

TWELVE MEN SECURED FOR HAINS TRIAL

Jury Selected With Dispatch

HAINS PLEADED

Feature of Trial Will Be Tank of Water and Miniature Float

FLUSHING, N. Y., Dec. 15.—A jury of twelve men have been selected to try Thornton J. Hains, a story writer, as a principal in the killing of Wm. E. Burke, a publisher, who was shot to death by Captain Peter Hains at the Bayside Yacht Club last summer, and tomorrow the state will present its case against the author. Six jurors were chosen today, the twelfth juror taking his seat shortly before six o'clock to-night, when an adjournment was taken until tomorrow morning.

One hundred and seventeen talesmen were examined, sixteen of which were peremptorily challenged by the prosecution and fifteen by the defense before the jury box was filled.

Thornton Hains expressed himself as pleased with the make-up of the men who would pass upon the evidence in the case. Hains said: "They are all good men and qualified to pass carefully upon the facts presented. They are men of my choice, and I feel that the jury will acquit me when the evidence is put before them."

The expedition with which the jury was chosen, taking only four sessions of court, is considered unusual by those conversant with the widespread knowledge of the case in Queens county. Judge Crane overrode a delay by eliminating unnecessary questions and directing that all interrogations of talesmen be brief.

The prosecution's case will be presented by District Attorney Durkin, and it is expected that the examination of witnesses by both sides will consume at least two or three days.

A feature of the trial will be a tank of water and a model boat and a miniature replica of the scene of the shooting, which will be placed on a table in front of the witness stand, and from thence representing the principals in the affair, will be moved about in this marine theatre to illustrate actions and positions taken in the tragedy by Hains and the witnesses.

The jury, which will be permitted to return to their homes at the conclusion of each day's trial, is made up as follows: William Hill, foreman, Long Island City; Thomas Welch, builder, Long Island City; Henry Hecker, shipping clerk, Woodside; Samuel W. Johnson, supply dealer, Richmond Hill; John Benham, stableman, Ridgewood; Frederick Lee, Richmond, cashier; Far Rockaway; Alexander Jardin, plumber, Long Island City; Hugh McCullagh, milk dealer, Laurel Hill; Louis New, carpenter, Jamaica; William McLean, painter, Jamaica; Charles Patrick, retired farmer, Jamaica; Henry Boenig, foreman, Corona.

From information received by The News yesterday it is believed that Hayes, the ex-convict, who formerly lived in West St. John, will not be allowed to visit his relatives.

Immigration officials are watching the train and boats, and it is thought that if he attempts to enter Canada he will be held up for investigation if he is not turned back at once. Although Hayes has paid the penalty of his crime the state still looks upon him as a murderer. It is believed that he has been expecting him for some days, but as yet he has not put in an appearance.

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—Premier Rutherford and Attorney General Cross of Alberta are in Ottawa on a private mission. In the course of an interview today Premier Rutherford declared the intention of his government to urge a vigorous policy of railway construction to open vast areas of good agricultural lands north of Edmonton. During the past autumn he said over 2,500 homesteads had been taken up in Alberta and Saskatchewan as a result of the western lands act passed at the last session of parliament. In respect to this prospect for early provincial elections in Alberta, Mr. Rutherford declined to make any statement.

"A DOUBTFUL FUTURE."
"Bigging has developed a habit of saying rude and sarcastic things." "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I am waiting to see whether he is going to be recognized as a great bore or a social lion."

'PSYCHIC NEEDLE' IS WITH MISSING WIFE

Reason Why Woman and Child Left "Thought Transference" Expert

SHE SENDS FOR MONEY

WILKES-BARRE, Dec. 15.—News of the unhappy outcome of the romantic elopement from this city three years ago of Miss Kathryn Hoban of Middletown, a suburb, and J. Herndon Tourville of St. Louis is arousing much sympathy here for the wife.

MRS. J. H. TOURVILLE. She is a niece of Bishop Hoban of Scranton, and attracted some attention several years ago by her elopement. Mrs. Tourville has now left her husband, taking with her their little daughter, Marie Louise, who has been called "the psychic needle."

Tourville, a good-looking, dashing fellow, who spent some time here doing "thought transference" stunts and "psychic readings," induced Miss Hoban to elope, and they were married at Niagara Falls in August, 1905.

Now Tourville says his wife has run away with their two-year-old daughter, Marie Louise, whom he calls his "psychic needle." He intimates that she is under the protection of her uncle, Bishop M. J. Hoban of the Scranton diocese or with her family at Middletown.

Instead, she is living in a small village near St. Louis, and writes her family that she and her child are on the verge of starvation. Forced by ill-treatment, she says, to leave her husband, she has written her family, asking that they send her money. Money has been sent.

Professor Charles Hoban, superintendent of schools at Avoca, and other members of the family are indignant at the notoriety Tourville has aroused. They believe that all he has done has been accounted for by a spirit of revenge for having been kept in jail here for six weeks a year ago. At that time his wife left him owing to ill-treatment and was living with her family.

"He came to this city, induced her to bring the child to see him and then made a daring attempt to seize it. It was captured and sent to jail. Later he and his wife were reconciled."

WILL BE PREVALENT.
CHATHAM, N. B., Dec. 15.—Stories are current respecting the shooting of moose, which at this time is illegal but as the closed season has only been for two weeks enough time has not elapsed for reports to be thoroughly sifted. Yet if the present system continues there is no doubt but that illegal shooting will be prevalent before the winter is over.

Novel Defense Successfully Offered to Washington Jury by Young Lover.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 15.—That he was trying to elope with a girl is the novel defense made by Edward E. Edwards, on trial for the theft of a horse and buggy. The young fellow, according to the story of his attorney, had been boarding at the home of Mr. Quackenbush at Granger, where he hired a team from Charles Quackenbush's pretty 18-year-old daughter.

The parents did not take kindly to the match, and asked the young man to move on. An elopement was agreed up forthwith, the idea being that Edwards should get a team at Granger and drive to North Yakima to be married. He was unable to hire a team at Granger, so he went on to Toppenish, where he hired a team from Charles Newell, the plaintiff in the case. At Granger he found the girl waiting, but being a little short of funds for a honeymoon, he decided to look up a man who owed him some money and collect the man being in Prosser. Edwards kept on driving, his arrest by the sheriff being the unromantic ending to his love affair.

Judge Preble demonstrated the truth of the statement that "all the world loves a lover" by directing the jury to bring in a verdict of "not guilty."

AN OVERDRESSED DRAMA.
It is truly in the last fifty years that the true origin of the theater, the decent interpretation of the drama, has been utterly obscured. Today carpenters, costumers and wigmakers throw the humble playwright into the shade.

WHOLESALE SLAUGHTER OF BIG GAME ON NORTH SHORE DURING WINTER

Sensational Stories of Illegal Killing in Circulation

Lumber Camps Said to Subsist on Moose Meat in Winter

How Those in the Camp Manage to Turn the Trick

Chief Game Warden Discredits Story—Investigation Demanded

CAMPBELLTON, Dec. 15.—This afternoon your correspondent was informed that a large quantity of fresh meat supplied to men working in the lumber camps in the Restigouche was that of the moose or caribou irrespective of sex and killed in season and out. This, coming from a reliable source, aroused a curiosity to find out how it was obtained.

On a Saturday night two men hide about the camp in a convenient place where they can get it unobserved. They then leave the camp, presumably for a stroll, pick up the rifle and go off after moose. At this season of the year this is easy to find, as the animals are in pairs and are tame and as easy to kill as a domestic cow. Here the pot hunters select the desired animal, shoot it down, dress it and convey it to the nearest logging or to the road, where the teams pick it up Monday and convey it to camp. This furnishes a most economical meat supply, and as the game warden in this county are indifferent to anything except drawing their pay such a thing as a prosecution for violation of the law is unheard of.

Throughout the winter hundreds of cow moose bearing young are killed as well as young and old bulls. In this way the moose, which have been increasing to such an extent in Northumberland and Gloucester counties are becoming less plentiful in Restigouche. Each year it has been proved that it protected the big game of the province will yield a very large revenue and thousands of dollars are paid out to the farmers and men who act as guides for foreign sportsmen. The government should take the matter up.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Hunter Doll, formerly the wife of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis, and who won in a social war that involved statesmen, diplomats and even the president of the United States, died suddenly last night on her farm near Hyattsville, Md.

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

MRS. B. BORMANN WELLS. AS SHE APPEARED IN HOLLOWAY PRISON, LONDON.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—With one shoulder still partially wrenched from an abrupt contact with a London "bobby" before the house of commons, recently, and with about twenty pounds of avoidpote that had to belong to her sacrificed to the cause while incarcerated, Mrs. B. Bormann Wells, fresh from Holloway prison, London, and still the same ardent and vigorous exponent of woman suffrage, surprised every one present by appearing in the headquarters of the National Progressive Woman's Suffrage Union.

Whatever damage was done to Mrs. Wells' shoulder, her voice went through the recent encounters apparently unscathed. Her first move when she reached the city was to send out word that she was ready to be interviewed.

"You see," said the heroine of the journalistic scintillations, "we planned to rush the house of commons on October 13 and let the police know, as well as the press, in advance. Six thousand special policemen formed a cordon five deep around the house of commons. One hundred women who were not afraid to go to prison if they were caught got in front and there were thousands behind pushing. We rushed the police and they hurried us back rudely. I sprained my shoulder and was shaken up."

HEROINE OF CAPITAL SOCIAL WAR IS DEAD
Former Mrs. Cushman K. Davis, Once a Seamstress Won Recognition STATESMEN INVOLVED

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—Mrs. Hunter Doll, formerly the wife of the late Senator Cushman K. Davis, and who won in a social war that involved statesmen, diplomats and even the president of the United States, died suddenly last night on her farm near Hyattsville, Md.

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

It was while she was Mrs. Davis that the woman engaged in a fight for social recognition. When Davis was Governor of Minnesota, in 1878, a seamstress by the name of Anna Arnow was employed in his household. The governor's wife got a divorce, and shortly after he married the handsome girl. But society would not accept her and those who ruled in St. Paul were keen to snub Mrs. Davis. A William R. Merriam later was elected Governor of Minnesota, and it remained for Mrs. Merriam to show that Mrs. Davis was not to travel in the "four hundred."

LAY THE CORNER STONE OF NATIONAL THEATRE

Marks Beginning of New Impulse in Artistic and Educational Development

ROOSEVELT WRITES

NEW YORK, Dec. 15.—Marking what it is hoped to be the beginning of a new impulse in the artistic and educational development, not only of New York city but of the country at large, the corner stone of the new theatre at Sixty-second street and Central Park West, was laid today with elaborate ceremonies and in the presence of many distinguished guests.

A letter of President Roosevelt was as follows: "WHITE HOUSE, Washington, Nov. 23, 1908. 'Gentlemen—Permit me to express my hearty good wishes for the undertaking in which you are engaged. As I understand it your purpose in establishing the 'new theatre' is to make use of a great agency for the encouragement of a refined and artistic understanding, an agency which shall increase the ability of our people to realize and enjoy what is really beautiful, what tends to give the right kind of relief and relaxation from the strain and tension of our daily work. I am, of course, in cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

The new theatre will be the first season next November under the administration of Winthrop Ames with Lee Shubert as business manager and John Corbin as literary manager.

"Moderate and cordial sympathy with your aim to give special encouragement to both playwrights and actors who are native to our own soil, and I observe with especial pleasure the fact that the theatre which you are planning to build will be run for the benefit of the poor, and that any pecuniary benefits which may result from its operation shall be used for the creation of an endowment and a fund for the maintenance of a school of dramatic art and for other purposes of the same kind. 'With all good wishes, believe me, 'Sincerely yours, 'THEODORE ROOSEVELT.'"

ROOT NAMES KNOX AS HIS SUCCESSOR

President-Elect Also in Favor of Him as Secretary of State

MAY ACCEPT POST

WASHINGTON, Dec. 15.—That Senator Knox will succeed Secretary Root as secretary of state in President Taft's cabinet is believed by Republican members of the senate.

Senator Knox will not discuss the matter, but the impression prevails that he will accept the state portfolio and that Mr. Taft has already offered it to him.

It is understood that when Mr. Taft had his conference with Secretary Root on Friday respecting matters pending in the state department and the character of diplomatic management that will be required to continue upon their present footing the relations between this and other countries, Secretary Root strongly urged Senator Knox as his successor.

TAFT FAVORS KNOX.
Mr. Taft is known to have regarded the suggestion most favorably, and the only question which remained to be settled was whether or not Senator Knox would leave the senate to re-enter the cabinet.

When Senator Knox's name was first mentioned in connection with a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

But now the statement is made—and by some of Senator Knox's closest friends—that he is living in a cabinet place the idea was ridiculed. He had resigned the attorney generalship, and as he had recently declared that the only place in the cabinet he could possibly care about was that of a cabinet member of the department of justice, it was naturally concluded that he would decline any other Mr. Taft might make.

MORRISSEY'S MEDICINE ON SALE

ers Filled Yesterday and Medicine Shipped

OTHER ATTACK

ST. N. B., Dec. 15.—A meeting of the shareholders of the Father Medicine Company was held at 11 o'clock yesterday afternoon, when the following directors were chosen: Richard O'Leary, president; S. Montgomery, vice-president; D. F. MacKenzie, treasurer; C. Winslow, secretary; W. H. Hogan, the first filled yesterday and the company's travellers are on the road today to solicit orders.

It occurred this morning of a well known and after nine weeks' illness, leaves a husband and nine of whom reside here but

CHRISTMAS FAIR.
A fair being held by the Hotel Dieu at 11 o'clock Monday night and returns to the attack on Morrissey in today's issue. A personal attack on Laughlin Pinder and his supporters in the which goes so far as to use names in a paper owned by the government, the is evidently been written by the owner himself, is upon by the Telegraph as dangerous ground. The is not understood. This line with the author's recent by-election. It is taken the government in re just as his course in was intended to destroy party in this county, an is consistent in his he's inside and W. C. outside this astute person sets the floor of the house follows in its all-liberal

ACCEPTS COMMON AS CHIEF
Decline a Post as Even if Offered, eral Declares
TS HIS FOE

PRINCE, Dec. 15.—I saw in today. He will accept as an accomplished fact as provisional President intends to stay outside lities. If he is offered a ture cabinet he will re-to the acting president French Minister and

WILL NOT ALLOW HAYES TO ENTER

From Information received by The News yesterday it is believed that Hayes, the ex-convict, who formerly lived in West St. John, will not be allowed to visit his relatives.

Immigration officials are watching the train and boats, and it is thought that if he attempts to enter Canada he will be held up for investigation if he is not turned back at once. Although Hayes has paid the penalty of his crime the state still looks upon him as a murderer. It is believed that he has been expecting him for some days, but as yet he has not put in an appearance.

OPENING UP NEW AREAS

OTTAWA, Dec. 15.—Premier Rutherford and Attorney General Cross of Alberta are in Ottawa on a private mission. In the course of an interview today Premier Rutherford declared the intention of his government to urge a vigorous policy of railway construction to open vast areas of good agricultural lands north of Edmonton. During the past autumn he said over 2,500 homesteads had been taken up in Alberta and Saskatchewan as a result of the western lands act passed at the last session of parliament. In respect to this prospect for early provincial elections in Alberta, Mr. Rutherford declined to make any statement.

A DOUBTFUL FUTURE.

"Bigging has developed a habit of saying rude and sarcastic things." "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "I am waiting to see whether he is going to be recognized as a great bore or a social lion."

WHOLESALE LIQUORS

W. M. L. WILLIAMS, Successor to M. A. Flinn, Wholesale and Retail Wine and Spirit Merchant, 110 and 113 Prince William St. Established 1870. Write for family price list.

ARRESTED FOR HORSE STEALING; WAS ELOPING

Novel Defense Successfully Offered to Washington Jury by Young Lover.

NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., Dec. 15.—That he was trying to elope with a girl is the novel defense made by Edward E. Edwards, on trial for the theft of a horse and buggy. The young fellow, according to the story of his attorney, had been boarding at the home of Mr. Quackenbush at Granger, where he hired a team from Charles Quackenbush's pretty 18-year-old daughter.

The parents did