THE IMMACULATE

HEART OF MARY

CHARLES DICKENS

It was remarkable in the raven "And you made no effort to detain that during the whole interview he him?" said Mr. Haredale quickly. had kept his eye on his book with "Sir," returned the locksmith, "she exactly the air of a very sly hu- herself prevented me-held me, with man rascal, who, under the mask all her strength, and hung about me ately," he said. "There is nobody refulgent smile, he left them. of pretending to read hard, was list until he had got clear off." And but a very dilapidated female to per- "A deplorably constituted creastrongly in his mind, for although on the night in question. when they were alone again, he, is- This dialogue was held in a low sued orders for the instant prepara- tone in the locksmith's little parlor tion of innumerable kettles for pur- into which bonest Gabriel had shown poses of tea, he was thoughtful, and his visitor on his arrival. Mr. Harestract sense of duty, than with any regard to making himself agreeable, might have the assistance of his moment he heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard the heard the heard the voice, inclined in six would have yielded to the important of the heard or being what is commonly called persuasion and influence; and out of

They were to return by the coach. had arisen. As there was an interval of full two "I forebore," said Gabriel, "from hours before it started, and they repeating one word of this to any-Barnaby begged hard for a visit to might do her great harm. I thought the Maypole. But his mother, who and hoped, to say the truth, that she had no wish to be recognized by any would come to me, and talk to me despatch some messenger to that she has never touched upon the subplace of entertainment in quest of ject-except by a look. And in- vagging her ancient head, for good. of feeling, or refinement." her, proposed to wait in the church- deed," said the good-natured locp- There was a gentleman in the parlor yard instead. As it was easy for smith, "there was a good deal in the who perhaps could tell them more. Barnaby to buy and carry thither look, more than could have been put That was all she knew. such humble viands as they required, into a great many words. It said he cheerfully assented, and in the among other matters, 'Don't ask me churchyard they sat down to take anything' so imploringly, that I did their frugal dinner.

Here again the raven was in a and down when he had dined, with an was strongly suggestive of his having his hands under his coat-tails; and appearing to read the tombstones with a very critical taste. Some'imes, after a long inspection at the failing light. of an epitaph, he would strop his bak upon the grave to which it referred, and cry in his hoarse tones, "I'm a devil, I'm a devil!" but whe- ly, sir." ther he addressed his observations to any supposed person below, or merely threw them off as a general remark, is matter of uncertainty.

It was a quiet, pretty spot, but a sad one for Barnaby's mother; for Mr. Reuben Haredale lay there, and her own husband, with a brief inhad lost his life. She sat here, thoughtful and apart, until their time was out, and the distant horn told that the coach was coming.

the grass, sprung up quickly at the head again; "and next to impossible held his peace. treating society in general (as though to put to bad uses"them in connection with churchyards) never to say die on any terms. They of voice than he had spoken vet.

"It is not possible, Varden," said dear niece, Haredale? You remember his nose on the back of a very sooty the list of assistants in their innochand, "I scorn the Lord Mayor and head."

to hand up the parcel that it called band's lifetime, and led to his and my Haredale. for. There was no fear of old John brother's"- talked to Barnaby in whispers. But neither her nor any other person right. I have brooded on that subspoke to her, or noticed her, or had spoke to her, or noti any curiosity about her; and so, an suspicion carries me back to it. You at Gabriel Varder, and occasionally to follow him to the parlor door, locksmith with evident reluctance, day!"

CHAPTER XXVI.

I have kept the secret till now, and drove off straightway.

rather seemed to do so from an ab- dale had called upon him to entreat this circumstance the conversation upon the speaker.

> not ask her anything. You'll think me an old fool I know, sir. If it's highly reflective state; walking up any relief to call me one, pray do." "I am greatly disturbed by what have not the least idea." air of elderly complacency which you tell me," said Mr. Haredale, after a silence. "What meaning do you voice, "and its subject ill-chosen. ing.

The locksmith show his head, and looked doubtfully out of the window I lay no claim to the distinction, and "and more becoming to the face.-To "She cannot have married again," said Mr. Haredale. "Not without our knowledge, sure-

"She may have done so, in the fear that it would lead, if known, to some objection or estrangement. Suppose she married incautiously-it is not improbable, for her existence has been a lonely and monotonous one for many years-and the man turned out Mr. Reuben Haredale lay there, and a ruffian, she would be anxious to near the vault in which his ashes screen him, and yet would revolt from heard my son Ned—darling fellow— dow of the Golden Key. Mr. Taphis crimes. This might be. It bears speak, and have often wished to see. pertit, who was hard at work by strongly on the whole drift of her Varden my good friend, I am glad to lamp-light, in a corner of the workscription recording how and when he strongly on the whole drift of her discourse yesterday, and would quite know you. You wonder now," he shop, remained unconscious of his explain her conduct. Do you sup- said, turning languidly to Mr. Hare- presence until a hand upon his shoul. Thus admonished, Dolly complied, possession, and pants for more mor-for the lad-a notable person, sir, stopped at the door. Joe was from home, and Hugh came sluggishly out connection was formed in her husbe indicted; as disturbers of the makes my heart ache now, even now, They wanted it, and have been with it on the losing hazard." and only suited to giddy girls that change, but that's with Time; Time "Where?" "We know nothing about mind him. A fig for time, sir. Use mit me to say again, that you never see her?" coaches here, sir," John would say, him well, and he's a hearty fellow, looked so young; so positively boyish Mr. Chester nodded. worth, with their noise and rattle, devils-who tread down the brightest sons, but upon that point I have a second?"

had lived a merry child, a comely with brightened eyes, and sturdy, would unlock the mystery; until Mr. ter." girl, a happy wife—where she had known all her enjoyment of life, and known all her enjoyment of life, and was too good for him they were walking in the same direction. They was too good for him they were walking in the same direction. good for me . But she was too good "No," he said. "Our roads dithe locksmith. "I didn't say I that, and what has altered her, I'll for a man of your temper. I know it tions, Miss Varden." understood her. I wouldn't have the stand her friend, and try to win her will make you very miserable." presumption to say that of any wo- back to peace. And damme, sir," "Let it," said Mr. Haredale, sit- ways a-saying it!" exclaimed Miggs, be hard upon such trifling." man. It's not so easily done. But cried Gabriel, "with your pardon for ting down; "and thrive upon the clapping her hands. "If he ain't He glanced at Dolly. She was at- Each is with service pregnant; each am not so much surprised, sir, as of the word, I'd do the same if she had married fifty highwaymen in a twelfam of the abrupt wave of the hand which tant Manual too, though Martha said rendered this larewell tantamount to married fifty highwaymen in a twelfam of the abrupt wave of the hand which tant Manual too, though Martha said rendered this larewell tantamount to mim!"

The only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester when a captain rallies to the fight that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester,—"and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is," said Mr. Chester back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is, "and the mention of back, that she do. Only think of that, little trait of Ned's is, "and the mention of back, the little trait of Ned's is, "and the mention of back, the little trait of Ned's is, "and the mention of back, the little trait of Ned's is, "and the mention of back, I am not so much surprised, sir, as the word, I'd do the same if she had thought. Good-night!" you expected me to be, certainly." | married fifty highwaymen in a twel- Feigning to be wholly unconscious daughter. Well, she do look like it, Just what he desired!

"I have seen in connection with her, If the dark little parlor had been tion, and inquired of Gabriel in what Mrs. Varden! I am amazed. That is I am about to beg the favor of a something that has filled me with dis- filled with a dense fog, which, cleartrust and uneasiness. She has made ing away in an instant, left it all had friends, how, or when, I don't radiance and brightness, it sould not know; but that her house is a refuge have been more suddenly sheered than for one robber and cut-throat at by this outbreak on the part of the least, I am certain. There, sir! Now hearty locksmith. In a voice nearly as full and round as his own, Mr. Haredale cried "Well said!" and hade "My own eyes, sir, are my witness- him come away without more parley. es, and for her sake I would be will- The locksmith complied right willingingly half-blind, if I could but have ly; and both gatting into a hackneypleasure of mistrusting 'em. coach which was waiting at the door it will go no further than yourself. They alighted at the street corner, I know; but I tell you that with my own eyes—broad awake—I saw, in the walked to the house. To their first passage of her house one evening after dark, the highwayman who robbed ponse. A second met with the like and wounded Mr. Edward Chester, result. But in answer to the third, and on the same night threatened which was of a more vigorous kind, raised, and a musical voice cried,- direction he was going." very much you have improved in locksmith, hesitating. your appearance since our last meet- "I wish you to remain here a ! ing! I never saw you looking better. while, Varden," said Mr. Hared. How do you do?

proceeded, though there was no need ference another moment," said Mr. to do so, to recognize the speaker, Chester with inconceivable politeness. smiled a courteous welcome.

there at last! Come in, I beg!"

came here to see?"

friends, and do not expend it on me. wisely added, as he took his seat, have the self-denial to reject it," ter, "you are heated with walking, dered quite vivacious by having such Sit down, I beg. Our friend is"- a courteous burden, and to Clerkenworthy of your notice.'

said the locksmith bluntly.

man, of whom I have frequently and presently stood beneath the sha-

'Haredale, my dear fellow, I am "Yours, sir, would be too much extremely glad to see you. How honor for the like of me," replied the without looking towards them. Mr. Haredale turned his eyes to- have a word or two to say to you. wards the casement whence the voice "I will not intrude upon your con-and Mr. Chester waved his hand and "May it be satisfactory to you both! smiled a courteous welcome. God bless you!" So saying, and bestowing upon che locksmith a most tening to everything. He still ap- having gone so far, he related cir- form such offices. You will excuse ture, that rugged person," he said, peared to have the conversation very cumstantially all that had passed up- her infirmities? If she were in a as he walked along the street, "he is more elevated station of society, she an atrocity that carries its own would be gouty. Being but a hewer punishment along with it-a bear that of wood and drawer of water, she is gnaws himself. And here is one of rheumatic. My dear Haredale, there as as natural distinctions, depend upon it."

Mr. Haredale, whose face resumed the inestinable advantages of havinchinations. I have been tempted in these two short interviews, to draw his head stiffy, and turned his back pulse. By suppressing mine, I wound him deeper and more keenly "Not opened yet!" said Mr. Chest- than if I were the best swordsman in er. "Dear me! I hope the aged soul all Europe, and he the worst. You needed rest and some refreshment, body, as it could do her no good and Barnaby begged hard for a visit to might do her great harm. I thought of his weapon; "we can but appeal Mr. Haredale entered, followed by to you when all else is said and the locksmith. Turning with a look done. To come to you before, and of those who had known her long about it, and tell me how it was; but of great astonishmen! to the old woago, and who feared besides that Mr. though I have purposely put myself man who had opened the door, he in-Haredale might, on second thoughts, in her way more than once or twice, quired for Mrs. Rucge-for Barnaby. fare, quite unworthy any man with the remotest pretensions to delicacy

He smiled so very pleasantly as he communed with himself after this manner, that a beggar was embold-"Pray, sir," said Mr. Haredale, ened to follow him for alms, and to presenting himself before this new dog his footsteps for some distance. tenant, "where is the person whom I He was gratified by the circumstance, feeling it complimentary to his pow-"My dear friend," he returned, "I er of feature, and as a reward suffered the man to follow him until he "Your triffing is ill-timed," retort-called a chair, when he graciously ed the other in a suppressed tone and dismissed him with a fervent bless-

Reserve it for those who are your "Which is as easy as cursing," he Clerkenwell, my good creatures, if "My dear, good sir," said Mr. Ches- you please!" The chairmen were ren-"Is but a plain honest man," re- well they went at a fair round trot.

turned Mr. Haredale, "and quite un- Alighting at a certain point he had indicated to them upon the road, and "Gabriel Varden by name, sir," paying them something less than they had expected from a fare of such "A worthy English yeoman!" said gentle speech, he turned into the Mr. Chester. "A most worthy yeo- street in which the locksmith dwelt, being at the trouble of any reason- ing mastered all these qualities, so Barnaby, who had been sleeping on the grass, sprung up quickly at the head again; "and next to impossible to say, sir," returned the locksmith, shaking his held his peace.

"Quite impossible to say, sir," returned the locksmith, shaking his held his peace.

"Industry," said Mr. Chester, "is fined and polished though it sought to be, which distressed her very stone of prosperity. Mr. Tappertit, only the soul of business, and the key-stone of prosperity. Mr. Tappertit, stone of prosperity. Mr. Tappertit, seeming to say. "I am not proud to be, which distressed her very stone of prosperity." sound; and Grip, who appeared to understand it equally well, walked in equally well, walked suppose is really the case, I tremble into his basket straightway.

were soon on the coach-top and rollthat we have been blinded and de- two people being among them? My must have another state of society, It went round by the Maypole, and ceived by this woman from the bedear fellow, congratulate yourself and sir, before you catch me being Lord did nothing but chatter and go a- does his work honestly, and I don't "My dear fellow-and you must per- pression,-"she is. Did you wish to be.

"Bought them off," returned his more. I hope you are well."

them; they may call and they may Picture to yourself for one minute know, but found it inconvenient and toe, applied his lips to Mr. Chester's ing a volume of the Manual from a A bond at birth is forged; a debt not-there's a carrier-he was looked what Mary was before they went to couldn't wait. Here is the key of ear, drew back his head without say- neighboring table, leant her arm upupon as quite good enough for us, work with her fresh heart and face— the door. I am afraid you'll find it ing anything, looked hard at him, on it as though she were Hope and By vast rebound it grows upon as quite good enough for us, work with her fresh heart and face— the door. I am afraid you'll find it ing anything, looked hard at him, on it as though she were Hope and By vast rebound it grows upon as quite good enough for us, work with her fresh heart and face— the door. I am afraid you'll find it ing anything, looked hard at him, on it as though she were Hope and By vast rebound it grows upon as quite good enough for us, work with her fresh heart and face— the door. I am afraid you'll find it ing anything, looked hard at him, on it as though she were Hope and By vast rebound it grows upon a looked hard at him. do her that justice-and say whether inconveniently large; but as the ten-applied them to his ear again, again that her Anchor. Mr. Chester, per-She dropped her veil as Hugh climb-ed up, and while he hung behind and "You're a good fellow, Varden," excuse that, Haredale, I am certain! "The name is Joseph Willet. Hush! ceiving this, and seeing how the vol-excuse that, Haredale, I am certain!"

with a bland and heartfelt benedic- in his softest tones, "that this is name reminds me, by the way, that He, on the field, encamps, well pleasno. Your sister."

venility.

deed a happy lot, when we can 1c- nothing. Nothing upon earth. Let Solely delights, and all the camps peat ourselves in others, and still us be sincere, my dear madam"be young as they. You must allow "-and Protestant," murmured Mrs. me to salute you-the custom of the Varden. country, my dear madam - your "-and Protestant above all things. It is Known Everywhere.-There is daughter too." Let us be sincere and Protestant, not a city, town or hamlet in Can-

♥ 1905 ♥ S. Peter's Chains. S. Stephen I., Pope.
Finding of Relics of S. Stephen.
S. Dominick.
Our Lady of the Snow. T. w. Transfiguration. SS. Cyriacus and Companions S. Emidius, S. Laurence. r. S. Sixtus II., Pope. S. Clare. Ninta Sunday After Pen S. Alphonsus Mary Liguori. S. Hormisdas, Pope. Assumption of B. V. M. Su. M. T. W. S. Roch. Octave of S. Lawrence. w. S. Hyacinth. Fast. B. Urban II., Pope. Tenth Sunday After Pent S. Jane Frances de Chantal. Octave of the Assumption. S. Phillip Benitius.
S. Bartholomew, Apostle.
S. Louis, King of France. w. 25 S. Zephyrinus, Pope. Eleventh Sunday After Pentecost

Most Pure Heart of Mary. S. Augustine, Beheading of S. John Baptist.

S. Raymund Nonnatus.

S. Rose of Lima.

UNIVERSITY MATRICULATION

31

31 DAYS

We make a specialty of preparing students for Univer sity and Departmental examinations. We guarantee success to students who follow our instructions. Canadian Correspondence College, Limited

BY MAIL TORONTO, CAN. Minimum and the second of the Wherefore she desired that Dolly afterwards erect some worthy superwould be kissed immediately, on pain structure." of her just displeasure; at the same Now, to be sure, Mrs. Varden time giving her to understand that thought, here is a perfect characwhatever she saw her mother do, ter. Here is a meek, righteous, ing or reflection on the subject - difficult of attainment; who, having which, indeed, was offensive and un- dropped a pinch of salt on the tails dutiful, and in direct contravention to of all the cardinal virtues, and caught the church catechism.

pose Barnaby is privy to these circumstances?"

dale, "to see me here. Now, I am der made him start and turn his head.

Thus adminished, boly compiled, though by no means willingly; for the good woman never doubted (as many good men and wo-"Quite impossible to say, sir," re- Mr. Haredale glanced at him-not "Industry," said Mr. Chester, "is admiration in Mr. Chester's face, restant. You remember our little com- "Sir," returned the 'prentice, lay- proving air, and then turned to her ple; let us change the subject, pray"

"Ah!" sighed Mrs. V., shaking her so contrived it, and said it in that

"Ah!" echoed Miggs. "Is that the case?" said Mr. Chester, compassionately. "Dear me!" "Master has no intentions, sir." "You have done what?" said Mr. "The better, Mr. Tappertit, for murmured Miggs as she sidled up to looking into your ingenous face once him, "but to be as grateful as his natur will let him, for everything he coming out. They could see him "Good God, sir," cried Gabriel, smiling friend. "I have found it nec- "I am well, sir," said Sim, stand- owns which it is in his powers to ap- Not yet, my soul, these friendly from the coach-roof fast asleep in his interrupting him, "don't entertain essary to take some active steps to- ing up to get nearer to his ear, preciate. But we never, sir'- said cosey bar. It was a part of John's such dark thoughts for a moment. wards setting this boy and girl at- and whispering hoarsely, "as any Miggs, looking sideways at Mrs. Var- Where thou with grass, and rivers, character. He made a point of go- Five and twenty years ago, where tachment quite at rest, and have be- man can be under the aggravations to den, and interlarding her discourse ibg to sleep at the coach's time. He was there a girl like her? a gay, gun by removing these two agents. which I am exposed. My life's a with a sigh-"we never know the And the bright face of day, they daldespised gadding about; he looked up- handsome, laughing, bright-eyed dam- You are surprised? Who can with- burden to me. If it wasn't for wen- full value of some wines and fig- where to thine ear first sang the enon coaches as things that ought to sel! Think what she was, sir. It stand the influence of a little money! geance, I'd play at pitch and toss trees till we lose 'em. So much the worse, sir, for them as has the Where love and thou that lasting peace of mankind; as restless, bust-ling, busy, horn-blowing contrivances, man for a daughter, to think what fear from them. They are gone."

In wanter to the losing nazard.

"Is Mrs. Varden at home?" said slighting of 'em on their consciences when they're gone to be in full blow when they're gone to be in full blow The ship rides trimmed, and from the quite beneath the dignity of men, she was and what she is. We all "Gone!" echoed Mr. Haredale. "Sir," returned Sim, eyeing him elsewhere." And Miss Miggs cast up over with a look of concentrated ex- her eyes to signify where that might Thou hearest airy voices; but not yet

As Mrs. Varden distinctly heard, and was intended to hear, all that Freedom is far, rest far. Thou art if an unlucky stranger made inquiry and scorns to have you at a advant- as you do to-night-the Lord knows "Then come this way, sir," said Miggs said, and as these words aptouching the offensive vehicles; "we tage. But care and suffering (and where; I believe Columbus himself Sim, wiping his face upon his apron. peared to convey in metaphorical they're more trouble than they're sir-secret, stealthy undermining and me they have their hidden rea- me to whisper in your ear, one-half she would at some early period droop beneath her trials and take an Love for dear love, still suppliant If you like to wait for them you can; flowers in Eden, and do more havoc pledged myself to secrecy. She appointed to see you here to-night I Mr. Tappertit raised himself on tipmediately began to languish, and take the stars, she immediately began to languish, and take the stars and the stars.

A bond at high is forced; a debt it gently from her hand, and turned From man, from God, from nature, alien, she visited and left the village where she had been born, and lived a merry child, a comely with brightened eyes, and sturdy, would unlock the mystery; until Mr. ter."

to follow him to the parfor door, where he announced him in the voice of a gentleman-usher. "Mr. Chestage was strictly true) "have leave the complex of the hope that of its own accord it would unlock the mystery; until Mr. ter."

"You're a mother, Mrs. Varden." "And you're not surprised to hear this, Varden?" said Mr. Haredale. "Well! You and she have always memory with it, poor fellow; I only want to put heleve the heat friends are was too good verge—widely, as you know. For the present, I shall remain here."

"But do not let his father," said Mr. Chester, taking a pinch of snuff, "and you know what I, as a soon or late she fall; whether to-day thy heat friends are you should want to put heleve the effect of this last father, feel, when he is praised. He been the best friends, and you should understand her if anybody does."

was. For myself. I'll keep her old wretched," returned the other. "It's last reading the miserable, melancholy, utterly let his father be any check or re easiness—he's of a roving nature, whether to-day thy friends gives me some uneasiness—much understand her if anybody does."

Was. For myself. I'll keep her old wretched," returned the other. "It's last latter, feel, when he is praised. He gives me some uneasiness—much understand her if anybody does."

Was. For myself. I'll keep her old wretched," returned the other. "It's last latter, feel, when he is praised. He gives me some uneasiness—much understand her if anybody does."

Was. For myself. I'll keep her old wretched," returned the other. "It's last latter, feel, when he is praised. He gives me some uneasiness—much understand her if anybody does." "I ask your pardon, sir," rejoined picture in my mind; and thinking of a place of the very last description straint on your domestic occupation of a place of the very last description of a place of the very sweet to sweet-but his is the but-"Oh! Now! There! Ain't I al- terfly time of life, and we must not Contend, my soul, for moments and not your daughter, Mrs. Varden? No, minute's talk with you alone-the on- Yet surely him shall fortune overly thing I object to in it is, that it the fact from myself in my affection "Ah, Mrs. Varden!" cried the visi- for Ned, still I always revert to this But he, unthinking, in the present tor. "Ah, ma'am-humanity is in- -that if we are not sincere, we are them every one; makes light of their -was perfectly genuine and true. He marvellous (To be Continued.)

Iture calmb and chaerfully until he firm

way that it appeared to have been forced from him, and its effect was

Not Yet, My Soul

fields desert. and the breeze,

bargain made.

eternal shore Depart, my soul, not yet a while de-with life Too closely woven, nerve with nerve entwined; don't book for 'em; we'd rather not; those have changed her) are devils, wouldn't find them. Between you "Follow me, sir.—Would you permit terms a presage of foreboding that Service still craving service, love for love.

doth lie

By vast rebound it grows, unceasing growth: Gift upon gift, alms upon alms, up reared, till the soul At that so huge indulgence stands amazed. Leave not, my soul, the unfoughten field, nor leave Thy debts dishonored, nor thy place desert had entered on its hardest sorrows. That I say she was too good for him. they were walking in the same direction fine affable young gentleman he was. Up, spirit, and defend that fort of ed in mind.

"My daughter, indeed, sir," return- does partake of insincerity. Now, Him smite in turn, headlong his ened Mrs. V., blushing with great juhowever I may attempt to disguise how that dear land, now safe, to-

-Stevenson.

Dolly showed some reluctance to strictly moral, strictly just (though ada where Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil perform this ceremony, but was always with a leaning towards mer- is not known-wherever introduced it sharply reproved by Mrs. Varden, who insisted on her undergoing it that minute. For pride, she said with great severity, was one of seven deadly sins, and humility and lowliness of heart were virtues.

ne congratu-