THE TRIP TO PORCUPINE EASY EXCEPT FOR COLD

Good Accommodation is Provided in the Stopping Places Along the Roads.

MATHESON, Jan. 10.—(From The World's Special Commissioner.)—After his trip into Porcupine Lake, The World correspondent is able to appreciate just what hardships and difficulties the man who has the gold fever will suffer in order to find a gold mine. Porcupine is about 35 miles from the T. & N. O. Railway at Matheson, and this 35 miles has to be walked or traveled over in a sleigh. With a lawyer as companion I left Matheson at nine of clock Monday morning, Jan. 3, on a freight sleigh. At noon a stop was made at Power's halfway, 10 miles out, for dinner. This halfway was a log building, not quite completed, and in broken to the fast passenger stage and arrived at Father Paradis' about 5.30 p.m. Here we had supper and camped for the night. At about 8 o'clock the next morning we were again on the road, reaching Kelso at noon. The actual time taken in coming out was about to make the sacrifices that gold will. A View of Porcupine.

At daylight on Tuesday morning we were again on our way, and after a slow ride of 13 miles, Porcupine came into view. The little city of about 20 tents and one small log cabin made a wonderful picture in the midst of the snow-clad forest. From each little tent there issued a stream of smoke from the stove that had to be kept going at full heat to keep the temperature side bearable. From half a dozen tents heads were popped thru small openings to see who had arrived, but no one knew us, so the heads were quickly 1910, George withdrawn, like the nigger's head in the familiar baseball game.

After such a long drive we were hungry enough to eat anything, and enjoyed fairly well a "chuck" dinner served by two little Frenchmen, who at the time of writing are probably starting a stopping place. We had gone prepared for all emergencies, with a tent, stove, blankets, axes, shovel, candles and cooking utensils. As there was no place to sleep at Porcupine, immediately af-ter dinner we pitched our tent, put up the camp stove and made preparations for the night, such as getting a supply of dry wood, flooring the tent brush and arranging our blanket beds. The night was bitter cold and one of us had to sit up all night and keep the fire on while the other slept, the man

The trip out was much the same as going in, with the exception that we went to Kelso (Mileage 222) instead of returning to Matheson. Coming out of Porcupine the road to Matheson and Kelso is common until Night Hawk Lake is reached. At this point the roads separate, one going northerly to Father Paradis', at which point there is a good stemping place, while the other is a good stopping place, while the other one goes across the north end of Night Hawk Lake to Moberley's.
