What a musical treat is in store Tuesday evening when great singers will be heard in the "Lucia di Lammermoor" sextette, and the quartette from Rigoletto both of which will be included in the concert programme preceding the condensed version of "Martha." It is not to be wondered that the intense interest is felt in these concerts. A glance at the amusement column in the display advertisements will give full particulars and the reader will be surprised at the small prices, and become convinced of the necessity of applying to the Opera House box office early Saturday morning.

THOMAS E. SHEA IS WELCOMED AGAIN AT OPERA HOUSE

Company Opens Return Engagement With Fine Presentation of Vendetta

Thomas E. Shea and his company were given a hearty reception in the Opera House last night on their return for a week's engagement in new repertoire. They opened with the Vendetta, a drama from Maria Corelli's story and it was heartily enjoyed.

The Vendetta is laid in the heart of Naples. Count Fabio Romano, played by Mr. Shea, is loved by peasant and prince alike. He thinks he also holds the love of his wife, but this, unfortunately, he does not possess, although he is unconscious of the fact. A boson friend, Guido Ferrati, taken by James J. Cassidy, slowly steals the heart of the count's wife and, during the plague and while the count is stricken with this awful malady, declares his love and evokes a promise of marriage upon the death of the count. The death of the count in Naples is announced, and he is buried, although only under the influence of a temporary stupor.

The setting of Mr. Shea, when he recovers from his stupor and finds himself tightly sealed in the family tomb, holds his audience. After a great effort he liberates himself and, returning to his home, finds his wife with his friend. His revenge is swift. Provoking a quarrel with his friend, he kills him in a duel. Finally he takes his wife to the Roman tomb and there tells her how he had lain for several hours sealed in the vault of death. "In time, all is righted."

Lady Nietta, a vivacious young girl, daughter of a count, played by Pearl Ford, is the sunshine of the play. Her love for the young reporter, Albert Haddon, played by W. Lee Nichols, affords plenty of scope for good acting and both received hearty applause. Guido Ferrati, played by James J. Cassidy, was good. Nina, Countess Romano, was played in affable style by Charlotte Burdett. Andrea, a rag picker, by Mark Fenton, was good. The scenery, particularly the setting for the earthquake and eruption of Mount Vesuvius, in the last act was greatly enjoyed. Tonight's play is the political drama Counsel for the Defense. Other programmes are: The Whirlpool, and by request Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde.

Feeding is a highly important matter. Many chicks die through improper feeding. Some people who ought to know better give the youngsters large corn, which they cannot digest, while others give practically all soft food, which results in diarrhoea.

DON'T STAY GRAY! SAGE TEA WILL DARKEN YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFULLY

A Mixture of Sage and Sulphur Prevents Dandruff and Falling Hair

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur no one can tell, because it's done so naturally; so evenly. It is also splendid to remove dandruff, cure itching scalp and stop falling hair.

Preparing this mixture, though, at home is a messy and troublesome task. For about 30 cents a bottle you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use tonic called, "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." Some druggists put this mixture on themselves but make it too sticky, so insist you want "Wyeth's" then there will be no disappointment.

You just detangle a sponge or soft brush with "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur" and draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. Do this at night and by morning all gray hair disappears and after another application or two becomes beautifully darkened and more glossy and luxuriant than ever. You will also discover dandruff is gone and hair has stopped falling.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur and you'll look years younger. Inquire about all pharmacists in town here sell lots of it. Agent, Wason's 3 Rexall Stores, King street, Main street, and Haymarket Square.
