THE SCHOOLS
Further details about several of the school buildings are printed in The Telegraph's news columns this morning. It will be well if all parents whose children attend the schools in question give the matter their careful attention. It is important at this time to create a public opinion which will insist upon all the changes that are necessary to make the buildings safe, and also upon the observance of such drills and regulations as are advised by the best authorities. It must be remembered that when this whole question was ventilated a few years ago the agitation produced few good results. There was much talk, but things gradually went on in the old way. This time there must be no turning back.

At last night's meeting of the school trustees the new chairman spoke to the point in asking the board to back him up in the work necessary to make conditions satisfactory. The building committee is to secure an estimate of the cost of making the changes suggested by the committee of inspection, and the Council will be asked to provide the money. That will place the burden squarely upon the shoulders of the taxpayers. The trustees should have followed this course long ago. The matter is urgent and the building committee cannot afford to waste any time in getting at it or in securing the requisite information. The city, beyond question, was considerably shocked by the report of the inspectors. As yet the aldermen have done nothing towards securing additional legislation enabling the city to deal effectively with buildings owned by private individuals or corporations but used for public purposes, such as hotels, lodging houses, churches, and places of amusement. The aldermen promised to secure such legislation two or three years ago. They must not be allowed to neglect it longer.

POSTPONED
Announcement was made yesterday that the provincial Liberal convention advertised to be held in St. John on April 22, has been postponed indefinitely. The official explanation of this news is that parliament is to resume work on April 21, Liberal members from New Brunswick would have to remain away from the convention or be absent from Ottawa for a day or two.

The official explanation leaves much to be desired. The postponement will cause surprise in many quarters and discontent and anger among many Liberals, who will regard it as a confession of the truth of the Sun's recent assertion that the party is badly disorganized. The Sun was badly disorganized when it made that statement. Apparently it spoke for individuals who proposed to reorganize the Liberal machine on lines of their own. The postponement may mean that the men who inspired the Sun's trouble-breeding announcement have found that the party would not submit to dictation.

men—or the man—who decided to convention must have known that it might be in session on the 22nd. Even if some New Brunswick members were absent a day or two from Ottawa in attending the convention, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, and even the country generally, would not fall into panic or despair for that reason alone. As the Sun intimated, the convention was likely to bring to the fore for settlement many troublesome questions. The man—or men—who called the convention, have discovered some reason for changing their view as to the situation. Perhaps the leaders have been unable to agree upon the solution of those troublesome questions and have called the convention off rather than risk a clash in public meeting when they begin to exchange views.

Postponements are not altogether new. During the provincial campaign the Liberal party machinery in St. John was employed to call a local government convention for this city and county. Delegates were elected in the usual way, but the nomination of candidates was postponed once or twice. It was said then that Hon. Mr. Pugsley could not leave Ottawa, and apparently the leaders—or Dr. Pugsley himself—thought nothing should be done in his absence. It may be that Dr. Pugsley has notified the persons who called the convention that he cannot make it convenient to come here on April 22, or, if he himself called the meeting or caused it to be called, he may have deemed it sufficient to notify the Liberal party in this province that he has decided upon a later date. The party is not likely to accept the news gracefully. These things mean bungling, and the party has had to complain of a great deal of that during the period extending from the date of Dr. Pugsley's Fairville speech, covering the recent provincial contest, and coming up to the day of the Sun's appearance in the role of the candid friend who deems it necessary to make trouble while professing an earnest desire for harmony.

It is a fact not to be overlooked that New Brunswick seemed scarcely to know that a convention was to be held. Probably this is due largely to the lack of publicity given to the announcement. At any rate there was no evidence in sight to warrant the belief that the meeting would be large and truly representative. The rank and file are tired of the blundering and bickering of the leaders. They feel the need of new methods, less selfish pursuit of the spoils by a few and more work for the party as a whole. The lack of a party newspaper has, of course, added greatly to the difficulties of the situation. The postponement of the convention is a confession of weakness which will add to the existing depression and dissatisfaction. Since a date was set, the general conviction will be that the meeting should have been held without fail. The leaders know how the postponement will be accepted, but apparently they believe that a convention at present would be marked by the airing of factional differences which would make a bad matter worse.

DR. PUGSLEY AND DREDGING CONTRACTS
The recent provincial elections, followed by the postponement of the Liberal convention because of party dissension and the bickering of party leaders, will give Hon. Mr. Pugsley much to think about before he does any more electioneering in this province. Most Liberals will regard him as largely responsible for the fact that their provincial organization has lost much of its fighting efficiency since he was invited to the seat in the cabinet vacated under painful circumstances by his former client, Hon. H. R. Emmerson.

Unfortunately these are not all of Dr. Pugsley's political troubles. He drew upon himself grave censure by his conduct in the House yesterday when he boldly enunciated the amazing doctrine that men tendering for public work—that of dredging being under consideration—might properly tender at different figures, each knowing the figures of the other. He added that it was not strange for one company to tender for dredging at fifty-seven cents a yard and afterwards accept the work at twenty-seven cents. Mr. Bennett brought the question up because of Dr. Pugsley's statement that he proposed to award contracts for half-a-million dollars worth of dredging in the lake harbor without calling for tenders, at last year's prices. Mr. Bennett said the prices of last year were excessive. He pointed out that in the past two years the firm of Boone & Company had been paid over $2,000,000; The Great Lakes Dredging Company, $1,350,000, and The Owen Sound Dredging Company, $350,000. He challenged Dr. Pugsley to produce the original tenders upon which he would base his figures for work. It would be seen that there were two tenders, one from the Midland Dredging Company, of which F. W. Grant is secretary-treasurer, and Pentacene Dredging Company, of which Dr. Spohn is secretary-treasurer, and both tenders were in the same handwriting. For work at Midland the Grant Company tendered at fifty-three cents and the Spohn Company at fifty-seven cents. But there was a third tender from the son of the member for Ottawa for thirty cents. Mr.

Bennett charged that there was connivance and fraud between the Grant and Spohn Companies, and he challenged the minister to have the tenders laid on the table.

Dr. Pugsley sought to avoid discussion of these matters by saying they were under investigation before the public accounts committee, but as that committee has not yet touched the cases in point the Speaker ruled against the Minister of Public Works. Dr. Pugsley, thus placed on the defensive, remarked that dredging is becoming more and more expensive. Possibly the increased cost may be explained by this further statement which he made:

"I had been found that in a majority of cases it was advisable to pay for dredging work by some measurement, and therefore the government had to depend upon the honesty of the inspectors. There had been cases in which inspectors had not done their duty. One man appointed as inspector employed another man to do work; he was dismissed. The minister said he had taken precautions to secure the full measure of work for the pay given."

The House was not told what these precautions are. Evidently these vast expenditures in the Public Works Department will be subjected to rigorous inquiry now that Mr. Bennett has set the ball rolling. If work is to be let by tender, it is clear that the element of bona fide competition must not be eliminated because men who are influential are anxious to secure the contracts.

No doubt the dredging done at this port will be made a subject of inquiry. Much money is charged up against St. John, as having been expended here in improving the harbor. The prices paid, the measures used to ensure accuracy of measurement of the work, the manner in which the contracts were let, might all be profitable matters for examination.

A POOR OUTLOOK
The taxpayers are going to choose their rulers in the old way. That is, since no concerted effort was made to place a citizens' ticket in the field, self-nominated candidates for the Council occupied the field and the electors will be supposed to vote for the more promising, or the least objectionable, of the number. Not one of the men who are nominated has made any real profession of faith as to civic affairs. If any one of these men stands committed to civic reform, the voters have no evidence of it. A few of the old board, Messrs. Frink, Baxter and Kelley, for example, have done some good work. The others have afforded no visible excuse for re-election, yet some of them are not opposed and others are not encountering serious opposition.

A discouraging feature of the whole business is that it will be impossible to select from the whole list of candidates a council which can be depended upon to give the city a new, healthful, and vigorous administration. There are not six men in the list who, if elected, would stand solidly together for the public interest, abandoning personal and private considerations in a determination to give St. John progressive civic government and yet secure full value for every public dollar spent. Affairs at City Hall cannot be greatly bettered by men who "just want to get into the council."

Yet if the outlook is far from encouraging, the taxpayers themselves must take the responsibility. In a case like this the citizens get just the kind of government they deserve. If they will not bestir themselves to protect their own interests—and they have not moved in the matter—they must expect for the coming year just such management of civic affairs as they have experienced for many years.

Money will be mismanaged. The aldermen will not secure competent directors and permit them to direct. Yesterday's nominations simply mean that the people do not care. The awakening will come in time.

WHERE THE MONEY GOES
The country still remembers the women's hats which were taken north by the "Arctic" to please or placate the Eskimo visitors who greeted our hardy explorers in the inhospitable waste north of the pole. The old supplies bought by public money in the "Arctic" find a sort of parallel in some of the more recent revelations at Ottawa. A contemporary says, for example:

Among the applicants for "mining rights" were these names:
Kate Ambrose,
Lizzie Howe,
Lottie McNeil,
Lizzie Church,
Maggie Powell,
Mollie Chilton,
Katie Pantie,
Minnie Turner.

Whether the Katties and Lizzies and Mollies ever had an existence does not appear, but the mining areas in their names all went to one man, an influential friend of the government, who was thus enabled to grab valuable property which he could not have obtained in his own name. The same story is revealed in regard to grazing leases, timber limits, etc.

Also, there is the case of the "Montcalm," an ice-breaker. Among the supplies bought for this vessel were these articles:
Seventy-two cups at $1.04 each.
Two coffee pots at $23.00 each.
Four milk jugs at $17.00 each.
Four cream jugs at $12.50 each.
Two sugar bowls at $27.00 each.
Six fruit stands at $24.75 each.
Three ice pitchers at $23.00 each.
Three trays at $11.00 each.
Two pairs of fish covers at $13.50 each.
Two bread plates at $12.25 each.
Two cake baskets at $15.00 each.

The hardy mariners aboard the "Montcalm," it must be assumed, all voted the government ticket between voyages, and doubtless the gentlemen who selected and furnished the supplies were men whose party loyalty had been tested under fire. They have their reward. To these instances the Moncton Times adds this, concerning one Merwin, a middleman:

"One of Merwin's latest ventures was to buy a tug for $3,700. The next day he sent it to the government at $25 a day, though some of the officials said it was not required. The tug needed extensive repairs, and these were made, the government paying the rental all the time she was laid up. For 147 days the government paid $25 a day, or a total of $3,675. The tug was then sold for $1,000, and the sum of $2,675, or nearly twice its value. So that in less than six months Merwin got the price of his tug back and had it repaired; when no tug was required."

Verily the government is good to its own—at the country's expense. The people merely pay.

NOTE AND COMMENT
In the Ottawa debate on dredging yesterday—
"Mr. Haggart condemned the methods of the new minister (Dr. Pugsley). Here, he said, were contracts obtained by collusion, being extended without further tender and at prices which were fraudulent on the face of them. There was a new set of morals established by the minister from New Brunswick. True, this was not a venal office, compared with others of which the present government was guilty, but it was a clear breach of the law, made, too, in defiance of the recent finding of the government's own Royal commission, which recommended the adoption of the British system of open and free competition by tender. It was the system, in vogue, that led to contracts being given to favorites and relations of members of parliament."

Further details about defective school buildings are printed today. Parents in the districts affected should read the inspectors' report and make themselves thoroughly familiar with the situation confronting the city. There must not be another failure in this matter. Public opinion must stoutly support those who believe the safety of the school children to be of the very greatest importance.

Party opinion may now employ itself in considering whether it was wise to call a convention, but, having called it, whether it was best to postpone it. However, there can be no doubt that the president of the Liberal organization is in need of some competent advisers—St. John Globe.

Well, Dr. Pugsley and the Sun have been advising him. Does the Globe mean mildly to intimate that these advisers are incompetent? Do not Dr. Pugsley and the Sun, says Hon. Mr. Emmerson, not to speak of Hon. Mr. Robinson?

SET HIS WATCH BACK TO BEAT BETTING BILL

Albany, N. Y., April 10.—When the supporters of the anti-betting bill had spent hours in search for Senator A. T. Fancher, of Chautauque, vainly sending scores of emissaries in every direction to seek him and had adjourned the session for an hour to save their cause from the loss of his vote, the missing man suddenly appeared in the Capitol corridors and added to the excitement of the day one of its most thrilling features.

"I am here," said the Senator to a group of newspaper men, "to fool the people who thought they had kidnapped me. We played poker and drank some drinks. I was afraid they meant to drug me, so I made them all drink out of the same bottle I used. I won $2,000 and I had not lost my glasses, so I could not see the cards. Then I got drowsy and somebody set my watch back. That fooled me."

Before and after he had taken his seat and cast his vote for the bill, Senator Fancher told the scores of his friends the incidents of his adventure of Tuesday night and today and found willing listeners on every side. He was in his apartment, he said, about ten o'clock Tuesday night when he received a telephone message stating that a most important matter was at stake and in connection therewith his presence was immediately required at a house in Clinton avenue. When the Senator reported this message to his friends they said:

"You're not going to take a chance on accepting any such mysterious invitation, are you?"

Senator Fancher replied that he was going to respond to the invitation, no matter what the result, as he wanted to find out "what those fellows were up to." "Nothing," Senator Fancher stated that he had gone to the address given and there found a very merry and companionable party of men and women who used every effort to make his visit pleasant.

He entered into the spirit of the affair, he said, and the feast with wine was set out for the company he shared it with the "thugs." "We drank together," he said, "but was on my guard against being drugged, so whenever I took a drink I made the others drink from the same bottle. I won from the poker game and I won from the pool game. Finally when the feasting was over I couldn't play any more and fell asleep."

"Then they played the only trick that I did not see at the time. They must have set my watch back while I was asleep, for when I awoke to my watch pointed to a quarter after eleven o'clock. When I looked out of a window it seemed to me and I started to investigate. I found that the right time was ten minutes after two, so I dressed and came quickly as possible to the Capitol."

Senator Fancher was known to be committed to the bill. He was in his seat when the Senate met. A half hour was passed, the bills were called up and Mr. Fancher was still absent. Curiosity quickly grew into anxiety on both sides of the chamber, and anxiety grew into nerve-racking tension among the supporters of the Government.

Mr. Fancher's whereabouts were being scoured by the searchers. Senator Fancher was a veritable reincarnation of Napoleon at Waterloo looking for the missing. A half hour later the Senate reassembled Senator Fancher calmly walked into the chamber. There have been rumors that lures would be spread for the unwary ones among the supporters of the anti-betting bill, and these reports went into the air. It was positively stated that women lobbyists had been brought from Washington to aid in the campaign, and that a very attractive woman from Catteraugus county, in Senator Fancher's district, had been in Albany since last week is undeniable.

Senator Fancher is a bachelor and a man of wealth. He succeeded late Governor of the State of New York and is one of the most popular men of that body. His integrity is unquestioned and the managers of the anti-betting bill counted upon his vote with certainty from the time he first announced how he stood upon those measures.

Today there was no suspicion that he was purposely remaining away and the general confidence in Senator Fancher's faith only made greater the anxiety caused by his absence.

CLAIMS TO HAVE FOUND MORE IRREGULARITIES
Ald. Kelley Makes Statement About Street Railway Payments to City Unaccounted For.

Alderman J. King Kelley has discovered that two payments made to the city by the Street Railway Company, on the street cleaning contract, and amounting to $1,068.66, have not been accounted for by the chamberlain's office, and wants to know why.

Speaking of it Alderman Kelley said: Previous to 1898 the city had a contract with the Street Railway with respect to the cleaning of the streets. In 1898 another contract was made with the Street Railway for a period of ten years by which the city for the sum of several thousand dollars a year paid by the Street Railway, undertook to care for the streets and relieve the Street Railway of the burden placed upon it by the local legislature. From the first of May, 1898, to the first of May, 1908, the Street Railway should have and actually did make one hundred and twenty (120) payments to the city of $883.34 each. The Street Railway has on file in its office one hundred and twenty (120) cheques representing these payments.

My curiosity was aroused by the financial statement published in the Saint John Globe of the 6th inst. Knowing that the Street Railway contract was for $7,000 a year and that the Street Railway for the year ending 1907 was credited with $5,533.33, I made enquiry at the Chamberlain's office also ascertained that the Street Railway made two payments on the 6th of January amounting to $1,068.66, but this would only square November and December. Since then, the Street Railway has made three other payments, namely for February, March and April. This completes their ten year contract. The city accounts at this date show that at least two payments made by the Street Railway have not been properly accounted for by the chamberlain's office. It is to be hoped that the mistake is nothing more than an error in bookkeeping, but if it is an error in bookkeeping it should have been detected by the audits made at different times and more particularly by the last special audit of the chamberlain's accounts made last fall. The unfortunate feature of the affair is that the error, such they can be called, occurred in December.

FIRE UNDERWRITERS ASK IMPROVED WATER SERVICE FOR MONCTON

Moncton, April 14.—(Special).—The report of Peter Clark, secretary of the New Brunswick board of fire underwriters, concerning Moncton's water system, contains several recommendations and criticisms.

He recommends that a new pump be purchased for the city pumping station, that there be duplicate pumps and additional bores, that a number of additional hydrants be placed and that the new pumping engine be of a capacity not less than three thousand gallons a minute. Moncton, the report says, has outgrown its water system and when new railway shops are supplied the already weak pressure will be further reduced. The rapidly growing northwest section of the city, the report says, is unprotected and becoming a menace to the city. He recommends that the city buy a new steam engine, stating that neither the old steam engine, stating that the city within a few years have to find an entirely new source of water supply. The report indicates that the hydrant tests conducted personally by Mr. Clark were satisfactory, the pressure on one hydrant being 33 pounds and equal to four fire streams.
