pioneer settlers of Westminster was Benjamin Davis, father of Mrs. (Dr.) Ling, of Dutton, who had the first orchard in that township. When the trees began to bear, one, for which he was unable to give a name, was noticed, and the lasting qualities of its fruit attracted so much attention in the neighborhood that many secured grafts from the tree. For the want of a better name the apple was called after its original grower and thus is known to day wherever the tree exists.

The Toronto Board of Control has decided to close the Don goal on November 15th, 1915. A new central police administration building will be erected, entirely removed from the City Hall, to include police, women's and juvenile courts, remand cells and police offices, at a cost of $500,000. There will then be no goal in connection with Toronto at all. Male prisoners committed to gaol sentences will be taken to the men's industrial farm. Women will go to the recently purchased farm in Vaughan township. Prisoners for the Central Prison will go direct to that institution after sentence. Weak-minded unfortunates will be taken to the new detention home in the pavilion of the old General hospital until fully committed to the asylum.

What a pity it is that our Canadian audiences with not learn to wait till the last strains of the National Anthem have been played or sung, before taking their departure from concerts. No sooner are the first bars of the familiar air played, than it is the signal for the younger element to make a dive for the exits, and many older people get into their wraps as though they had only a few moments to spare. Surely we Canadians are not wanting in that respect which is due to the gracious Sovereign who presides over the affairs of the great British nation.

How such unseemly haste must jar on the finer feelings of people who have a true sense of the fitness of things.

Something About the Price of Bacon Saturday Night.—"This journal will make no attempt to answer the question involved in the following statement of facts; but is one worth pondering over in these days when everyone is discussing the high cost of living: A prominent Toronto gentleman, who has been ill recently, took a fancy for some of the bacon that he used to get in a little town in Lancashire where he lived as a young man. It is a town famous for the quality of its pork products, and the gentleman in question induced a friend in Liverpool to purchase a considerable quantity of bacon and hams and have them shipped to him. The consignment was delivered to him at his home in Toronto at a total cost to him of 23 cents per pound. The cost in Lancashire was 19 cents per pound; the freight two cents and the duty two cents. On the day before the arrival of the package, a member of the gentleman's household paid 30 cents a pound for bacon cured in this city of inferior, or at least of no better quality. Thus the Torontonians saved seven cents a pound by buying in Lancashire. It was not a case of eliminating the retailer's profit. The bacon and hams were purchased from a retail merchant at the current prices of the day. What is the answer? Perhaps some of our wealthy provision merchants can give it."

The Oil of Power.—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it will cure every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and all attempts to surpass it have failed. Its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learnt by experience.

A Jilted Jap Woman

A Japanese woman, when abandoned by her lover, takes a peculiar and picturesque revenge. When she no longer has any doubt as to his faithlessness, she gets up in the middle of the night and puts on a pleasing dress and wooden sandals. Attached to her head dress she carries three lighted candles, and suspended to her neck hangs a small mirror. She takes in her hand a small straw effigy of the faithless one, and in her right hand a hammer and nails. Walking gravely to the sanctuary, she selects one of the sacred trees and nails the effigy securely to the trunk. She then prays for the death of the traitor, vowing that if her wish is granted she will take out the nails which trouble her god, since they are fastened to a sacred tree. Night after night she comes to the tree, adding one or two nails, and repeating her prayers, persuaded that the god will not hesitate to sacrifice the man to save the tree.

Horrors of the Balkan Wars

Early in the outbreak of the second Balkan War accusations that atrocities were being committed, equal in horror to those charged in former years upon the Turks began to be bandied about among the combatants and quondam allies. Of these the complaints were loudest and most insistent from the Greeks, and their detailed character was one of the reasons why European opinion leaned so heavily against Bulgaria. At the close of the war a general determination to arrive at the truth led to the appointment, at the instance of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, of a representative commission, to whom was entrusted the duty of investigating the circumstances and establishing the responsibility for the outrages if they were found to have occurred. Its report was issued on Sunday and reveals conditions which reflect heavily on the conduct of the Chris-

"The Quitter" (By R. W. Service) "You're sick of the game"; well, now, that's a shame. You're young and you're brave and you're bright; "You've had a raw deal!" I know—but don't squeal. Buck up! do your damndest, and fight. It's the plugging away that will win you the day. So don't be a piker, old pard! Just draw on your grit; it's so easy to quit; It's the keeping your chin up that's hard. It's easy to cry that you're beaten and die; It's easy to cawfish and crawl; But to fight, and to fight when hope's out of sight— Why that's the best game of them all!

And though you come out of each grueling bout— All broken and beaten and scarred, Just have one more try—it's dead easy to die; It's the keeping on living that's hard. Trade in Watford and you go home satisfied.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

Nothing will keep the boy on the farm more than keeping him satisfied. It's just the same in business. If a customer is satisfied he is willing to stick. To do this is some problem and it keeps "the boss" figuring and continually improving his methods.

The great movement amongst the farmers for co-operation in growing and marketing and the support which is being given the movement by the various governments is apparently rousing the retail merchants of Canada. At a session of the Dominion Board of the Retail Merchants' Association of Canada, in Toronto, it was decided that, as the farmers co-operative movements were being advocated by governments, which was discrimination in giving special privileges to one class, such steps be taken as will protect the retailers.

All agriculturalists are more or less familiar with the Ben Davis apple—its characteristic features and beauty in appearance when it reaches its perfection, but few, however, know the origin of its name, which has a local significance. Amongst the Arkona's Early History The following historical sketch of Arkona was given by Mrs. W. Bartram at a recent meeting of the Women's Institute of that village: Sixty-five or more seventy years ago, the little community here was called "Eastman's Cove." That, however, was not the P. name. Mail was sent to "Bosanc Cove." The first Postmaster was Hilborn, father of Levi and E. L. Horn, and the post-office was in a building about where it is now located. Between 55 and 60 years ago, a mee was called in the old red school house to give the village a new name. After discussion, it was decided to adjourn a week for consideration. When met again, a Mr. Brower suggested the name Arkona. It met with the approval of the meeting and there and then Arkona became Arkona. The school elected in this old red school house a rate school. In those days when it was not very plentiful, it was a more than many of the people could send their children to school and for the privilege. So it was a de change for the better and a long steady, when, after a great deal of tion, it was made a free school. Five years ago a Mr. Johnston started select school and more lower than book pupils were taken in. It tended by young and old from near and was a success, but after electing it for nearly two years, I obliged to give it up on account of health. The first church organiz
