

TORTURED FROM BABYHOOD

"Fruit-a-lives" Cures Constipation

Mrs. E. A. GOODALL

REMINGTON, ALTA., Nov. 20th, 1911
"I have been a sufferer since babyhood from the terrible complaint, Constipation. I have been treated by physicians, and have taken every medicine I heard of, but none of them brought me any relief. I finally concluded that there was no remedy in the world that could cure Constipation. About this time I heard about 'Fruit-a-lives' and decided to try them. The effect was marvellous.

"Fruit-a-lives" is the only medicine that ever did me any good and I want to say to all who suffer as I did—'Try this fruit medicine and you will find—as I did—a perfect cure.'
(Mrs.) E. A. GOODALL
"Fruit-a-lives" is the only medicine in the world made of fruit and the only one that will positively and completely cure you of Constipation.

At the old Bailey Sessions held recently in London, Mrs. Elizabeth Pankhurst, the militant suffragette leader, and Mrs. M. P. K. Pethwick Lawrence, joint editors of 'Votes for Women' were all found guilty. Each was sentenced to nine months imprisonment, on the charge of conspiracy, and inciting their followers to malicious damage of property.

The London despatches describe the scene in the court as 'pathetic when the verdict of 'guilty' was pronounced. The sentence does not involve 'hard labor.'
The intrepid leader, whose courage at least we must admire, declared that the offense which had brought them into the dock was political and not criminal. It was wrong to treat them as criminals. They were exponent of a 'cause' not of selfish or personal advantage. If the Government expected to make a clean sweep of the political brains of the women's movement by such tactics, it was greatly mistaken.

Acting on the evidence and the nature of the charge made, the result, as was generally anticipated, but after all were these enthusiasts really guilty of 'conspiracy' with 'malicious intent to damage property'? Was not the formulating of the charge a more prejudiced straining of the masculine imagination rather than actual belief in the squalid attitude of the leaders for equal suffrage?

The working of the human mind often produces curious results. As long as she is 'suffragette' she is loyal to the male sex, for she is ready to point a finger at the 'malicious' dare to denigrate the 'malicious' voice in determining the legal conditions under which she shall work for his maintenance.
If the suffragettes are really guilty of the charge for which they were sentenced, they should bear their punishment like men, otherwise they must be considered 'inconsistent' and unreasonable.

England's Drink Bill.

Several budget speeches in recent years have referred with satisfaction to the steady growth of temperance in Great Britain and the reduction in the country's drink bills. Apparently the year 1911 brought disappointment to the temperance reformers, instead of a further decrease in the consumption of alcoholic beverages there was an increase. The drink bill for that year amounted to $10,000,000, which is a record. The increase is due to the fact that the country's population is increasing.

It is quite probable that the steady and slow increase of the year was not in the middle. It would not be safe to generalize that the year was a success in so complex and obscure, and at least the British people, who are so proud of their temperance record, will be disappointed by the news.

reformers. Still, it is not unnatural that public men should be advocating a further reduction in the number of licensed public houses, or should be declaring the present licensing system, with its recognition of vested rights in the business, to have proved a failure.

Clock Made of Glass.

A clock constructed throughout of glass is the result of six years' work on the part of a Bavarian glass polisher. The plates and pillars which form the frame work are of glass and are bolted together with glass screws. The dial plate, hands, shafts and cog-wheels are of glass, and glass wedges and pins are used for fastening the various parts of the running gear together. Like the clock itself, the key by which it is wound is of glass. The construction of the remarkable timepiece was a matter of infinite pains. Some parts had to be changed as many as 40 times before a clock that would go could be produced.

The ancient Egyptians treated cats with great distinction. It was a crime to kill them, and when they died they received a public burial, at which the people mourned, having first shaved off their eyebrows as a token of sorrow. The most prominent cats were upon death embalmed in drugs and spices, and cat mummies have been found side by side with those of kings.

Coal to Burn.

The Commission appointed to enquire into Canada's mineral resources gives Nova Scotia credit for only 3,000,000 tons of good coal. This is about a third of the figures given by some other authorities. As Nova Scotia has no bit coal the figures must mean her total coal supply. The figures are the roughest kind of an approximate. Coal is still being discovered in Britain in unthought of places, and no doubt a similar thing will happen here.

Jerry, a horse owned by William O'Dowd, of Pine Brook, N. J., has just run 40 years of life, but he is still on the active list. His owner uses him on small jobs about the farm and drives him in the family carriage regularly to church on Sunday. In the 16 years that Mr. O'Dowd has owned him Jerry has never been sick a day. He has a hearty appetite his owner says, eating 12 quarts of oats a day with evident relish.

GAVE HORSES AWAY
Executor of Goldwin Smith's Estate Had Permission of Cornell

In passing upon the accounts in connection with the settling of the estate of the late Dr. Goldwin Smith, Judge Winchester discovered that two of the literary man's favorite horses had been given away since his death by the executors. In explanation, Mr. G. L. Smith, one of the executors, said that he had done this as a result of Dr. Smith's stating on his death-bed that he would rather have them given away than sold. When it was pointed out by the judge that they were really the property of Cornell University, Mr. Smith stated that he had written to the university authorities, and had secured their consent to giving the horses away. They were valued at $200 each.

WINDOW BOXES
A pretty idea for window boxes, for those who can afford it, is to make the color of a tiled box mingle or contrast with the plants; a turquoise blue is pretty with creepers of pale yellow or the variegated ivy arranged to fall over the tiles; or a common wooden box painted a soft green, filled with thickly planted 'Wandering Jew,' and placed in a green tin is excellent for a window sill, and if the tin is large enough to have some pots of hardy ferns it makes a refreshing mass of damp green all during summer. The plants of anything can be put in close together, and if higher in the middle than the ends is very effective. Naturalistic boxes are always good if they are arranged to give a sense of unity. If the plants are sweet and pretty, hardy ferns are nice, and if they are nothing but ferns, kept soft and damp, is delight. Orange and lemon seeds make lovely miniature trees if kept in the houses of winter, and brought out for verandah, window sills, steps, or anywhere the sun shines, giving plenty of water.

At the Remond Y. M. C. A. Bay Camp, held at Wolfville in August, I found HIRSH-GENTNER men benefited for one year, so moderate relief for colds, coughs, etc.

Chest Pains of Bronchitis

It is the tendency of every cold to develop into bronchitis, consumption or some form of lung trouble. Bronchitis is most dreaded, because it has a tendency to become chronic and return again and again, until the patient becomes worn out.

If the cough is dry and hard; if there is pain, soreness or tightness in the chest; if breathing is difficult and causes pain in the chest, you have every reason to suppose that you have bronchitis and should promptly begin the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine.

Cough mixtures that may help an ordinary cold have no effect on bronchitis and asthma, but Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has won its enviable reputation on account of its wonderful success in curing these ailments. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmondson Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

ADVICE TO IMMIGRANTS
Practical Pointers Relating to Success in Canada

Be determined to succeed. Thoroughly test your strength and endurance before leaving home, and see that you are well stocked with courage and determination.

Make up your mind where you are going and go there. Don't be persuaded on route to go anywhere else.

Don't take too much luggage. Every pound must take things as they come, and "cannot" must be replaced by "have to" in his vocabulary if he wishes for success.

Learn to milk, learn to ride a horse and harness it to a cart, and accustom yourself to the use of the pick and shovel.

Trained servants, turnpike roads, daily papers, and the right to grumble at small inconveniences are to be obtained in the countries where chances are not.

A HIDDEN RADIATOR
A Canadian Who Has Patented an Interesting Invention

Canadian inventors while not numerous are attracting increasing attention throughout the world. The latest Canadian who has worked out an invention successfully is Dr. G. M. Aylesworth, Collingwood, whose hidden radiator for heating dwellings is being recognized as a step toward perfection. The radiator, through which the hot air from the furnace passes, though hidden in the partition operates on the scientific principle used with hot water heating. The forward step consists of the radiator radiators take up no room, are invisible, noiseless, simple, economical and having no moisture cannot be injured through carelessness. Dr. Aylesworth has obtained patents in the U.S. and Canada.

There is no leisure class in Canada, at any rate among the newcomers. Everyone must be ready to work and work hard.

Planner must take things as they come, and "cannot" must be replaced by "have to" in his vocabulary if he wishes for success.

THE CANADIAN RECORD
An Analysis of the Figures Regarding the Titanic's Passengers

A number of American newspapers devoted some attention to the ascertaining of the number of British and Americans on board the ill-fated Titanic when it sailed on the last voyage and also as to the number of survivors of each.

Whatever such figures may show, and the chances are that only approximate statistics can be obtained, the Canadian figures have been compiled. There were on the Titanic when she sailed 35 adult Canadians. These were divided as follows:

Men 21
Women 14

Total 35
There were, of the Canadians, 21 drowned, and 14 saved.

The saved consisted of:
Men 3
Women 11

Total 14
The Canadians who went down with the ship were divided as follows:
Men 18
Women 3

Total 21
Of the two Canadian women drowned, one at least—Mrs. Allison—was given an opportunity to go in the lifeboats, but preferred to remain with her husband.

Two Canadian men were saved. One was ordered into a lifeboat, but was insufficiently manned; the other Canadian was given a place in the boat only after the women on his part of the ship had embarked.

About a record such as this Canada may well be proud. Her men died like men after doing their best to save the women and children.

DEVELOPMENT IN WESTERN CITIES
Statistics Which Show Progress at Various Points

The great development of Western Canada is shown by the following statistics for one month. The most important cities show an average gain in building of 100 per cent. Total clearings 23 per cent. Customs receipts 24 per cent.

Among important works announced in a week to be accomplished are: A million-dollar steel plant at Winnipeg; three and a half million dollar, best frost improvements at Vancouver; million dollar worth of school houses for Calgary; huge new stock yards at Winnipeg; half million dollar office building at Saskatoon; hundred thousand dollar bank building at Edmonton; largest cutting rink in Calgary; two hundred thousand dollar making plant at Calgary; hundred and fifty thousand dollar apartment hotel at Calgary; two hundred thousand dollar departmental store at Saskatoon; half million dollar day product factory at Calgary; and a hundred thousand dollar hotel at Montreal, Alta.
