

REDMOND ARRIVES

Accompanied by P. A. McHugh and Thos. O'Donnell, M. P.'s. The Nationalist Delegates Will be Given a Monster Reception in Carnegie Hall, New York, Sunday Night.

NEW YORK, Oct. 31.—John E. Redmond, Patrick A. McHugh and Thos. O'Donnell, nationalist members of parliament, who came here in behalf of the Irish cause, landed today from the steamship Majestic. They were enthusiastically welcomed by a large delegation of Irish-Americans.

The mass meeting which will be held in Carnegie Hall on the evening of Sunday, Nov. 3, when John Redmond, the member of parliament for Waterford city, and leader of the Irish nationalist party in the British house of commons, and his colleagues, Patrick McHugh, member of parliament for Leitrim, and Thos. O'Donnell, member of parliament for North Kerry, will be the guests of the Irish National League, the Irish National Club and the citizens of New York who sympathize with the Irish people in their efforts to obtain self-government, promises to be the most interesting demonstration held in New York since the delegates from the Irish National League were enthusiastically greeted in the Academy Music in 1890.

The delegation consisted of a number of Irish representatives, who came at the request of the late Charles Stewart Parnell, and it was but a few days after the first meeting, when $100,000 was subscribed for the split in the Irish national parliamentary party was announced. The delegates soon returned to Ireland, and then they were in New York, where they were met by the Irish people, who were in a state of great excitement. It was decided some months ago that a delegation should visit the United States and Canada, and place the objects and principles of the new organization before the Irish, Irish-Americans and American people generally, and Mr. Redmond and his colleagues were deputed to visit the United States. Mr. Redmond has been here four times within the last ten years, the last time with Alderman Tallon, then lord mayor of Dublin. It was in 1890 that he returned to Ireland the reconciliation between the opposing sections of the Irish party was effected. Mr. McHugh and Mr. O'Donnell have never been here before.

Mr. McHugh, who is the editor of the Slogh Champion, was recently released from Kilmallock jail, where he had been confined for six months for denouncing jury packing. Mr. O'Donnell is a fluent speaker of Irish, and is the only member of parliament who has ever addressed the house of commons in the Irish language. He will address his audience in both English and Irish.

SCOUT KILLED

In Action Last Sunday in South Africa—His Last Letter to His Brother in Halifax. OTTAWA, Oct. 31.—His excellency received a despatch today stating that Sergeant J. E. Pemberton of the Canadian scouts was killed in action last Sunday at Bergendrust, where he was next of kin is Professor Pemberton of Halifax.

HALIFAX, N. S., Oct. 31.—John E. Pemberton, whose death in action in South Africa is announced, was a sergeant in the Canadian scouts. He went from this city two years ago to New York, and thence to South Africa, where he joined Drabant's Horse, and from there to the Canadian scouts under Major Gat. Howard. His father, Thos. Pemberton of this city, was at one time bandmaster in the British army. The following letter given to your correspondent by his brother is the last word received by his family from the gallant soldier:

SWAZILAND BORDER

South Africa, Feb. 17, 1901. Dear Horace—You will be surprised to receive this. I joined the Canadian scouts in Cape Town, Major Howard, an American in command, I have had some pretty close shaves. Capt. Ross and myself and four scouts ran into sixty Boers. Our sergeant-major was killed and three wounded. My horse was killed under me. I retired on foot for a mile with two others. I was the only one to get to the farm house. They called three times for me to surrender. I refused. I used my revolver freely. I covered Captain Ross's retreat. He had despatches from Gen. Campbell's column. He was also saved from capture. He lifted me up behind his horse, and I thank God, I am alive today. We are under General Anderson, about 2,000 strong.

There are 15 columns operating in the Transvaal. We are burning all the arms. I am strongest, not too bad, is it? Very short time to write. I would say a lot. No time. I am 22 tomorrow. Hope you are well. We are all Canadians. I have had three horses killed under me. Good-bye. God bless you all.

(Signed) JOHN E. PEMBERTON.

MEANS BUSINESS

France Rushing Her Big Mediterranean Fleet into Turkish Waters. PARIS, Oct. 31.—The entire French Mediterranean fleet left yesterday afternoon, says the Tribune correspondent of the figure. "While one division put in at Salines d'Hyeres, another, composed of three battleships and two cruisers, under the command of Admiral Caillaud, proceeded to the Levant. Two thousand troops will be added to this force. Admiral Caillaud's orders are that, if complete satisfaction is not immediately given by the Ottoman government to all claims of France, he shall order the destruction of the port nearest his squadron. It is believed his destination is the Island of Mytilene or Samos. This island commands the entrance to the Dardanelles and the Gulf of Smyrna. Several morning papers confirm the figure of the Mediterranean fleet.

Summers to the same effect were current in Paris late last evening, but the foreign office professed to know nothing about the matter.

JOHN HOBLEY

Seathingly Attacks the Government's Treatment of the Boers. LONDON, Oct. 31.—John Hobley, M. P., a Liberal Unionist, has written a pamphlet, entitled "The Government's Treatment of the Boers." The pamphlet is a scathing attack on the government's policy in South Africa. Mr. Hobley says that the government's policy is based on a mistaken view of the situation in South Africa. He says that the government is treating the Boers as enemies, when they are really a people who are loyal to the British crown. He says that the government is doing nothing to bring about a reconciliation between the Boers and the British.

The King will perhaps at no distant date have to seek other military aid with a better insight and a more plant hand, in face of the dangerous and complex situation which confronts the country.

An order-in-council has been passed providing that fishing for clams in bays, harbors and other waters in Canada where oysters are taken shall be permitted only on areas set apart and marked out by the local fisheries officer for the representative districts in which such fishing is pursued. The idea of the regulation is to prevent persons committing depredations upon the oyster beds when digging for clams. Major General O'Grady-Haly is improving in health, and leaves for Halifax and Fredericton tomorrow. The supreme court gave judgment today in one maritime province case, that of Kaubach v. Archibald. The appeal was allowed. This case was remitted to the probate court with directions to arrest probate of the second codicil as well as the first. Judges Tschereau and Seligwick dissented. A meeting of the cabinet was held this afternoon, at which a good deal of routine business was disposed of. Nothing was settled about the by-elections, and it is not likely they will take place until winter weather has set in and the roads are in a good condition for driving. A complaint has been made to the inland revenue department that in certain sections of the country improper weighing machines are being used for the weighing of articles mentioned in section 16 of the weights and measures act, such as all kinds of cereals, seeds, lime, bituminous coal, potatoes, turnips, manure, etc. Inspectors will be sent out by the local district officer to weigh any of these articles that is of less certified capacity than one bushel. Inspectors of weights and measures have been notified to connect all weighing machines so illegally used. SCHLEY INQUIRY.

The Admiral's Long Ordeal in the Witness Box. Something About His Original Report That Sampson Declined a Receipt. WASHINGTON, Oct. 30.—The long ordeal to which Admiral Schley has been subjected since Monday morning ended this afternoon, when his cross-examination was completed, and he was allowed to leave the witness stand. When the judge adjourned the cross-examination shortly after three o'clock, the court pronounced to the admiral that the report of the court was published, and in accordance with a previous agreement the admiral was allowed to go to his home. Admiral Schley is expected to return to his home in New York at that time. "I feel that the victory is at that time," said Admiral Schley in explaining the matter. "I was big enough for all, and I felt that I was doing my duty. I had to go to the witness stand, and I had to go to the witness stand, and I had to go to the witness stand."

One of the most interesting features of the report of the court was the fact that Admiral Schley, July 8, 1898, was not the original author of the report, but that he had written it in accordance with a previous agreement. The report was written by Admiral Schley, but it was not his original report. The report was written by Admiral Schley, but it was not his original report. DEATH NEAR HATFIELD POINT.

NORFOLK, Kings Co., Oct. 29.—This quiet village was shaken today when word reached here of the death from smallpox of Lemuel Sprague, a prosperous farmer residing three miles back from Hatfield Point. Mr. Sprague had been in St. John about three weeks ago and eleven days after his return was taken seriously ill. He physician in attendance pronounced the disease black measles. Yesterday Dr. Bishop of Norfolk was sent for and upon investigation found the patient suffering from a fully developed case of hemorrhagic smallpox. He immediately notified Dr. Wetmore of Hampton, chairman of the Board of Health, and together they went to Mr. Sprague's house, where they found him in a dying condition, and he died before midnight. All houses, the occupants of which had been in communication with the Sprague residence, have been quarantined, and the occupants are being vaccinated as speedily as possible. Every precaution is being taken to prevent the spread of the disease. Deceased was a man of about sixty years of age, a deacon of the Baptist Church, and highly respected by all who knew him. He leaves a widow and seven children, five girls and two boys. The smallpox situation remains unchanged, no new cases having been reported Thursday, and the board of health, while maintaining most rigid precautions in every respect, are hoping that their efforts have resulted in a stay of the epidemic. All the patients now affected are reported as doing well, the case of Mrs. E. J. Wilkins, at the epidemic hospital, being especially light. At the General Hospital nothing unfavorable has been discovered, and beyond the likelihood of the quarantine being progressing as well as could be desired, there is even with this favorable outlook the board of health intends to prosecute the most stringent precautionary measures. At a meeting Thursday, at which most of the physicians of the city were present, it was decided to order a general vaccination, which will go into force as soon as the working details are arranged in this city. House visitation will be made, and all not lately vaccinated will undergo the operation. Fifteen doctors volunteered their services and will offer if they are needed. The city is now being laid out into operative districts, a special supply of vaccine has been ordered.

SITUATION HOPEFUL.

No New Cases—Miss Deboe Buried—Compulsory Vaccination Ordered. Doctors Will Visit Every House—Patients Doing Well—Poverty in Quarantine—Guards Did Not Strike. The funeral of Miss Georgia Deboe, who died Tuesday night, took place Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock. Rev. John de Soyes, who was with her in her last hours, accompanied the body to the grave in the Church of England burying ground and conducted a funeral service. The body was interred in a hermetically sealed casket and thoroughly disinfected. The Board of Health on Tuesday decided to allow one clergyman of each denomination to attend the outside cases, provided all prescribed precautions were observed. They felt that owing to the lack of space in the epidemic hospital and for other reasons, nobody could be allowed to live with the patients there. Acting under this, Mr. de Soyes, finding he was not to be admitted to the hospital, visited the Deboe house, and

ATTENDED THE DYING GIRL.

To the last. After her death he rendered the physician a charge great assistance and by his care and tact earned the heartfelt gratitude of the bereaved family. A brother of Miss Deboe, who has not been included in the quarantine, expressed the feeling of the family to a Sun reporter that night, saying they could never hope to adequately express to the reverend gentleman their appreciation of his faithful services. The Sun is requested to contradict the statements in last night's Globe with regard to an alleged breach of quarantine regulations by Rev. J. de Soyes, who acted throughout with the full cognizance of Dr. Morris and the sentry at the City road. The first intimation that access to the epidemic hospital was prohibited was received at that institution from Dr. Ellis. Mr. de Soyes was released from quarantine last night, under the regulations of the Board of Health, which did not feel in a position to accept his offer to visit all Protestant patients. He will remain for the present at St. John's school house. The Board of Health regulations for the quarantine, including complete personal disinfection with an antiseptic bath and a change of fumigated clothing throughout.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra left London by special train at 5 p. m. for Portsmouth. The children of the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York are with their majesties. YARMOUTH, Isle of Wight, Oct. 28.—During the first night out from St. Johns, Nfld., while steaming about 15 knots, the Ophir sighted an iceberg directly ahead and about two miles off. The berg was first seen by the captain's lookout, which warned the Ophir, and the squadron changed its course and reduced its speed. The searchlights showed a pale green mass 100 feet wide, with about forty feet above the water. The Ophir's passage was tempestuous and ended in a gale.

Yesterday morning while wandering around the city he met his brother, Daniel Daly of the Savoy House, who he thought was in the western states, and whom he had not seen for some 15 years. The meeting was a surprise to both parties. Mr. Daly will probably leave today en route to Montserrat. Mr. Daly is engaged in business in Strathcona and comes east for the benefit of his health.
