The special grace of baptism is regeneration, or new birth : St Paul couples baptism and regeneration together when he says that we are saved "By the washing of regeneration." It is most who drew up our office for Infant Bap tism, carefully distinguished, as we must to day, between regeneration and conversion. Both are necessary. In baptism God chooses us as His and this, with the gracious design that His goodness may lead us to repentance children, and elects us out of the world : His goodness may lead us to repentance so that we may by voluntary act, choose that we may be voluntary act, choose that we may be said, with but a poor "Scarcely," he said, with but a poor "You have every portion. We must not deny the sacrimental benefit—nor lose sight of the spiritual renovation. For this we pray in that admirable collect for Christmas Day, which Archbishop Cranmer wrote, "Grant that we, being regenerate and made Thy children," (this is past, accomplished in Holy Baptism)

"You know you must count me one," he said in quiet, intense earnestness. "You know how I love you, Theo. Everything I say and do shows you, though I have never told you. No it is unsaive than the critical way, you have something to begin on, the grace of God given to them in bapitism. Without this Christian nutrure would be hopeless.

Some people look on their children as ehildren of wrath: they hope that in some reviyal season they may be converted, and that thus their spiritual: life may begin; but at present they regard them as destitute of all spiritual: life. "An important and weighty argument arising from the analogy of the two Adams is omitted. Every child by natural birth is in the first Adam, and as such is an inheritor of a sinful nature. It is absolutely necessary that every child by spiritual birth—regeneration, the blessing of baptism—should be engrafted into Christ, the second Adam, if eternal life is to be high inheritance, for, "As in Adam all die, even so in Christ shall all be made alive."

To the arguments positive and negative from Holy Scripture must be added the witness from Church history, to the practice of the apostles, and to the custom prevailing in the Churches which they founded in Asia, in Europe and in Africa. MR Thos. Morris:—In answer to your enquiry about my White Bronze Monument, I would say that it stands on the sea shore ten feet above high water mark, it is twenty-five feet high, base four feet. It has been ercoted over ten years, and is as good now as when placed in position; it has not been effected in the least by either heat or cold; no moss or foreign substances gather on it as do on marble; it is as clear and bright as when new, and (in my opinion) White Bronze is superior to either marble or granite for monumental purposes, and I have no hesitation in recommending it to others.
