CLEANING OF GRAIN.

Montreal Expert Favours Government Inspection.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—(Special).—S. F. W. Thompson of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co., before the grain commission, explained the methods of transportation of grain from western elevators to Montreal. All available routes were used by his company, more particularly the water routes.

Mr. Thompson favored government inspection of the grain commission. He said that the present act was very satisfactory. Under the old system there was a change from month to month and from year to year.

Relating to mixing, the present system is the best. The integrity is preserved, and the buyer is protected. Wheat gathered in his company's elevators was found slightly better than that from public elevators. He would have no choice in making a selection out of present elevators in Fort William.

As a miller, he would prefer to get the grain as near as possible to the mill in which it was taken from the country.

CAR SHORTAGE SERIOUS—WHEAT PILED ON TRACKS

Second Vice-President C.P.R. Explains Reasons Why C.P.R. Cannot Handle Traffic.

Winnipeg, Oct. 5.—(Special).—Complaints of shortage of cars and grain blockade are growing louder and louder. Farmers along the Canadian Northern are particularly dissatisfied.

In the Erie district, big piles of wheat and other grains have been piled on the tracks, waiting for the company to supply cars for its shipment. Lack of storage will most likely cause a considerable loss to agriculturists.

William Whyte, second vice-president of the C.P.R., said today that it was quite true the company has not been able to supply cars. He said that the grain was moving much earlier than last year, while the crop was a great deal larger. The crop, he said, started to move before construction work was finished on many lines, which also hindered transportation.

"In the handling of this fuel supply," he said, "we have always figures on the line, and we have been hampered, because we found it impossible to get mills in the west to deliver the material to us as fast as we can put them into service, the mills being overtaxed and so far in arrears with the business on hand."

UNIVERSITY OFFICIALS ASKED FOR AN INQUEST

Desired to Show That There Was No Undue Roughness to Cause a Fatality.

The university authorities were desirous that an inquest should be held, so that the whole of the facts touching the tragic end of J. Cameron Paulin might be made known in order to show that there was no blame to be attached to the institution, and that the necessary precautions were taken in the football game, which was the precursor of Paulin's death.

Prof. Watson and other prominent in the university management urged upon Chief Coroner Johnson the desirability of an inquest to clear the university of the coroner, after looking into the circumstances could not see that any further enquiries than those made by himself and the coroner were necessary.

There was a current rumor that it was not football, but "hazing," which led to the fatality. Dr. Johnson was seen by World reporters about this phase of the case last night, and he replied that when he was notified so late Wednesday night by the authorities of the General Hospital that a young man was dead, he asked in his official capacity that the body be held.

He did not consider, as a coroner, that he should hold an inquest because the university wanted him to. His position, he emphasized, was that of an official who stood between the dead and the living. From his point of view he was to see that the living, who were not satisfied in the case of one of their own, were interested, should be given the benefit of a verdict in an inquest to settle doubts and do justice to the dead.

Protestantism in Eastern Townships Vigorous, Declares One.

Montreal, Oct. 5.—(Special).—A special report from Moncton, N.B., says that the following despatch has been received by the chairman of the Presbyterian synod from George G. Foster, K.C., a local resident of the Eastern Townships.

"The Gazette reports Dr. Mowat as saying to your synod that English influence on the Roman Catholic mass will be no longer a factor in the attitude of that church, thru its highest dignitaries, against impure literature, indecent pictures and low theatres, and in favor of temperance principles and practice, and even the better observance of the Sabbath; for these things are of Protestantism, and Catholicism has no influence, they do not concern it, unless it be in the spirit of many and great, in the spirit of our brethren of other missionary societies, in the spirit of our master, let us maintain our ground by the sword, and other churches, with greater faith, earnestness and liberality than ever, in the grand enterprise of disseminating a pure gospel thruout the whole land."

ALDERMEN HAVE TO TELL

make it a park. Also, he charged Mr. Forman with having submitted his report too late to give time to aldermen for mature consideration.

Ald. Church undertook to take a load from the minds of the gathering by giving the assurance that they had a right to "look into the transaction."

"Too late, Tommy," interjected a mournful back-bencher.

Ald. Church would have voted for the park if the price hadn't been too high. He cited Mr. Forman's valuation of $14,000 for use as building lots, and arranged that official and Commissioner Chambers for tardiness in submitting reports. In this way the city council had too often been "led into loopholes."

The speaker disclaimed any party leanings in municipal matters, and was retiring when one Alexander Gemmill rose in the second row, with the spirit of an inquisitor.

"Was you in favor of this just an hour before the vote was taken?" he asked.

Ald. Church said he was not.

"Then why did the aldermen allude to you as having cold feet?" returned Mr. Gemmill, with dramatic intensity.

Ald. Church's vindication of himself was that he had arrived late at the council meeting and had been spoken to by no alderman. He was again reprimanded when he was addressed by C. Wagner, who sat by the chairman.

Wagner's air was as Nemesias, and his voice was hard and uncompromising. He wanted to know if the alderman had not been approached. Ald. Church appeared to dissemble.

"Mr. Wagner smiled placidly and inscrutinably. His question, yes or no," pursued the pitiless Mr. Wagner. Ald. Church said he had been approached by both sides.

"Will you deny that you told anybody that that was the case?" he asked, and smiled again, this time sardonically.

"No, he did not," was the astounding retort, and there was a wild demonstration of enthusiasm.

"Then I apologize to Ald. Church," said Mr. Wagner.

This little incident was forgotten next minute in admiration of the fiery eloquence of Ald. Stewart, who brandished an umbrella before the faces of those in the front rows, as he declared he had not till then known their sentiments.

"You can hold a pistol to my head, but you can't bulldoze me," he asserted in soaring exaltation of spirit, reaching grand climax with the following declaration:

"I am a British subject, and I want fair play, and I don't care a d—n who says so."

The applause was vociferous.

Leaves That Are Archaic.

William James was apprehensive that the Amusement Company would provide "cheap and nasty shows to the corruption of public morals, and Mr. Gemmill declared the Leuty Park beach had not an equal from Frenchman's Bay to Hamilton.

Dr. Hammill eulogized the open frankness of Ald. Stewart, and Mr. Ross, who was unanimously carried, had said $100,000 would have to be expended by the city to properly improve the property.

The main resolution was offered by C. Wagner, with S. J. Greer as second, and was unanimously carried, and was an alternative one by Mr. Gemmill, that in default of acquiring the property, the city buy all the beach, from Simcoe Park to Munro Park.

Cornwall in Fine Fettle.

Cornwall, Oct. 6.—(Special).—On the eve of the Cornwall regatta, the most eventful of the regatta season, the Cornwall team were reported to be in fine condition and are hopeful of victory. The fact that in the first of the home-and-foreign matches between the Capitals and Cornwall, played in Ottawa last Saturday, the Cornwall were defeated by 7 to 0, does not detract from the prospects for a splendid exhibition of prowess in the return match here, and the experts predict that the match will be one of the greatest of the season. There are many, including most of the local players, of the opinion that Cornwall can pull down the Cup's lead and return to the top of the list. The Cornwall team will be the same as played last Saturday, with the exception that Jack Broderick, who is in New York, will be replaced by Larry McAtee.
