Lord St. Leonards is one of the few favored individuals who have enjoyed the grim satisfaction of reading their own biographies. The report that his lordship was dead arose in the most natural manner imaginable. His eldest son, Mr Sugden, died, and the latter's daughter telegraphed to the deceased's brother "Papa is dead," signing the telegram Miss Sugden. Everybody in the metropolis naturally supposed that the sender of the despatch was a maiden daughter of Lord St. Leonards, and the Times and other papers (who keep the obituary notices of distinguished men already written) appeared on the following morning with long articles about the distinguished nobleman.

Their chagrin, when they ascertained that his lordship was still alive, was

The Ritual war continues to distract the clergy of the English Church, and several very disagreeable scenes have occurred between Curates and Rectors who insist upon altering the Ritual and their Congregations. "S. G. O." writes to the Times, explicitly charging Dr Pusey with administering yows of celibacy in two or three cases to young ladies under his direction, and in one case refusing to absolve her at her parents' request from a vow of celibacy taken for two years, or to sanction her marriage even after the expiration of the vow, a refusal which, as she would not marry without his sanction, put an end to the engagement. and she died single. "S. G. O." savs that he will produce his evidence for the satisfaction of the Times if De Pusey denies these interferences with parental authority and the freedom of domestic life. A dividend of 4s. in the pound is announced in the estate of Overend, Gurney & Co., and an order for the resuscitation of the Agra Bank has been obtained. Count von Bismarck made rather an important speech in the Berlin Chamber on the 21st Oct. The subject was Schleswig-Holstein, and the Premier admitted that he accepted the plebiscitum for North Schleswig only to avoid the risk of a war with France. He thought himself that unwilling subjects were no source of strength, but still the vague wording of the clause about Schleswig "allowed Prussia a certain latitude in carrying it out," views. THE GREAT STRIKES!

WILLIAMS CREEK, 3d Feb., 1867 We are in the middle of excitements here again. All Conklin's Gulch has been fresh staked from the bottom almost to the top, on both sides. The United Company made very

There are several other companies in the gulch; some are paying, and some are only commencing.

On Canadian Creek there has been very great excitement, and it has been staked off almost from top to bottom, and you may look out very probably for something of importance shortly in that quarter, as three or four of the companies are nearly down.

Grouse is going on splendidly, and the boys from that quarter are spending their money excessively free.

Quartz is creating considerable excites ment, and they are trying to get a site for the quartz mill for which a company has been got up, but met with considerable difficulty on account of the Bed Rock Flume Company, which claims all the water in the creek above the canyon. There is considerable work going on on the creek, and everything looks like a prosperous season,
