The supplies of home-fed factitle both in Edinburgh and Giasgow this week have been large. Trade generally has been quieter, though the primer qualities did not suffer to any extent. Secondary were decidedly cheaper, with a difficult and unsatis-factory finish. The Irish cattle on offer have been very good, and were bought by some of the best butchers. Fat cows and bulls continue to meet a very slow market. Foreign supplies for the week have been large. The States cattle were a useful lot and are reported to have made from 68 dt o 78 3d per stone. Amongst the Canadians were various lots of the best selected cattle seen this season. Prices have been in favor of buyers. The supply of fat sheep in Edinburgh has geen a fair average and in Glusgow large. In both markets there have been rath a trade outie equal to last week, but sendary sheep and ewes have made the lower in small numbers and realized full does. Ryo made quite previous prices. LONDON, Nov. 24.—Telegrams from Rio de Janeiro say Da Fonseca has resigned. In retiring, or "resigning," as he called it, he declared he did so in favor of Floriano he declared he did so in favor or Fiornan Peixotto, the vice-president or vice-chief of the provisional government of which Fonseca was the head. Whether the Opposition will be content to allow Peixotto, about whom little is known here, to assume about whom little is known here, to assume the leadership of the State, is not known. Insurrection has been smouldering in Rio Janeiro for several days. The first overt manifestation was the cutting of the railway near the city on Saturday night. The rising came to a head yesterday morning, the navy leading in an open revolt and demanding the resignation of Da Fonseca. Finding resistance useless, Da Fonseca announced that he would comply with the demand. Intense excitement with the demand. Intense excitement prevails. Four Persons Burned to Death at Jamestown, N. Y.—Other Conflagrations.

JAMESTOWN, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Early this morning fire was discovered in the kitchen of the Oid Homestead, a hotel at Third and Pine streets. It was supposed that all the occupants had escaped, but a fireman in making his way into the building stumbled over the charred body of Maggie Wilson, a waiter girl, about 20 years of age, whose relatives reside in Derrick City, Pa. It is said her escape was cut off by a bolted door. Three other bodies were found in one room where they all slept. None of them were burned, but all had is sufficiently from the streets. The carcass is inspected, the head is nearly severed and the body is slung up by a hind leg ready for the next man, who rips it open from neck to tail for disembowelling. Every portion of the internal organs is carefully removed, cleansed and prepared for some useful purpose. The blood is used largely for making albumen for photographic use, for sugar refining and as a fertilizer. Even the bones and refuse are ground and used for fertilizing purposes.

After the carcass has been thoroughly cooled in rooms which are kept at a temperature below 40 degrees it is run along the overhead railway to the cutting-up department, where it is taken down and separated into two sides. A workman with a powerful chopper cuts off the ham, shoulders and underlying ribs if necessary, separating the feet to be canned, pickled or passed to the lard tanks. All of this is done with a rapidity and accuracy that is inconceivable to one who has never seen the operations, and there is an endless streem of hogs passing at one end of the building alive and squealing, and coming out at the other prepared for shipment to the markets of this country or to foreign shores where the American hog is a welcome visitor. After the carcass has been thoroughly
