POND LILIES.
BY MARGARET E. BOSTER.
In early morning, when the air
Is full of dew and cool and sweet,
And roses like fair and pearl-like fair
Are kind of splendor yet to be.
The lilies open, gleaming white,
Their petals like pearls on a stem,
And hold the summer's rarest wine.
Ah, love, what beauties they are,
Once they drifted through, about Among the lilies, and the lilies
Cloud-curtained o'er our tiny boat!
Now climb up space with silent feet:
The golden light whose honey-dew
Was cradled in the lily's breast, White yet the silver dew was new.
The pomp of royal coronation lay
On dainty feet and dainty bell,
And flashing to the lily's feet,
We laid aside the dripping orb,
Beside whose dew-droplets lay
A grove with mirrored fountains and stems.
In music on the sparkling shore
The lily's ripples fell asleep:
We laid aside the dripping orb,
For one delight we could not keep.
In all the splendor further on We missed the morning's maiden blush:
The lily's ripples fell asleep,
The brooding haze, the trembling flash.

NOTES AND NEWS.
UNITED STATES.
An Omaha printer named Shorrock has fallen heir to a fortune of $300,000.
There is to be a tonorial contest for the championship and $200 a side between two barbers at Indianapolis.
In Middletown, Conn., a magistrate has lately decided that a woman has a legal right to get drunk in her own house.
It is stated that the only pawnbroker in Oregon is hanging from a tree, and he has been hanging there for two weeks.
A pawnbroker was found hanging to a tree in Nebraska the other day. It is supposed that the Pawnee did it.
In the United States there are 36 consulates and 245 towns named after the great and good father of his country.
A law-suit with ninety-three parties to it, is pending in Pittsburg, Va. George Fowkes, sr., bequeathed his property to his former slaves, and his heirs-at-law contest the bequest.
The latest case of conscience has occurred in Augusta, Me., where a heart-stricken penitent has forwarded $5.50 to pay for a coffin which he stole a year ago
—of course not for his own personal use.
The first photographer has opened his saloon in Truckee, Nevada, and has been shot at by a miner who insisted on having his picture taken by lamp-light, and he was going away early in the morning.
Three colored men who bought a farm of 200 acres in Tennessee, three years ago, for $2,300, have just finished paying for it. Their only capital was $100, and they did all the work themselves.
Stott County, Minn., has the most extensive manufactory of Lamberger cheese in the country. This kind of cheese is said to be "ripe" when a piece the size of a walnut will drive a dog out of a tan-ard.
They have a Cremation Club at Glenwood, Iowa, the object of which is to educate the public sentiment to a preference for the pyre. The President of the club has named his last baby "Cinderella."
Of stories about hens there is no end, and to the talents of those delightful birds no limits. The last celebrity of the sort is a hen in Moore County, Tenn.
She not only catches and kills mice, but she eats them.
The ladies of Rankin, Ill., lately had "a bee" to clean the church, and after it was over, they expended their remaining energies in completing the sidewalk which the men had begun last Fall and were too lazy to finish.
GENERAL.
There are now 39 women preachers in the United States.
Goldsmith Maid is in Rhode Island.
Doble thinks she can trot across the State inside of two minutes.
Register clerk—"Your name?" "So and so." "Your profession?" "Lawyer."
"Can you read and write?"
The Charing Cross Hotel, London, well known to St. John merchants, is to be merged into a freight depot.
A Buffalo father has persuaded his bad boy to stay in 'nights. The chain cost $4.50 and the pocket 75 cents.
A Pennsylvania fireman got a carriage in his merchandise, and now he hasn't got a merchandise.
"Wid' Yard & Kiln" is the ortho-graphical phonetic signs in Springfield, Mass.
It is suggested that aeronauts would make good police officers, as they are accustomed to talking people up.
Mrs. Wyncoop, an extensive real estate broker in Chicago, has kindly taken her husband into partnership in the business.
Prof. Graf has for some time past been engaged in surveying Costa Rica. That's what occasioned all the talk about that country, is it?
Gabriel Schmidt in Iowa, has just killed his wife for sewing a wrong button on his coat. If it had been on his shirt-tail, never mind.
Milk punch is recommended for diptheria. There will be much of this sickness among teetotalers as soon as this remedy is known.
When a member of the Boston Community Council talks too long the bored hand him a card, inscribed: "Hire a hall."
They are looking for a man in London to regild the ball on the tip of St. Paul's.
Twenty pounds in money and a life insurance will be given for the job.
The trees along the "Banner embankment" are beginning to grow handsomely.
Five years from now the roadway will be one of the finest in all Europe.
The British Association does not seem to have endorsed Prof. Tyndall's recent address. They have chosen in his place as President an obscure man, Sir John Hawkeslaw, who is not likely to vent any advanced ideas or so starting a nature as those of his predecessors in the office.
