ington-Goudge and Glass Declare Against the Government-James McDonald Moves an Amendment-John Young, the Pablisher of Sir John's Private Letter, to be Postmaster General in the Grit Govern-(Special to Daily News.) After the presentation of several reports of Election Committees, the order of the day was called and Sir Francis Hincks addressed the House on Mackenzie's amendment. Huntington charged him (Sir F.) with resigning his Imperial office, and taking office in the Canadian Government in hopes of making money out of the Pacific Railway. This was untrue and impossible, for when he entered the Government, the prospect of union with British Columbia was dull and distant. After lengthy explanations of his own political position, Sir Francis said he never heard or read of any Prime Minister ever having been treated as Sir John. He (Sir Francis) lived in Montreal, and was sorry to say the atrocious report of Sir John's suicide could not be traced beyond Huntington. (Cheers and ced beyond Huntington. (Cheers and ses.) Sir Francis then narrated the insses.) Sir Francis then narraced the circumstances connected with the Pacific Railway negotiations, as published in evidence, stating that any views he held favoring American capital were entirely personal and not shared in by the Gopersonal and not shared in by the covernment. He censured severely the course of the Opposition in taking the Pacific Rallway case out of Parliament, which was a violation of its privileges, and admitted that large sums were spent in elections, and, amid much laughter and cheers, he went through the laughter diet by $180—Fisher and Wetmore dissentientibus.
