Public School Teachers Not Fitted to Expound Bible, Says Rev. G. J. Cameron.

Rev. G. J. Cameron, of Toronto, gave an able discourse in Adelaide Street Baptist Church last evening on the subject of "Christian Education." The speaker took the ground that secular education though beneficial to a certain degree, is not enough. Knowledge may be power, but without moral direction it is a power for evil. Mental, moral and physical development is true education. The preacher are moral and physical development is true education. The preacher are moral and physical development is true education. The preacher are moral and physical development is true education. The preacher are moral direction in the grand Saturday afternoon and evening and was well patronized, the rather small audience of the afternoon being more than made up for by the large crowd which filled the theater at night.

"Though "An English Daisy" is ordinary from almost any point of view, it is unique in one particular at least, and that is that it has invaded the sacred bounds of melodrama by introducing a trio of lions around which to work out a plot. moral and physical development is true education. The preacher argued that morality could not be taught without religion. The ten commandments, he with the chief comedian billed for the behind them is the Great place at Ostend, a fashionable of England, and fashionable to account for their violation. The atheist showed his weakness by defyeducation. The Bible, in his view, should not be a text-book in the public the priciple of "soul-liberty" to enall classes. The desire of Russia to get its Black Sea fleet through the Dardanelles recalls the fact that the British fleet passed through the Dardanelles on one occasion and the act brought England and Russia to the verge of hostilities. It was in 1878 that Russia declared war gainst Turkey in consequence of the Bulgarian massacres. The Russians pressed forward to the very suburbs of Constantinople, and in order to pre-TEED investments-Good stocks, paying vent the capture of that city the British fleet passed through the Dardanelles notwithstanding all treaties. 393 Richmond St. TO THE OLD BOYS OF WOODSTOCK

Appeal Made for Help to Build Addition to Hospital

in that City. A number of residents of this city who formerly lived in Woodstock are being asked to assist in the building of an addition to Woodstock Hospital which a public-spirited citizen has offered to furnish as an up-to-date operating room. In addition to the private expense, the addition will cost about $10,000, and as the institution was erected and has been maintained by private subscription, this is a large amount to raise. However, an active canvass has been started in that city and in addition the board has decided to call to their aid the assistance of the "Old Woodstock Boys." whose addresses may be ascertained. Presiden

Eden, of the Trust, in his circular letters says: "We feel that most of them hav pleasant memories of the old town from which they have gone forth. Our idea is to open up a register to be preserved amongst the records of the ho pital, setting forth the name of all the old boys who contribute, together with the names of their parents, when they left Woodstock, their present home, and any other information about themselves they may see fit to furn ish. We feel that the above would make an exceedingly interesting record, and particularly so to any of their descendants who may in the future visit their parents' old home."

There are a number of Woodstock Old Boys living in London, who, no doubt, will add something to this deserving fund. Ottawa, April 25,-The Minister Marine has received a cable from Mr. Little, Canadian agent in the sealing claims controversy, which confirms the report brought back from London recently by Mr. Venning, of the marine department. Mr. Little states that the Russian delegates are prepared to recommand payment of damages for wo of the Canadian vessels seized in Behring Sea. But the Canadian Government do not intend to be tied down by any such proposition, and they will await an official communication from the Russian Government themselves. MAY COMMAND BISLEY TEAM. Ottawa, April 25. Eleut.-Col. Andrew T. Thompson, M. P., has been offered the commandership if the Bisley team. Owing to business reasons, however, he has been obliged to de-cline the honor for the present. It s now said that the choice will fall upon Lieut.-Col.
