manufactures is concerned, we have about calized the idea of Niagara Falls entertained realized the idea of Niagara Falls entertained by the Frenchman, who candidly thought that the spectacle of the great cataract was, in fact, "pretty good." But in the protection of the farmer's and kindred interests has lain our weak point all along. The enormous "dump" of inferior American flour upon our markets during the last six months ought surely to open our eyes to an understanding of where the weakest point of all in our tariff lies, and where the wrong to curselves is which most urgently requires to be righted. We venture to assert that it is the farmers' turn now; and to hope that the present session

We venture to assert that it is the farmers' turn now; and to hope that the present session of Parliament will yet go upon record as having been remarkable for the attention given to farmers' and kindred interests by the powers that be at Ottawa. The millers' petition, carried by a deputation sent by the meeting held in Toronto on Tuesday, is practically the farmers' petition too, and has to do with agricultural as well as with milling interests. As The World has before pointed out, the two inter-World has before pointed out, the two inter word has bedre pointed out, the two likes-eats lie very close together; and it would be true National Policy for us to do the best we can for both. Strictly speaking, the miller is a manufacturer; but certainly there is none other so called who comes so near to the farmer as he does. And remember that until you have given the miller fair play with his flour, you cannot claim that you have done justice to the farmer on his wheat. Naturally the two no new proposal, by any means, being in fact one of several years' standing. It may be pretty sure is true—that this very question of the flour and wheat duties has actually engaged the attention of the Government during some months past. No valid objection, Touching proposed tariff changes here is an-other objection which we have noticed quite recently in print. Say that ministers are asked to change the duties on any particular article or group of articles. It is found that the changes asked would affect other articles as well; so much that if you begin begin at a new one. At present we will merely point out that changing the wheat and flour duties does not affect any manufactures or the raw materials of manufactures except in some far off and indirect manner. In this case the objection indicated does not apply.

We quite admit that changing the wheat and flour duties would bring up the whole broad question of our commercial relations with the neighboring country. Yes, and very necessary it is that the question of those relations should be brought up, too. At present there is very little reciprocity between the relations are the relations of the relations of passengers carried in each year since July 1, 1876, when the railway was opened as a through trunk line: the two countries; but surely we are not mistaken in saying that Canada gives to the United States a great deal more free trade than she gets in return. And it is The World's contention that is would be Canada's wisdom contention that is would be Canada's wisdom now to withdraw all tariff concessions already made or offers of such and to start with a clean sheet. In this way only can we do ourselves justice. As for offers of Reciprocity we have made enough of them, the Lord knows—now let Brother Jonathan take the floor and offer a few remarks on the subject.

He will very shortly have a new administration in office, an appropriate time, surely, for making a suggestion or two, if he has any to offer. On our side the time favors for doing justice immediately to our own farmers, millers and fruit growers. It is their turn condition of the Canadian Pacific Railway, now; yes, now, even this very session of Parliament. condition of the Canadian Pacific Railway, states that after a critical examination he is pleased to be able to pronounce the road

In the Queen's speech we find a few lines which seem to throw light on the idea of local government entertained by the powers that be in the Old Country. They are werthy of par-incular attention:

My Lords and Gentlemen: Some portions of the bill presented in 1888 for amending local government in England and Wales were laid aside, owing to pressure upon the time of Parliament. From the same cause it was impossible to enter upon the question of local government in Scotland.

Bills upon these matters will be submitted. Early in the season your attention will be asked to measures for the development of the material resources of Ireland and for amending the constitution of the various tribunals having special jurisdiction over real property in Ireland.

The statutes recently passed for the restorain Ireland.

The statutes recently passed for the restora-tion of order and confidence in Ireland have already been attended with salutary results. It has been declared on high authority that, with regard to division of powers in Canada, the control of criminal law rests with the Do-minion, and the control of property law with the provinces. And it seems now as if the Salisbury Government policy leaned towards something not unlike this "at home." There is to be local government in Wales and in Sootland, as well as in England; and England is to have some more of the same by and by. Then there are to be measures proposed for the development of the material resources of Ireland; also with regard to tribunals having special jurisdiction over real property. That means conceding more or less of local control over property law. But as regards criminal law, that is a horse of another color. for the restoration of order and confidence in striking : Ireland have been attended with satisfactory results. Which means that there is to be no giving way of Imperial authority in criminal law, and that Balfour is to be sustained. In the matter of division of powers, it almost looks as if England were imitating Canada; though again it may be said that Canada imi-

To my mind Mr. Gibbs gave the key-note of warning, and so hard did at cut that it brought vengeance on the spot. There is danger, and easy-going Canadians will surely have to bleed to the last cent if the millers are suc-"Sherry Oobbler" writes: "I am not a specially good judge of cold water, except for bathing purposes, and I'm no shemist. In considering the estimates of the London Asylum Mr. Meredith brought up the question of the sanitation of that institution, and expressed the opinion that it was not in a good purchase of supplies for public institutions. He disapproved of the manner in which this department of work is carried on. He said on this question there was a good deal of feeling throughout the country. There was a good deal of work going on that ought not to be tolerated in the purchase of supplies. The hon, gentlemen opposite so long had the money—as much the money of his colleagues on the Opposition benches—in their possession, that they had begun to think it was really their own money, and dealt with it accordingly.

Mr. Wood (Hastings) thought it was a very unfair thing that the supplies should be purchased from political friends. The fair way would be to buy from the chespest man irrespective of any party.

tion is taken on the mountainous sections to guard against danger from earth and rock slides, and the number of casualties from this source last summer was very small. The snow protection in these regions is also extensive and substantial. The officers in charge of operation, who have had several years' experience in the Rocky. Mountains, are of opinion that the road is so fully guarded against snow slides that the service is not likely to be interrupted from this cause. The company are also taking precautions against snow blockades, by the introduction of powerful rotary snow shovels, and it is confidently expected that these machines will be effectual against the way would be to buy from the cheapest man, irrespective of any party.

Mr. Fraser retaliated by a reference to the Dominion Government, and asked the Opposition Leader if he could point to one instance at Ottawa where a dollar's worth had been purchased from a political opponent. That was a much larger field, and that party stood by precisely what their colleagues at Toronto were trying to condemin. A fair ground of complaint would undoubtedly exist, if the Opposition members could show in any given instance that the Government had paid too much by buying from political friends. The members on the Government benches liberally applauded when Mr. Fraser concluded his little speech.

the placing of a Lambeth lamp in front of the entrance to the Association Hall in McGillstreet. The matter was referred to Ald. Moses and Boustaad. The petition of the Society of Stationary Engineers, for a more thorough inspection of steam boilers, was sent on to the Legislation Committee. The sub-committee report re Assistant Chief Davis was handed in by Ald. Moses, the chairman. It declared that the official was perfectly innocent of the charge of drunkenness preferred against him and deserved an honorable acquittal.

The Chairman then read a number of letters from various cities in the States regarding the underground wires, which all went to show that the change was greatly to the benefit of the citizen. Mr. R. L. P. Brown, an American electrical expert, with a strong leaning to the Edison electric light system, was permitted to address the committee on the various qualities of the different lights. He made a bitter attack on the Westinghouse system, claiming that it was dangerous, and that nothing could be done to render it safe. He claimed to have been the first man who had brought to public notice the great advantage of executing criminals by electricity. Mr. Nicholls, of Nicholls & Howland, pressed for some deliverance as to when his company would be allowed to lay their incandescent conduits along the public streets. He was referred to the Board of Works. It was determined to appoint a sub-committee to visit the States, to see the working of the underground system.

In those days on an important stake, when rival facold fashioned American auction pool was the sole means by which the speculator could invest his money than there is now. In those days on an important stake, when rival factions met, tens of thousands were bet where now thousands are deemed ample. But then there was not racing every day, nor for that matter every week or every month. Things have got so now that it is impossible to make one of these old-fashioned plunges. Of course heavy bettors like Mr. M. T. Dwyer may manage to have as much as $30,000 on a race, but that could only be on such a horse as Tremont, for instance, when the betting would be perhaps 10 to 1 on. That amount of money could not have been got on a "long shot" or "short horse," whatever term you prefer. Mr. F. T. Walton was perhaps the last of the plungers. He has not yet had a successor, and tremendous couph have become things to be remembered and talked about, no longer to be seen. The last one executed in recent years was that over Troubadour in the Suburban. And yet, though some of the stable money was got on in the early winter books at 75 to 1, yet the entire amount of money won by Capt. Brown was $72.000, a great deal of money, to be sure, but small when the odds are considered and the fact is taken into consideration that when the commission was executed the horse had been practically tried.

Trustee Henderson is one of the quietest members on the Board, and the position of chair-man of the Finauce Committee, thrust upon members on the Board, and the position of chairs man of the Finance Committee, thrust upon him at the commencement of the year, has somewhat increased his embarrassment. In presenting his report last night he displayed considerable diffidence, and apologized to his colleagues on the ground of mexperience, should anything be found simiss in the document submitted. He might have spared himself she trouble of depreciating his own laborator for the report, very important in its character, left nothing to be desired. Trusces Lee was called to the chair in committee of the whole to consider it. The first clause was that the principals of schools containing six or more class-rooms be paid on the basis of length of service, as principals up to fitteen years, commencing at $750 per annum, and increasing $36 per annum for seven years, and $48 per annum for the remaining seven years (except in special cases bereinafter provided). This at the end of the 15th year left the salary of a teacher $1338. The clause gave Trustees Denison, Roden and Baird as opportunity to say some pretty things on behalf of the leady teachers, whom they claimed ought to be paid on the same basis as male teachers. Trustee Hastings thought that the female teachers were being paid twice as much as they were worth. The clause was adopted without amendment.]

Clause 2 provided that the principals of Dufferm, Ryerson and Wellesley schools be paid $1500 a year, that the principal of Jesse paid $1500 a year, that the principal of Jesse Ketchum, when enlarged to an 18 room school, and the principal of Bolton-avenue school be paid $1400 per annum; that the principal of the city model school be allowed $100 extra per annum for extra services; that the principal of the Victoris Industrial school be paid $1200 and his assistant $750; and that the assistant masters in Dufferin, Ryerson, Wellesley and Bolton-avenue school, Miss Churchill, of Rose-avenue school, and Miss Keown, of Wellesley school, be paid $750 such per annum. Miss Cowan, teacher at the Boys' Home, had her salary jumped up from $524 to $600, and Mrs. Warburton's from $600 to $750. The Superintendent of Buildings secured an increase from $1800 to $2000, the Superintendent of Drawing from $100 to $1100, each of the music teachers from $324 to $360. There were one or two of the caretakers who were given small increases.

What the Principals Got. Among the principals of six room schools and over the following were fortunate to secure increases in their salaries: Mr. Crane, Lansdowne school, $1194 to $1242; Mr. Campbell, Bolton-avenue school, $1338 to $1400; Mr. L. J. Clark, Victoria-$1338 to $1400; Mr. L. J. Clark, Victoriastreet school, $1290 to $1438; Mr. Martin, Park school, $1194 to $1242; Mr. Powell,
John-street school, $1194 to $1242; Mr. Chapman, Niagara-street school, $750 to $786; Mr.
Morrison, Borden-street school, $1194 to $1242
Mr. Boddy, Bathurst-street school, $1194 to $1242
Mr. Boddy, Bathurst-street school, $1002 to $1050; Mr. Bruce, Clinton-street school, $760 to $786; H. Clark, Duke-street school, $900 to $930; Mr. Muir, Gladstone-avenue school, $894 to $930; Mrs. Riches, Sackvilfe-street school, $894 to $966; Mr. Parker, Winchesterstreet school, $1002 to $1050; Mr. McMain, Brant-street school, $930 to $966; Mr. Armstrong, Parliament-street school, $930 to $966.
The only amendment to the repost was the reduction of the increased salary of Miss Cowan from $600 to $500. This was done after a wordy debate of over an hour.
