We take it to be this: Mr. aurier and his chief advisers, as far as we can gather from their actions since Parliament opened, have deter-mined to make this a barren session so far as the Government is concern-ed—no estimates, no legislation, no Remedial Bill—to discredit the Government in every possible direction. tion of a board of control for the city of Toronto a trial. Civic government, as we know it in Toronto, cannot be much worse than it has been for some years back, and any kind of change would be welcomed by the ratepayers as likely to lead to an improvement. It the Reformers have in view the introduction of politics into municipal affairs, they will find the Conservative party able to match them. We have a good deal of confidence in Sir Oliver Mowat's knowledge of the municipal law and in his capacity to make an improvement on the present system. If he really, then, has such a measure in hand, we believe that on the whole it

An Interesting Paper on the True Principles of Becorative Art.

Rev. Edward W. Huntingford, professor of classics, Trinity University, delivered a lecture yesterday afternoon before the above society in their rooms, Canada Life Building, on "Decorative Art," Principal Loudon, Toronto University, occupied the chair.

The lecturer pointed out that there were more people in the world who have no sense of beauty than was generally supposed, and he took generally a somewhat pessimistic view of the appreciation that is felt by the public for true art. Appreciation demanded intellect and knowledge. In many cases people had not the former quality, and had no time to acquire the latter. He had a few good-natured satires to cast on the aesthetic craze, as it existed in England some 15 years since, and then passed on to speak of what constitutes real and true art. "Lack of taste, as well as lack of virtue," said the lecturer, "is one of the characteristics of fallen nature." He was specially severe on the Rococco style of art and rejoiced that it was apparently dying out. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered the lecturer when he concluded.

standing in Quebec if he should completely block Remedial legislation. He therefore may say to himself and to his colleagues in shaping the Liberal platform that it would improve their chances to get the school question out of the way by asking Mr. Greenway to make the concessions above outlined, or similar ones. Having done this, they may think their chances against the Conservative party on its general policy will be improved. In a word, if Greenway makes concessions, it will be to aid Laurier and the Liberals of the poster was chosen.

It is said a deal is under consideration by the Grand Trunk and Canadian Pacific Railways to afford the latter running rights over the tracks of the former between Toronto and Hamilton. In the course of a year or two we will have an electric railway between Toronto and Hamilton, running directly through the towns and villages between the two trocks. The streets.

Everyone is delighted to see the sun out in force and the snow and ice melting off the streets. A little judicious sweeping of the surface might help the clearance and a smart rain would do it still more effectively. Once spring opens and the snow goes business will be brighter as well as the weather.
