

TO-DAY'S Messages.

10.30 A. M.

GIVEN PASSPORTS.

PARIS, To-day. The Bulgarian Minister in France has been given his passports.

CONSIDERING MUNITIONS CONTRACT.

MONTREAL, To-day. New orders aggregating, according to street report, something like twelve million dollars were under discussion at the Executive meeting of the Dominion Steel Corporation held here yesterday. It is understood the Executive finally decided under certain conditions to embark on the manufacture of large size shells, thus advancing the negotiations which have been in progress for some weeks back. An early announcement of the contract for the work has been closed is not unlikely.

GERMAN PROTEST.

BERLIN, To-day. The German Government has lodged a protest at Athens against the landing of troops on Greek territory by the Entente Powers, says Overseas News Agency. The reply of Greece has not been received.

WON BALL GAME.

PHILADELPHIA, To-day. Philadelphia won the first game of the World's Championship baseball series from Boston Red Sox, 3 to 1.

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY MILLION DOLLARS IN SHELL ORDERS.

MONTREAL, To-day. The announcement that Sir Frederick Donaldson, Chief Superintendent of Ordnance at the Woolwich Arsenal, and Lionel Hitchins Cammell, of Laird Company, were coming to Canada to assist the work of further organizing munition and gun manufacturing plants in the Dominion, was to-day made by A. E. Thomas, representative of David Lloyd George, British Munitions Minister, who has been touring the States and Canada, inspecting shell making factories. Thomas was a guest of the Montreal branch of the Canadian Manufacturers Association at luncheon and made this announcement in the course of a speech which dealt with the whole shell situation in Canada. Thomas said it had been suggested an Ordnance Plant under Government control should be constructed and when Donaldson and Hitchins arrived the matter could be gone into. Thomas pointed out that shell orders, amounting to $250,000,000 have been placed in Canada.

"THE BOYS OF LA BASSEE."

(By Patrick MacGill, in the Westminster Gazette.) You'll see from the La Bassee Road, on any summer day, The children herding many goats, the women making hay. You'll see the soldiers, khaki clad, in column and platoon. Come swinging up La Bassee Road, from billets in Bethune. There's hay to save and corn to cut, but harder work by far. Awaits the soldier boys who reap the harvest fields of war. You'll see them swinging up the road, where women work at hay. The straight, long road, La Bassee Road, on any summer day.

The night breeze sweeps La Bassee Road, the night dew wet the hay. The boys are coming back again, a straggling crowd are they. The column's lines are broken up, and gaps in the platoon. They'll not need many billets now for soldiers in Bethune. For many boys, good lusty boys, who marched so very fine. Have now got little homes of clay beside the firing line. Good luck to them, God-speed to them, the boys who march away. A-singing up La Bassee Road each sunny summer day.

A DETERMINED WOMAN

Finally Found a Food that Helped Her

"When I first read of the remarkable effects of Grape-Nuts food, I determined to secure some," says a western woman. "At that time there was none kept in this town, but my husband ordered some from a commercial traveler."

"I had been greatly afflicted with sudden attacks of cramps, nausea, and vomiting. Tried all sorts of remedies and physicians, but obtained only temporary relief. As soon as I began to use Grape-Nuts the cramps disappeared and have never returned."

"My old attacks of sick stomach were a little slower to yield, but by continuing the food, that trouble has disappeared entirely. I am to-day perfectly well, can eat anything and everything I wish, without paying the penalty that I used to. We would not keep house without Grape-Nuts."

"My husband was so delighted with the benefits I received that he has been recommending Grape-Nuts to his customers and has built up a very large trade on the food. He sells it to many of the leading physicians of the country, who recommend Grape-Nuts very generally. There is some satisfaction in using a really scientific prepared food." "There's a Reason."

BULGARIAN COMMANDER IN CHIEF.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. According to a despatch from Sofia, King Ferdinand has entrusted the command of the field forces to General Jacoff, Minister of War.

STEAMER ATTACKED IN SOUTH ATLANTIC.

RIO DE JANEIRO, To-day. The British freight steamer San Milite arrived here yesterday from Mexico and reported that she had been attacked at sea by an unknown vessel, one sailor being killed and six wounded.

Newspapers A Noite publishes an interview with the captain of the San Milite, in which he stated the British Admiralty insisted on the strictest secrecy as to the place of attack, in order to facilitate the mission of swift cruisers on patrol duty.

Condition of Wounded.

Instructions have been sent through the Government to Capt. Timewell to inquire from the War Office as to the condition of each wounded man and to wire report immediately he receives it. Any information received about any man will be forwarded immediately to relatives.

COLLARS.

By GEORGE FITCH.

Author of "At Good Old Siwash." A collar is a small white linen irritant which has caused 50,000,000 women to make the same remark while watching their husbands dressing.

The remark is: "Well, I'm glad I'm not a man," and it always comes just after a husband has torn a collar off and has addressed it in remarks that sear and burn.

Collars are compelled by the demands of style to be white and stiff, but not waterproof. These are three of the most heartless demands ever made upon the masculine sex.

It costs the men of this nation $100,000,000 a year in laundry bills to keep their collars white. Enough time is spent each day in struggling with clean collars a little less yielding than a stove pipe, to read a medium-sized library. And every time the sun gets a good hold on a summer day, it causes 40,000,000 collars to wilt like an overripe lettuce leaf.

A linen collar is so stiff in the morning that it has to be put on with jackknives. But in the afternoon, when its owner is seven miles from his base of supplies, it melts away and lies on his shoulders, causing the world to give him the brutal ha! ha!

Once upon a time, waterproof collars were invented. They could also be cleaned at home by an amateur. But the laundries bought up the funny papers and wrote so many jokes about celluloid collars that they passed away with the dibble cane head and the toothpick shoe.

In one hour, Edison could invent an enameled steel collar with a patent catch which could be put on by a one-armed man in the dark, would stand up even when worn by a fat man to a July baseball game and could be cleaned with a hose. He could invent it in an hour, but Henry Ford couldn't sell fifty of them in a year.

This is because the men who make the styles would decline to allow us to wear them.

The United States needs a larger standing army. We should enlist seven million men, arm them well and declare a war of independence against the men who make the styles. Then maybe we could get to church now and then without burning out a bearing while dressing for the occasion.

Seven officers and committeemen of the Cloak and Suit Makers' Union are now under trial in New York for first degree murder. They are accused of having procured the death of Abraham Liebovitz, a member of the union, for working in a non-union shop during the Garment Makers' strike in 1910. A notorious East Side gang leader, Benjamin Fane, as told the authorities that he and his men were employed by the defendants to "beat up scabs." A fund of $250,000 is said to have been raised by the United Hebrew Trades' Union for the defence.

The State of South Carolina has by referendum voted for state wide prohibition, the new law to become effective on Jan. 1st, next. The sale of beers and wines as well as liquor will be illegal.

"Hiram, if you'll just hang on to them reins, and be careful to keep on this side of that broke-side," the father replied reassuringly, "they won't bite you."

"It's spring for sure, father," said Hiram, and added, looking wistfully down toward the broke-side, "I bet the trout are biting down there in the hole under the willows."
