Demonstration At City Hall Organized

By Don Sellar

On Friday afternoon, 17 students met to organize a demonstration against the recent election of Edmonton mayor, William Hawrelak.

The meeting was held in response to a notice which appeared in The Gateway on the same day.

Mr. C. T. J. Williamson of the Department of Philosophy, acting as an interested observer, allowed the group to use his office for the meeting originally planned for the Math-Physics Building.

MORAL OBJECTION

The group, which does not represent the university or its students, objects to Hawrelak's election on "moral, not political grounds." It was decided at the meeting that the demonstrators would leave the campus about 5:45 p.m. on Monday evening and travel by bus to City Hall, where they would display placards and hand out leaflets describing their cause. Emphasis was made during the meeting that the one-hour demonstration would be orderly at all times. Notice of the protest was given in advance to Edmonton City Police.

This represents the second group which objects to the results of the recent civic elections.

Four university employees were previously charged with causing a disturbance and misbehaving at a council meeting for their actions last Monday.

At that time they read a proclamation from the public gallery of council chambers which challenged the "constitutional authority" of the council. The four were released shortly after their arrest on payment of $250 recognizance bonds.

Two-Tone Toupe Not Established

By Clark Kent

The world is not yet ready for permanent male hair dye.

To this reporter's knowledge, it all started at the Roy Orbison show.

Sporting an iridescent platinum blond coiffure, an individualist in the crowd earned disbelieving glances from startled onlookers. As an experiment and gag ensemble, six hardy souls including the writer wore sprayed platinum hair to a supper party and football game.

The platinum sextet scored at the party, but comments at the Eskimo-Stamper match were varied. Approximately 35% didn't notice, 10% liked it, 20% thought it looked terrible, feminine, and out of place, 10% were undecided, and 25% thought it was funny.

Hair spray, easy and quick to apply and remove, comes in all colors ranging from platinum to jet black. More offbeat hues, such as blue, are possibly obtainable.

Defenders of "masculinity" shout with voracity that this newest of kookie fashions will never spray its way to their scalps, but it is predicted that the rage for parties and special occasions will soon be the man in the grey flannel hair.

Security Questioned

CUS Demands Definite Statement On RCMP Investigations

OTTAWA (CUP)—The Canadian Union of Students (CUS) are demanding a statement of the federal government's policy "on the activity of security organizations in the area of security investigations"—that is, the Royal Canadian Mounted Police on campus.

In a letter dated Oct. 21, Dave Jenkins, CUS president, asked the Minister of Justice, Lionel Chevrier for such a statement to comply with Resolution 38 passed at the recent CUS national congress in Edmonton.

The resolution further calls for legislation which would preserve and strengthen the recourse of each citizen to the courts in matters which might "compromise his constitutional rights as a Canadian citizen."

A copy of the letter and resolution were also sent to the Prime Minister and the present RCMP Commissioner, C. W. Harvison.

STRONG SUPPORT

The resolution was strongly supported by 36 of the 41 universities, college and institutes attending the congress. The matter arose so strongly after last year's disclosure that RCMP officers were conducting security investigations on campus (in some cases through professors) on the political activities of registered students.

In an exclusive interview last March with Canadian University Press, RCMP Commissioner Harvison said that the RCMP were interested in activities on Canadian campuses because communists are also interested.

"The communists themselves point to what they hope to achieve on the university campus," Commissioner Harvison said in that interview. "In one of their publications one is able to read the university is 'the training ground for bourgeois leadership' and 'offers a unique opportunity for valuable Party work; here is the centre and source of the bourgeois apology for capitalism'."

TIME LIMIT SET

The last clause of the CUS resolution places a time-limit on the federal government to reply to the demand. If by Nov. 15 the government has not declared their policy on security investigation, the resolution calls for:

"The University of Ottawa, Carleton University, St. Patrick's College and the Eastern Ontario Institute of Technology to be mandated to organize a 'suitable manifestation' in the national capital in accordance with instruction to be given by the Board of Directors (of CUS)."

Mr. Jenkins has not indicated what form such a "suitable manifestation" might take, but suggestions here are that if such an event does occur, it would probably take the form of a mass-multi-college rally in front of the National War Monument or the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa.

The CUS office is presently awaiting a reply from the Minister of Justice—the deadline is a bare 23 days away.
