the America's Cup. Facts About

New York, July 15.—(By the Associated Press.)—It may be interesting at this time both to yachtsmen and to a great many who are not acquainted with this form of sport to read a few facts in connection with this historic yachting trophy, the America's Cup.

To begin with the America's Cup at first was not an international trophy.
In fact it had no significance other than being a prize offered by the Royal Yacht Squadron for a race around the Isle of Wight, England, which was open to all nations. In August 1881, the schooner yacht America, owned by Commander John L.
Stevens and four other members of the New York Yacht Club, won this race and the cup became their property.
Six years later, Commodore Stevens and his associates conveyed the prize to the New York Yacht Club in trust as a perpetual international trophy which has since been known as the America's Cup, taking its name from the schooner yacht which won it in British waters.

The first race for the America's Cup, as an international prize, was held on August 8, 1870, over the regular course of the New York Yacht Club in New York's lower bay. The challenging boat was Cambria, owned by James Ashbury, of the Royal Yacht Squadron, England, and the cup was defended by practically the whole fleet of the New York Yacht Club. That, however, was the only race in which the challenger had to sail against a fleet and the only contest in which the issue was decided by a single race.
Cambria, by the way, finished tenth in that event while the old America finished fourth, the race being won by Magia, the yacht Idler finishing second.

In all there have been twelve contests for the Cup, in the second of which Mr. Ashbury challenged with the schooner Livonia and the New York Yacht Club agreed to defend the trophy with only one boat in the race. The 1871 contest was the best four out of seven races. Livonia won a single race owing to the steering gear of the defender Columbia breaking down. Only twice since that day, October 19, 1871, has a challenging yacht crossed the finish line ahead of the defending boat.
On September 10, 1895, Valkyrie III, after following the defender finished one minute and sixteen seconds ahead of the American boat, and on October 4, 1901, Shamrock II, finished two seconds ahead of Columbia, but lost to the defender by virtue of conceding 42 seconds time allowance.

In the races of 1876, 1881, 1886, and 1887, the contests were decided on the basis of the best two out of three races. From 1893 to the last race in 1903 the agreement was for the best three out of five races.

On only three occasions has one of the competing yachts for the America's Cup failed to finish. In the last race of the 1895 contest, Valkyrie III, withdrew immediately after crossing the starting line. On October 17, 1899, Shamrock lost her topmast and withdrew in the second race of that year and on September 3, 1903, Shamrock III, did not finish in the final race of the series as she was already beaten and had nothing to gain by continuing.
Just once in the history of the cup races a competing yacht has been disqualified. This was in the second race of the series of 1895 when Lord Dunraven's Valkyrie III, was disqualified for fouling Defender.

The fastest time ever made in a race for the America's Cup is credited to the old schooner Columbia. On October 18, 1871, the day before she was defeated by Livonia, she sailed 20 miles leeward and windward 40 miles in all in 3 hours, 1 minute and 33 seconds. It must not be inferred, however, that the Columbia was the fastest yacht that ever sailed for the cup.
There is no method of determining the relative speed of two or more boats other than by the results of a race in which they sail together.
When Columbia made the fast time referred to undoubtedly the conditions of wind, weather and sea were most favorable.

The fastest time ever made on a 15 mile course straight away and return, 30 miles in all, is credited to the defender Vigilant. In a race on October 13, 1893, she covered the course in 3 hours, 24 minutes and 29 seconds.

The fastest time in a triangular race for the cup was made by Columbia on October 3, 1881, the time for the distance, thirty miles, being 3:30:18.

In the first three contests for the cup the challenging boats were schooners and the defenders for the second and third also were schooners. In all other contests, however, the yachts have been sloops or cutters.

The smallest challenger in the history of the cup races was Atlanta, Ontario, Canada, in 1881. She measured 64 feet on the water line and was the first sloop to appear in a contest.

The first yacht ever built especially to defend the trophy was Pocahontas.
This was in 1881. Prior to that year the New York Yacht Club had selected from its fleet the yacht considered to be best suited for the purpose. Pocahontas did not come up to expectations and was rejected in favor of Mischief, one of the finest sloops of the fleet. Since that year, however, new designs have been built for every contest.

Jam Making in the Beginning.

To-day when the scarcity and high cost of sugar seems likely to interfere with the jam-making carnival, which usually reigns supreme in many homes, during the summer season, it is interesting to recall that jam-making only began in the eighteenth century. In Gait's "Annals of the Parish," in which the Rev. Micah Bal-whidder quaintly chronicles the occurrences of his district from 1769 downwards, the following entry occurs relative to an important epoch in the parochial history:—"I should not, in my notations, forget to mark a new luxury that got in among the commonality at this time. By the opening of new roads and the traffic thereon with carts and carriers, and by our young men that were sailors going to the Clyde and sailing to Jamaica and the West Indies, heaps of sugar and coffee-beans were brought home, while many, among the kailstocks and cabbages in their yards, had planted groset and berry bushes; which two things happening together, the fashion to make jam and jelly, which hitherto had been only known in the kitchens and con-fectionaries of the gentry, came to be introduced into the clachan.

Wedding Rings Not Universal.

The ring, having no end, has always been regarded as a token of unending love. The Jews used the wedding ring long before the Christian era. The husband gave his signet ring, as a duplicate of it, to his bride, signifying that he shared with her his authority.
Among the Egyptians a betrothal ring of iron was worn by both man and woman signifying the mutual sacrifice of liberty. Gold money used to circulate in ring form in Egypt in early times, and at marriage the Egyptian placed one of these pieces of ring money on his wife's finger, showing that he shared his wealth with her.
The use of the wedding ring is almost universal, but in the country districts around Cadiz no ring is used. After the ceremony the groom shifts the flowers in his wife's hair from left to right, for to wear a flower over the right ear is to proclaim one's self a wife.

Bathtubs Prohibited.

The first bathtub in the United States was installed in Cincinnati December 20, 1842, by Adam Thompson. It was made of mahogany and lined with sheet lead. At a Christmas party he exhibited and explained it and four guests later took a plunge. The next day the Cincinnati paper devoted many columns to the new invention and it gave rise to violent controversy. Some papers designated it as an epicurean luxury, others called it undemocratic, as it lacked simplicity in its surroundings. Medical authorities attacked it as dangerous to health. The controversy reached other cities and in more than one place medical opposition was reflected in legislation.

In 1843 the Philadelphia common council considered an ordinance prohibiting bathing between November 1 and March 15 and this ordinance failed of passage by two votes. During the same year the legislature of Virginia laid a tax of $30 a year on all bathtubs that might be set up. In Sale—Jr1214

Hartford, Providence, Charleston and Wilmington, special and very heavy water rates were laid on persons who had bathtubs. Boston in 1845 made bathing unlawful except on medical advice, but the ordinance was never enforced and in 1862 it was repealed.
In 1860 a bathtub was installed at the White House.
