

NO UNION WITH GERMANY.

Austria Abandons Idea -- Canadian Labor Will Suppress Big Union---Bulgaria Next for Peace Terms ---Body of Murdered Captain Brought to England

PUTTING OUT THE BIG ONE.

OTTAWA, July 7. Official steps on behalf of organized labor in Canada to stamp out or suppress the policy or influence of the "one big union," has been commenced by the Dominion Trades and Labor Congress. Special action on behalf of the Trades and Labor Congress is being taken, according to President Moore, with the object of having constituted Union authority observed and restoration of confidence in legitimate trade unionism being brought about.

AUSTRIA WON'T UNITE.

PARIS, July 7. The Austria Govt. has given up at least for the time being the idea of a union with Germany. Dr. Sauer, the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared in an address delivered last week at an address delivered last week at the Congress held by the council of workers, according to the Vienna correspondent of the Temps.

MUST GET READY.

LONDON, July 7. General Cretien, commander of the Allied forces in Bulgaria, has informed the Bulgarian Premier that peace delegates from that country will be called to Paris soon and that the Bulgarian Government is invited to nominate the delegation, according to a Sofia despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Co.

FRENCH AND ITALIANS CLASH.

ROME, July 7. New clashes between the French and Italians at Fiume are reported in a message from that city. The casualties so far reported number six killed and twenty wounded.

ANARCHIST PLOT EXPOSED.

ROME, July 7. An anarchist plot to attack the central part of Rome by means of hand grenades and other explosives has been exposed by the arrest of sixteen of the conspirators four hours before the time fixed for carrying out the plans.

STARTS TO-MORROW.

MINEOLA, N.Y., July 7. The British dirigible R-34 which had been scheduled to start on her return trip to England at five o'clock to-morrow evening, will not start until "some time between midnight Tuesday and eight o'clock Wednesday morning," it was announced to-night by Brigadier-General E. M. Maitland, Chief of the lighter than air craft, of the British Air Ministry.

WILSON TO ADDRESS SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 7. President Wilson will address the Senate on the Peace Treaty and League of Nations Thursday, it was announced to-day at the White House. Because the treaty would be under discussion some doubt had been expressed as to whether the Senate would be in open session, but it was understood that Wilson desired that the session be open.

A NEW UNDERTAKING FOR AEROPLANES.

NEW YORK, July 7. An airplane expedition to ascertain the value of the wood pulp resources of Labrador, sailed from New York to-night for Nova Scotia. The party of forty is headed by Capt. Daniel Owens, who served two years with the British Air Force. It is planned to take photographs of all the large forests and from these calculate the value of the wood pulp. Four airplanes are to be used in the undertaking.

IN FOCH'S HANDS BEFORE.

COPENHAGEN, July 7. Field Marshal von Hindenburg, former Chief of the German Staff, has written Marshal Foch appealing for his support of efforts to prevent the extradition of the former German Emperor. Von Hindenburg offered also to place his own person "fully and absolutely at the disposal of the Allied Powers."

AS WITH EDITH CAVELL.

LONDON, July 7. (By the Associated Press.)—The body of Captain Charles Fryatt, executed in 1916 by the Germans for attempting to sink a submarine, was brought to Dover to-day aboard a British destroyer escorted by vessels of the Dover patrol. The casket, on a gun carriage, was drawn solemnly from the destroyer to the railway station accompanied by a naval escort and civil authorities. The casket was placed in the station under a military guard for the night. It will be taken by train to-morrow to London, where a national memorial service will be held at St. Paul's Cathedral.

WEATHER CONDITIONS UNFAVORABLE.

WASHINGTON, July 7. Weather conditions will be unfavorable for a return flight of the British dirigible R-34 during the next 48 hours, according to the weather report forwarded to the airship at Mineola late to-day by the Navy Dept. The report said threatening weather would remain over the sea, and that head winds probably would be encountered as far east as Newfoundland. The forecasts prepared by the weather bureau follows: "Moderate north-north-east and north-west winds, fair weather next 48 hours. Conditions not favorable for return flight within next 48 hours, as weather will remain threatening over the sea and head winds will probably be encountered as far east as longitude 55°."

STARTS RETURN TO-DAY.

NEW YORK, July 7. Major Scott announced definitely at noon to-day that the R-34 would start on its return journey at 5:30 o'clock to-morrow morning, flying over Boston. The dirigible will not circle New York before turning east, he said.

RECEIVED POOR WEATHER REPORTS.

MINEOLA, July 7. Members of the crew who remained here yesterday explained that the failure of R-34 to receive proper weather reports caused her to run into two storms off Newfoundland. The weather reports picked up were from the vicinity of the Azores Islands, while those from the North Atlantic region were very meagre. With reports telling of the storm area some 200 miles north by northeast of Newfoundland R-34, it was said, would have altered her course to north of the circle of wind and proceed over northern Newfoundland and Nova Scotia coast and thereby would have avoided the storm between Newfoundland and Nova Scotia.

IT HAPPENED HERE.

MINEOLA, July 7. The R-34 was torn from her mooring ropes this morning by violent gusts of wind. The cross girder to which a rope was attached broke under the strain, ripping a hole six feet by three feet in the gas bag. The giant dirigible was saved from being blown away by three hundred men who seized ropes dangling from her sides and held her down with great difficulty.

MARTYR'S BODY EXHUMED.

BRUGES, BELGIUM, July 7. (via Reuter's Titawa Agency)—The body of Capt. Fryatt was taken last evening from the cemetery here to the Provincial Govt. Building, where an enormous crowd filed past the coffin. The remains were this afternoon conveyed with all due honor to the railway station enroute to England.

DIFFICULTIES AND DANGERS.

MINEOLA, July 7. Entries from the diaries kept by the various members of the crew of the giant British dirigible throw interesting light on the difficulties and dangers of the trans-Atlantic air voyage. Notwithstanding these, General Maitland, who kept the official log of the history-making trip, predicts regular airship service across the Atlantic before many years. An entry from the diary of Lieut. Harris, meteorological officer, describes how R-34 acted when it ran into a storm off the coast of Newfoundland. "The ship seemed as though she was going to break in bits, rising and falling like a cork on a heavy sea. At times I believe she stood up 30 degrees into the air. The weather situation on the Atlantic must be investigated very thoroughly before trans-oceanic travelling between England and America can be made safe and practicable. With the limited information as to the weather conditions that we have now trans-Atlantic travel is highly dangerous. I consider it almost a miracle that we completed the trip successfully after what we went through."

LONDON THE PLACE.

PARIS, July 7. The question of the trial of former Emperor William was on the programme for discussion by the Council of Three for several days while President Wilson was still in Paris, Reuter's Paris Bureau declares to-day in an article regarding the recent assertions by the members of the American peace mission that Premier Lloyd George's statement on the subject in the House of Commons has come as a surprise to them. Reuter's, which says its information comes from authoritative circles, adds however, that because of more urgent business coming up, the discussion of the question by the council was postponed. Nevertheless the Agency declared it is known that President Wilson expressed himself strongly as to the place for the holding of the trial, and it asserts there is every reason to believe that he was fully cognizant of the decision to try the Emperor in London.

Reinstating the Soldier.

One of the hardest problems which this Dominion, as well as the rest of the Empire, has to solve, is the re-instating of the soldier; a task which is by no means an easy one, in view of the fact that he lived a free and easy life while fighting in defence of his King and Country, and those who have been entrusted with the responsibility of re-instating them into civilian life, find that the life which the soldier has lived has become a habit of his which is not easy for him to throw off. This, then, makes the problem a very difficult one to solve, and it will be well for those whose care it is to see these men re-instated, first of all to remember that they must exercise patience and not to expect great things from them in the beginning, for every soldier has more or less developed an independent spirit which makes him feel that he is under no obligations to anyone, whatever. Therefore, to deal with him, without considering this, is a mistake which, if remedied, would make the task of placing him back into civilian life a far easier one. How often one hears of a soldier "chucking" his job, as he terms it, and if one was to examine the cause of him leaving his position, one would find, in most cases, that it was brought about through the employer's failure to give any quarter or to consider his soldier-employee, who himself finds it no easy task after two or three years of soldiering to set himself to work with a will, as he did before he responded to the call of his country. And unless consideration is given the soldier one will find that our country is up against a hard proposition: for the man that was prepared to give his life, if needs be, for the welfare of his native land, can hardly be expected to abide by hard and fast rules which are detrimental to what he fought for. If the soldier is given what he upheld on the field of battle, it will be easy to re-instate him: that was justice. Give him that, and you have won his heart and you will find him not what he is often thought to be—a reckless, careless and indifferent fellow. You will find him loyal and energetic, and willing to receive sound advice. But, if you are not prepared to give him justice and consideration, you will do well to leave him alone. Why not give him justice and consideration, seeing that he upheld these ideals amid all the horrors of war? If it was his duty to uphold it there, is it your duty to show them to him now that he has come back, and has thrown aside the weapons of war, and is beginning the task of fitting himself in a position in life. GARLAND RODGERS.

WHOLESALE CONFECTIONERS.

Last Night's Footer.

In last evening's game the Stars won from the C.E.L. by a score of 2 to 0, scoring one goal in each half. The first was headed in by Power as the ball bounced off the cross bar, and the second was notched up by Brien. Considering the slippery condition of the field and the greasy state of the ball, good play was put up by both sides, and on the whole the game was a good one being hard fought but clean from beginning to end. The attendance of spectators was large; the gate receipts totalling $100. Judging by the two games already played, this season's footer will be of a better brand than during the last few years, for which spectators will be thankful. Mr. H. Foster was referee, and the players were: C.E.L.—Goal, Noseworthy; backs, Thistle, Max Churchill; halves, Fox, Drover, A. Hennebury; forwards, Chafe, Adams, Weisman, Earle, E. Churchill.

Star—Goal, Delahunty; backs, J. Kavanagh, Sullivan; halves, E. Kavanagh, W. Hart, W. Duggan; forwards, B. Hart, Power, Bell, L. Kavanagh, F. Brien.
