

Appin Branches deserve honourable mention. They are well officered and active. Delaware, Dorchester, Strathroy, McGillivray West, Ailsa Craig, London North-East, and Adelaide, are in a fair condition. Require good attention.

Komoka, Mt. Brydges, Belmont, St. John's, Lucan, McGillivray East, Siloam and Lambeth, are feeble. They have fair territory, but by lack of attention have partially failed. Will no doubt rally into full life.

Thorndale has come to life. This is the first year this Branch ever did anything. It will do well.

Gladstone and Nissouri West have no existence farther than in name.

Harriets "le has a few noble members. Should be worked with Belmont.

Some of the Branches had their business in confusion. This will demand the close attention of the Agent. Several of the more rural Branches would do much better by a visit in the fall instead of winter.

Praying that the "God of all grace" will prosper this noble work, I remain your obedient servant.

MICHAEL BENSON,
Agent.

Strathroy, 1874.
