KELSEY
WARM AIR
GENERATOR

The great battery of Zig-Zag Heat Tubes gives the Kelsey more than double the heating surfaces of the ordinary furnaces—Reducing coal bills 20 to 30 per cent.—Distributing innumerable volumes of evenly warmed air uniformly to every room. No cold rooms —no overheated rooms. The Kelsey system costs less than steam or hot water to install, less for fuel, repairs and operation, and you have fresh air all the time, not the same air heated over and over. A Kelsey is durable and easy to operate.

35,000 KELSEYS
have been installed in homes of all sizes, the finest residences, schools and churches

The Scrap Book

In the Swim.—A reviewer in the New York Nation illustrates his own comments on a certain new volume of essays by a story that is worth putting into circulation. Three hearers, he says, of the admired Dr. X., were talking in the vestibule after the sermon. "We must admit," remarked the first, "that the doctor dives deeper into his subject than any other preacher." "Yes," said the second,
"and stays under longer." "And comes up drier," added the third.— Western Christian Advocate.

Modern Strategist.—"Talk about Napoleon! That fellow Wombat is something of a strategist himself."
"As to how?"

"Got his salary raised six months ago, and his wife hasn't found it out yet."—Washington Herald.

At the Hash-Foundry.

"I will now help the soup"—so the landlady cried.

For her troublesome guests she knew how to provide.

And the boarder reflected with tongue
in his cheek:

"Kind lady—so ready at helping the weak!"—M. A. P.

Art and Reality.—"I never yet saw a man who talked like the hero of a story," said Mrs. Groucher.

"Well," replied her husband, "I never saw a woman who looked like the pictures in a fashion magazine."
—Washington Star.

Giving Himself Away.—She was very literary, and he was not.

He had spent a harrowing evening discussing authors of whom he knew nothing, and their books, of which he knew less.

Presently the maiden asked archly:
"Of course, you've read 'Romeo and Juliet?'"

He floundered helplessly for a moment and then, having a brilliant thought, blurted out, happily:

"I've—I've read Romeo!"—Philadelphia Times.

A Hard Knock.—According to a noted Brooklyn clergyman, if the Apostle Paul were living he would be a great baseball fan. If he ever saw the St. Paul team play he would probably ask the Probate Court to change his name back to Saul.— Kansas City Times.

Mixing the Pipes.—"You're wanted," said the small boy.

"Who wants me?" demanded the plumber.

"No. 137—the house you've just come from."

"Do they think I can work all hours of the day?" retorted the plumber.

"You'd better come," persisted the small boy stoutly, "or it'll be too late.
Ma's got hysterics, and pa's gone nearly mad, and—"

"Look here, sonny!" asked the plumber. "What's up?"

"Well, I think you've connected the wrong pipes, or something," replied the boy. "Anyhow, the chandelier in the parlour is spraying like a fountain and the bathroom tap's on fire!"
—Answers.

Sensible Question.—The Medium:
"We are now in communication with your departed wife. Do you want to ask her any question?"

"Yes; I'd like to know where she put my summer underwear."—Life.

Boss Couldn't Save.—Employer: "I hope you save something out of your salary, James?" Office-Boy: "Yes, sir; 'most all of it sir." Employer (eagerly): "Do you want to buy an automobile cheap?"—Puck.

The Principal Occupation.—"A good turkey dinner and mince pie," said a well-known after-dinner orator, "always puts us in a lethargic mood—"
