MAKE HOME AND THE TOWN ATTRACTIVE

Why is it the average young man of twenty has an intense longing, for life in the big cities?

Why is it that millions of men of maturity in the cities have an equally intense longing for the peace and quietness of the rural districts they left in their younger days?

The country town does not blaze with the bright lights of life as do the great cities. It is small, but it is solid, and substantial, and inclined to be subdued. It's citizens' words are as good as their bonds, and their reputations stand high in the sight of their fellow men, but the variety and excitement that appeals to youth is too often missing. Hence youth becomes fretful, and impatient of restraint, and finally breaks the home ties and rushes into the maelstrom of metropolitan existence.

Once in the great city, possibly one in ten succeed, and a few forge gradually to the front. In time these few are known to the world as self-made men. The other nine are not so fortunate.

Opportunities are numerous, it is true, but where there is one opportunity there are many young men of varied experience to grasp it.

Thus the great majority of young men from the country who invade the cities expecting to set the world afire find that about the best they can do is to burn the candle at both ends.

Too proud to go back to the home town and confess failure, they just plug along and do the best they can, disillusioned and wiser, but not better off.

They are the millions who, later in life, long for the peace and quietude of the home towns they left in their younger days.

The remedy is simple. Pull the home town out of the rut and the boys won't want to rush out of the town.

Loosen up on the purse strings and introduce some spice and variety into our community life.

Make the country town and the farm so attractive to our young people the city will no longer appeal to them. Don't expect our boys and girls with red blood in their veins to be content with spending their lives in a cemetery.

Begin to live yourself, and you won't be opposed to allowing the rising generation to do the same.

Life is full of changes, and there is only one end for the person who is not willing to change with the times.

A VISION OF UTOPIA

(Contributed)

A great many of the older folk are given to criticizing the younger generation nowadays without, apparently, first considering the younger person's point of view. We live in a progressive age, nobody dare deny, and it is not a natural sequence that the young folks, who have the world before them, should endeavor to keep step with what is going on around them? First and foremost it is the fundamentals which have been weighed in the balance and found wanting. If every Christian in the world today were truthfully living the religion he professes, we should find a different set of ideals in our young men and women. Christianity was surely never meant to be shut inside its churches or closed up with the pages and covers of its Bibles. If we could so desire, and therefore receive, the spirit of Christ, that we could go out into life's everyday highways and byways, and radiate a sweetening and uplifting influence upon those around us, to such an extent that others would be impelled to live better and closer to God, would not the world be a finer place? If we could attain our highest ideals and make practical use of them, could we not carry our Christianity into all our home and business activities? And if we could carry it so far, why could we not take it into our pleasures? An action is made what it is by the mind which plans it.

If we believe in a God at all, we must believe that He is everywhere—no corner or crevice in the whole universe is too insignificant for His comprehension. His presence must be felt in the meanest dwelling, the grandest palace, the saloon and the public dance-hall, as well as in the church and cathedral. It is only because the individual deliberately shuts the eyes and doors of his soul to the better things that the drinking saloon in any country is allowed to exist. The minds of men and women have made public dance-halls and women's dress what they are today, and have allowed the insidious drug-tend to hold sway where health and strength should reign supreme.

The Christian religion was not intended to be a long-faced, straight-backed affair, to be used only by old people who are weary of the world's sinful ways. It was meant to be a joyous, vigorous theme, pulsating with clean life, and governed by the greatest things in the world, Love. Love accepts no half-measures.

Truth, Honesty, Reverence, true Sportsmanship, a keen sense of Honor and has the welfare of others at heart. If only our politicians, leaders of education and of commerce in all branches of activity could bring themselves to live the true community life, the rising generation would have a cleaner, saner world to step out into when the time comes, as it inevitably must, to leave the home and seek "fresh fields and pastures new." Our home influence is the greatest influence around us. If we can so teach and train the young lives entrusted to our care to live for the highest things attainable that the lower or baser subjects will not appeal to them, have we not, in some measure, insured them against yielding to the temptations which must surely arise?

Our bodies are the temples in which we live. If we allow them a life of indulgence and intemperance, we undermine the foundation, the pillars rotter and the walls crumble to decay. Temperance, in the fullest, broadest sense of the word, is necessary if we mean to build temples fit for the Spirit of God to enter and enrich with His presence. Indulgence in any form we may call sin. Sin obliterates and gradually crushes out the finer issues of life, especially religion. If we indulge our pleasures, then, the exclusion of all else that really counts, until the mad pursuit of our favorite pastime becomes an obsession, we sin. We crowd out our better aspirations and give them, at best, only a secondary consideration. Pleasures and pastimes in their rightful place are a necessity, a means of recreation. Every normal child is born with the play instinct, and no sane person would endeavor to keep a child from playing. Adults are only children grown bigger and older, and perhaps wiser and their playtime is exactly what they plan it to be.

Shall we not, then, set up higher standards for our young people? A perpetual reaching up for higher things must inevitably leave its impression, and, even if we cannot see immediate results, let us remember that:

"The smallest effort is not lost;
Each wavelet on the ocean tossed
Aids in the ebb-tide or the flow;
Each raindrop makes some floweret blow.
Each struggle lessens human woe."
Evelyn R. Wright.

BLOOMFIELD

Mrs. Robert Carpenter and children have returned from Boston and are stopping at the home of Mrs. J. C. Carpenter. Mr. Carpenter expects to follow in a few days.

Mrs. T. D. Stokes has been on the sick list for the past two weeks but is slowly recovering.

Lee Nicholson has sold his farm to Bruce Flemming. Mr. Nicholson expects to make his home near Centreville.

Our school is being successfully managed by Miss Gertrude Markey. Miss Hilda Wilson of Lakeville has a singing school class which meets on Friday evenings in the Bloomfield Methodist church.

We are glad to hear that Claude Black is able to get out after having an attack of pleurisy.

Johnny Carr has rented the house owned by Henry Campbell for the summer.

The new blacksmith, George Pike, we are glad to say, is proving very satisfactory.

Mrs. Otis McGrath has rented her farm to Owen Graham. Miss Mildred Carpenter, who for the past months has been staying with her grandmother, Mrs. J. A. Carpenter, has gone to her home at Weston for an indefinite length of time.

We are glad to say that the new store managed by F. H. Jewett is doing a thriving business considering the times. We feel that we should give his clerk, Miss Geneva Stokes, a great deal of credit for the way in which she is carrying on the business. Joseph Bradbury is staying at the home of Mrs. Albert Wesson. Mr. Bradbury has had the misfortune of losing his eyesight.

E. F. Stokes has started his spring work. He is now in the employ of F. H. Jewett, who is finishing his new dwelling house.

Miss Vesta McClary of this place was united in marriage to Vaughn Grant of Centreville at Woodstock, April 12, and have gone to Bangor to live. Her many friends wish her a happy voyage through life.

The Mission Band wishes to thank Mrs. Lee Nicholson, President, for the great helper and leader she has been to them and are sorry to hear of her going away. As we feel she is one who will be greatly missed and her place will be hard to fill.

Chaille States Tanlac Built Him Up Recently Like It Did Years Ago

"I was about the first man in Montreal to buy Tanlac when it was put on sale here, and ever since then I have been one of its firmest friends," declared Mr. S. Chaille, 54 De Grandpro St., Montreal, Jan. Mr. Chaille has been in the real estate business for twenty years and is well-known throughout the city.

"I was feeling greatly in need of a tonic at that time," he continued, "and as the ads. said Tanlac was good for anybody in a badly run-down condition, I decided to try it. The medicine promptly built me up and I was soon back in fine health."

"I have been strong and well ever since, until a few weeks ago when I began to get weaker and felt all tired out, and was afraid I would catch the gripe if I didn't keep fit. So I went back to Tanlac and now taking it, with the same good results I got before. It certainly is a dependable medicine, and I'll always recommend it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good drug gists. Accept no substitute. Over 35-million bottles sold.
