—New York Tribune.

Ill-health "puts the shutters up" in many an honest man's business, and there are thousands of cases on record where the only seeming pow-er on earth to take them down again is South American Nervine.

"I was completely prostrated with Nervous Debility. I had to give up business—doctors only helped me temporarily. I was the most discouraged man alive when I started taking South American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had American Nervine, but the splendid cures I had read gave me hope, and I had not taken half a bottle before I found relief. I took twelve bottles, but am cured."—F. Errett, Merrickville. 2 Sold by J. W. McLaren, Chatham.

childless home is a cheerless home. The maternal instinct exists in every woman, and when it is ungratified she is deprived of much of the happiness of life. It often happens that childlessness is due to some cause which can be removed, and often is removed by the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Keeping Up Appearances. A New Hampshire woman who takes summer boarders occasionally employs as "extra help" the daughter of a neighboring farmer. This young woman is in constant fear that she will be "snubbed by the city folks," and her ideas as to their andards of superiority are sometimes amusing.

One evening one of the boarders went into the dining room to speak to the landlady, who was taking her supper in company with her sensitive "help." The girl began to eat sponge cake, then took some pound cake, and was at work on a slice of fruit cake when the boarder at last left

A Certain Bull's-Eye. A sporting gentleman who has the reputation of being a very bad shot, recently invited some of his friends to dine with him. Before dinner he showed them a target painted on the barn door, with a bullet in the bull's eye. This he claimed to have shot at 1,000 yards' distance. As nobody pelieved him, he offered to bet the price of an oyster supper on it. On one of his guests accepting the wager he produced two witnesses, whose veracity could not be ques tioned, to prove his assertion. they both claimed that he did as he said, he won the bet. At dinner the loser asked him how he had made such a wonderful shot. The host an-"I shot the bullet at the door at a lvory Carving the ivory carvers of this country do ittle of nothing in the East Indian or Japanese manner, nor do they occupy emselves with figure work. Their chief employment is in producing decorative toilet and stationery articles. The carvers of ivory use much the same tools as the wood carvers, but of lighter and more delicate make. The work is extremely tedious and laborious. The carving is usually done in low relief, and the subjects are such as are suitable to this treatment-Persian designs in delicate curves, the cactus, with some varieties of palms, and hints caught from those marvelously simple but artistic carvings of the Alaskan Indians. Ine ivory is stained slightly so as to bring out the design and is permitted to absorb moisture, which it readily does, in order to give it that fresh look common in newly manufactured articles of ivory. The art of staining ivory is a secret guarded well by the carvers. Some idea of the cost of ivory carving may be had from the fact that, while a hand mirror framed in plain ivory may be had for $10 or $12, a hirror in carved ivory may cost $190 or more. The small articles in carved ivory cost from $5 to $25, and a toilet set in that material may bring as much as $500.

When Abroad, Speak English. The English speaking tourist who wastes half an hour of time, temper and energy in trying to make some dweller in a foreign land understand his bad French or Spanish only to be shocked at length by some such a question as "Can't you speak English?" is almost as common nowadays as the track walking tragedian. This is a little story of his experience in Spain, as told by "The Dominie" in The Ladies'

Home Journal: "One day we all entered a little shop in Madrid, and the captain began to speak in Spanish to the girl who was behind the counter. She failed to understand, and so he tried again. Once and again he tried and tried and summoned up his whole voca last in his attempt to make his meaning plain by illustration he drew from his pocketcase a card and with it stroked his chin.
