CHIGNECTO POST AND BORDERER

SACKVILLE, N. B., JUNE 22, 1882.

The Fallen.

The defeat along the whole Grit line has been nowhere more complete and overwhelming than that of Sir Albert Smith in this County of Sir Albert Smith in the interests of the country actually require it. For there is no state. of Sir Albert Smith in this County on Taesday. In congratulating Westmorland in falling into line with the party of Progress and adopting a policy that will have an important and beneficial influence on her future, we have nothing to say in disparagement of the defeated. We are not the one in No. 2 17 58 between classes ought to be very six of the country actually accept with feated. We are not the one to Weldford, North vaunt in the moment of victory over the prestrate form of the van-Acadianville quished. We have to do with the future; not with the past. Sir Albert Smith already, we believe, belongs to the past and gone, in active politics. In his defeat, he can fly for consolation to the records of the thirty years in which he enjoyed the ungrudging trust of this constituency, to such evidences as he can find of having left marks upon the country of his usefulness. The man whose sun goes down in defence of some political principle—some cherished right—often carries with him the cordial sympathies of his opponents. It is unfortunate for Sir Albert, that he is relegated to private life without the consolation of having fallen indefence of some principle and without carrying with him the personal good will of the great majority of the people, a result owing to the th year after year of personal resentments, gathered up and treasured through many conflicts.
The people of Westmorland have more than a quarter of a century divided on any political principle or issue, so much as in the party lines of Smith and Asti Smith, consequence of which bitter partizan feuds have been engendered. Whether SIR ALBERT is to blame for this state of things or his opponents, it would be ungenerous for us to say, but we do affirm that he could never retain friends amongst his political opponents; on the contrary, he has not been unwilling to treat them as personal enemies and as such to be driven to the wall and crushed. Men who feel they have been persecuted, are alive to past injuries and whose flesh yet quivers with the iron hoof of the victor trampling fallen foe. allen foe.

The folly of raising personal issues
Harvey,
Coverdale, instead of political ones was demon-strated on Tuesday and we trust that in the political battles in the future Eigin, of this constituency, the public issues of the day will be tried out on their merits, irrespective of the personality of the individuals who stand for them. In that higher and purer region of political warfare, men representing all shades of belief can Majority, still be cordially friends, the triumphant candidate will have no reason for shame and heart burnings vanity and the vanquished none

As one misses, an old land mark that has long met the eye, and re- Charlotte, grets the recessity that leads to its Gloucester, removal as a cumberer of the soil so King's, we feel the loss of our late representative. The interest Digby of the rich, the poor, of the capitaof the rich, the poor, of the capitalists and the laborer, of manufacturer | Halifax and the mechanic, of farmer and farm laborer, were against him. In Inverness the face of this it is only surprising King's that Sir Albert got the number of votes he did, and it speaks well for Pictou his personal popularity and the skill Queen's nis personal popularity and the will gueen's in canvassing of himself and his agents. It is, of course, true that not all the methods employed by Sir Albert are such as should meet with approval. It is always a pity that other considerations than public king's interest should be held before voters. Still, it is doubtful if so Queens many electors were purchased by Sir Albert's agents this year as in 1878. It could not be done.
