Popular Stars in Contrasting Picture Roles.

Rodolph Valentino and Wanda Hawley Are Lovers in "The Young Rajah"

A splendid contrast is afforded by Wanda Hawley and Rodolph Valentino, leading woman and star of "The Young Rajah," a Paramount picture coming to the Majestic Theatre today. Miss Hawley is a blonde of the Dresden shepherdess variety; Valentino is, of course, dark and Latin in appearance. They make a very pleasing picture as lovers in this strange screen tale.

A moment of brilliancy, a mad tumult, a riot of color, of naked blades, of falling figures, of victors triumphant upon the throne they have usurped—that's your tiny revolution in the small Indian state.

A night of storm and fury in New England—and an old couple ready for bed; a knocking at the door; two dark men with a cliff standing dripping upon the threshold; jewels poured from a bag; stacks of banknotes—a farewell and a small and miserable Hindu lad who strives to hide his tears at parting from the only friends he has known—that's the story of the adoption.

The gift of prevision—he sees his own death—his own meeting with the girl he learns to love; but he is rescued by faithful retainers in the nick of time. Then he sees in a vision the marriage of himself and his beloved in Hindu fashion—with all the wealth of gorgeous color and ceremony.

The vision of the battle in the clouds in the years of ancient Hindu history, when Arjuna, commanded by Krishna, slays father and brother for the good of the race, is one of the most striking things ever portrayed on the screen; the same for the heavenly meeting between Arjuna and Vishnu. And by clever double exposure, Valentino plays both roles.

It is a picture that will repay a visit to the theatre if only to study the possibilities of the screen. But there is also good acting on the part of Valentino, of Wanda Hawley, Charles Ogle, Fanny Midgley, Pat Moore, Robert Ober, Edward Jonson Joseph Swickard, and others.

Wedding Bells.

REID—BASTOW.

On Wednesday, September 11th, at the Cathedral of St. John the Baptist a very pretty wedding was solemnized, the contracting parties being Miss Winifred Reid, fourth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Reid, this city and Mr. William A. Bastow, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Bastow of this city. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Canon Holt. The bride, who was daintily attired in a gown of ivory crepe-de-chêne with overdrapes of silver embroidered net with hat to match and carrying a bouquet of carnations, sweet peas and maiden-hair fern, entered the Church leaning on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Walter Reid and was attended by her sister, Miss Mabel Reid and Miss Marjorie Bastow, sister of the groom.

The bridesmaids were beautifully gowned in sage crepe-de-chêne with black beaver hats and carried bouquets of pink and white asters. The Groom's present to the bride was a handsome pearl lather and to the bridesmaids birthday rings. Following the ceremony, throughout which very appropriate music was rendered by the Organist, Mr. F. J. King, a reception was held at Donovan's where Rev. Canon Holt proposed the health of the bride which was ably responded to by the groom. The groom proposed the health of the bridesmaids and was responded to by Mr. Malcolm Stone, best man. Only the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were present. Mr. and Mrs. Bastow were the recipients of many handsome presents, testifying the esteem in which they are held. Amidst showers of congratulations and good wishes the happy couple left by motor for Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent.
