Teachings of the Lesson.

1. In sorrow go to Him who can comfort and help, as Mary did. Seek both divine and human sympathy. To bid another share your sorrow is to lessen it.

2. Be like Jesus—sympathetic. Rejoice with others; but, better still, weep with those who weep. In grief the heart is tender, and good impressions may be stamped upon it. Everyone can be, if he will, an angel of mercy in the house of mourning.

3. Thank God for every answered prayer. Thank him publicly, that others may see and know the divine goodness. Let memory forget the injuries done us by men, but let it hold to the favors received from above. Thus we may cause others to believe in God as we do.
