One of the highest voter turn-out yet

Now We Know the Winners

By NUJMA YAQZAN

March 30 has come and gone, and UNB has been left with an impressive foursome who will represent the students day after day next year.

March 30, as most of us know, was the Wednesday on which UNB saw its highest voter turn out yet with 30% of the student population having marked X's on ballots in order to elect the new Student Union Executive and Council.

Congratulations to Dean Frost, Luigi Rocca, Carl Burgess, and Ernest Dunphy, who are the happy executive winners. Because as individuals, they each radiate a real desire to be where they are and to accomplish things for UNB, it should take no time at all for them to get together and then melt in with Council members to create a strong and enthusiastic Student Union.

Our new president Dean Frost says "I felt confident (about the election) because I knew the people running with me were capable of doing a good job." Although certainly pleased to have won, Dean was asked if he had expected it. "I did expect to win because Miss Forestell strayed away from the real issues at hand, concentrating on corporate sponsorship" (of the United '88 team). As soon as possible, Dean wants to get together with "Jane Arnold, and meet with other members of the executive to get some feedback. We will be leaning towards trying to accomplish as many achievable things as possible. We'll be laying out the foundations for long-term plans." Dean is "glad" the election is over. He feels that it was unfortunate he and the other United '88 members (Bruce Carroll, Trina Chisholm and Brian Clark) had to take so much "heat" from people who questioned their sponsorship. Speaking to many people, Dean expresses the following: "I would like to personally thank all the voters who showed support for me during the election, and all my friends who stood by me along the way." Dean's win was by a total of 920 votes as compared to Susan Forestell who had 580, and Hitler-Kitty who received about 260 votes.

Speaking un pompously, "Because I felt most qualified for the job, I was confident it would go my way," replies Luigi Rocca, our new vice-

The Agony of Defeat

And he's got four of them

By STEPHEN MARKS

A tearful Hitler-Kitty bid goodbye to his shot at the Presidency after only getting approximately 260 votes in last week's Student Union Presidential election.

The cat, whose present whereabouts are unknown, was not overly distressed about the loss, and is looking forward to bigger and better things.

In an interview with Stephen Marks, campaign director for Hilter Kitty, I asked myself what future plans the cat had in mind. "Actually, running in the S.U. Presidential election was a mistake - we originally intended to run in the U.S. election", I replied.

I then asked myself if Hitler Kitty had accomplished the goals he had in mind during the campaign. "Well," I replied, "We think we increased voter turnout and heightened the interest of the electorate. But we never did get to follow through on our goals of collecting beer from each student, and our plan to brainwash the frosh fell through also. Worse than that, we never got a chance to embezzle anything. Damn!"

"Furthermore," I added, "We think the election was rigged. Hilter-Kitty should have got at least 1000 votes as I put them in the ballot box myself."

It was also announced that Hitler-Kitty will run again next year, and will try to actually get on the ballot.
