

wishing to take on the obligations and enjoy the benefits of the agreements.

While the NAFTA sets the stage for economic growth through exports, the two agreements signed today help to ensure that this growth will not come at the expense of workers' rights or the environment. They are important parts of a positive, future-oriented approach to growth, sustainable development, and human dignity.

Thank you.