

being the ruling rate for best samples, while ordinary has commanded relatively high prices. Now, however, that the local mills are producing plentifully, there is a marked reaction; and sales are pressed at $2.65 to $2.70 and are likely—barring a general improvement in Flour—to go still lower.

Nothing of moment has been done for export, as British markets are considerably below the relative rates still ruling here.

WHEAT.—We have no arrivals or transactions to note, except a few cars, as formerly, to City millers.

SKINS.—Clover.—The stock is very small, and for some days extreme rates have ruled. As the season wears on, however, dealers decline buying except to fill orders, and a decline of five cents from the highest point may already be noted. We quote 20 to 22½ as the closing rate. Timothy.—Present rates are about $3 50 per bushel, with a weak and sensitive market.

PORK.—The already small stocks are being rapidly exhausted; there are no arrivals as yet, and prices are tending upwards especially for Prime and Primo Mess, which are much wanted.

BUTTER.—Although the arrivals are limited, there is little activity to note. The quantity offering is being gradually reduced, as a good deal has changed hands at 10 to 11 cts., within which range all that offers is readily taken. This low range of prices having become established it is impossible to get the ideas of the wholesale buyers much above those figures, except for strictly good parcels, of which the supply is limited.

ANES.—British advices continue of dull and drooping markets. Prices here remain without change, although the feeling is weak.

Arrivals as yet by boats are trifling, we look for larger receipts next week.
