

FRIEDMAN TESTS
APPEAR FAILURE
AT QUEEN CITY

Beneficial Results Expected
From "Cure" Have Not Materialized.

Several of the Patients Have Been Placed on the Old Treatment.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, April 11.—That in some, at least, of the tuberculosis cases treated by Dr. Friedman in Toronto there has been a failure to produce the beneficial results expected, is practically admitted at the Toronto General Hospital.

One of the much-heralded physicians was hailed with joy coming of health to those who become the prey of the white plague. With eagerness they crowded his clinic, and felt the stimulation of hope. But the passing of the days for some the hope has not been realized, and they find themselves struggling again through the slough of despond.

No Change.
Dr. Clarke, superintendent of the General Hospital, is preparing a report on the results of the Friedman tests. His attention was called this morning to the reports of the collapse of patients in Montreal and New York, who had apparently made a start towards recovery after treatment.

"What is the condition of the patients here?" he was asked.

"There has been no change," he answered.

"No change one way or the other?"

"No."

"There were some who made temporary progress here?" he was asked.

"It seemed so," was the not too hopeful answer, "but I will have the whole report on the matter shortly."

It is known that some of the patients whose former treatment had been abandoned after the Friedman injection have again been placed under the old treatment.

MONEY SHORT IN CANADIAN WEST

Editor Chipman Thinks Too Much Money Put Into New Buildings.

HE SUPPORTS PUBLICITY

Finance Minister Has Provision to Permit Farmers to Raise Loan on Grain.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Ottawa, April 11.—This was western day in the banking committee, George F. Chipman, editor of the Grain Growers' Guide, the official organ of the Western Canada, was the first witness and stated that he was in touch with western farmers, who read his paper and corresponded with him extensively. He thought that bank charters should not be renewed for ten years. With rapidly changing conditions in Canada, especially in the west, there should be opportunity for revision of the banking act oftener than once in ten years.

"Do you favor a system of smaller banks?" asked Chairman Ames.

"The present system would come to be more economical," replied Mr. Chipman, who on further questioning did not seem to have considered the question or have definite views upon it. He stated that each branch bank should, at regular intervals, publish a statement of its business showing loans of all deposits.

Mr. Nesbitt wanted to know what benefit the public would get from this. "Publicity is always useful and beneficial," said Mr. Chipman.

"Would that not lead to the disclosure of the business of one bank to its competitors?" asked Mr. Sharpe.

Good for Public.
"I think the advantage to the public would be greater than the disadvantage to any bank. If the banks were loaning an undue proportion of loans to the agricultural communities that condition could be remedied, and probably would be," said Mr. Chipman.

"What is the effect on the public of big and expensive branches in western towns?" asked Mr. Ames.

"Money is short in Western Canada and the public thinks that the more money a bank puts into its building the less it will have to loan," said Mr. Chipman.

In describing the financial operations of the average farmer settling in the west, Mr. Chipman intimated that he did not think that changes in the law would test to farmers being unable to obtain more money on loans from banks.

EPIDEMIC IN CITY SCHOOLS CAUSED BY CARELESSNESS

Authorities Complain That Parents Do Not Appear to Realize Danger.

Chickenpox and Measles Said To Be Spreading Among Children.

While the physicians and school authorities of the city are trying in every possible way to stop the epidemics of infectious diseases, it will need more co-operation upon the part of the parents of school children before the diseases are completely stamped out, so they state.

As an example of the carelessness of some parents in connection with these diseases, an encounter that Misses Gilchrist and Burdick, the nurses employed by the school board, had this morning is worthy of mention.

The two ladies, who were on a Belt Line car going to Victoria School, saw two little girls on the car, and in answer to Miss Gilchrist's query if they had been sick, they answered in unison: "Oh, yes, we have the chickenpox." They would not give their names, but stated that they were pupils of Colborne street school.

Distributing Milk.
It was also stated today that a boy who was engaged in distributing milk in the southern part of the city, resided in a house where there was another youngster ill with the measles.

The principal of a local school had considerable difficulty in explaining to a boy that he could not come to school as he had the chickenpox.

On Monday last the teacher of the boy noticed symptoms of the disease and sent him home, but this morning he returned with the boy marks all over his face. The teacher sent him to the principal who was told by the boy: "It's all right, mother says I'm not sick," but the master was firm and the boy returned to his home.

At the same school the pupils upon dismissal at noon and 4 o'clock are met by a lad who lives in a home where another child is ill with the measles.

CLOSURE A NIGHTMARE SAYS OTTAWA PAPER

Measure Sweeping, Monstrous,
Revolutionary and a Serious
Menace to Canada.

[Canadian Press.]
Ottawa, April 11.—The Ottawa Free Press (Liberal) says tonight:

"Liberalism has exhausted every means to compel the Borden Government to appeal to the country for a mandate on its navy bill. It has failed. That fact might be faced first as last. If the Senate were to throw out the bill the Government would drop it. There would be no election. The closure is a nightmare. Analysis of it proves that it is revolutionary. No Liberal had the right to assume that any Canadian Government would dare to prepare so sweeping, so monstrous, a measure. Liberalism cannot help throwing up its hands at the proposed closure."

"In face of it, and rather than that it should become law forever, Liberalism can afford to transfer its fight against the navy bill from Parliament to the public platform in the constituencies. In order to save Canada from a measure of two evils, the Free Press earnestly suggests that the closure is dropped."

"If that offer is accepted, then the people of Canada will be able to understand the motives of those responsible for the introduction of the closure."

London South Liberals

COMING TO LONDON

Charles Daw Will Train Fast Horse
for the Grand Circuit.

[Special to The Advertiser.]
Dorchester, April 11.—Mr. Charles Daw left recently for London, where he has obtained a position. He took his horse, Woodpoints, there lately, to be trained by Mr. Dan McEwen for the Grand Circuit. Mr. Daw recently refused an offer of $1,200 for the animal.

Five Ancient Volumes in Library of Rev. Dr. Ross

In reference to the statement from Rev. S. Salton, of Arva, a few years ago that he possessed a book of devotion two hundred and twenty-four years old, Rev. James Ross, D. D., pastor of St. Andrew Church, writes:

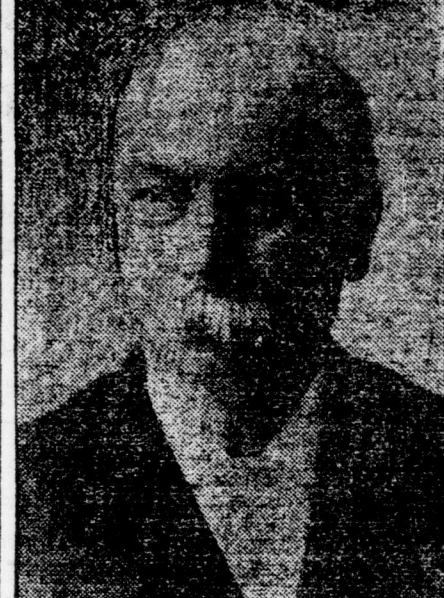

I have five books older than the one mentioned by the Rev. S. Salton, namely:

Summa Theologica, Thomas Aquinas, 1224
Shop Davenant's Commentary on Colossians, 1639
Cession of Faith, 1658
Professor Allotree's Sermon Before the King, 1684
King's Antiquities of the British Church, 1685

These are all in the original binding and well preserved.

FEDERATION OF MEN OF ALL THE PROTESTANT BODIES ORGANIZED FOR GREAT ONWARD CHRISTIAN MOVEMENT

AT THE organization meeting Thursday night in St. Andrew's Church, Rev. Thomas Mitchell described the faith that inspires the movement in these words: "One thousand men standing together for the Master's Kingdom can transform this city, and that is the object of this federation."

HENRY MACKLIN,
Treasurer of Men's Federation.

How Rev. J. McNeill Sees Many of Those In Churches Today

There was nothing uncertain about the way in which Rev. John McNeill, of Cook's Church, Toronto, denounced the apathy that prevails among churchgoers, when he addressed the meeting in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church Thursday night, at which the Men's Federation was inaugurated. Here are some of his remarks:

From the 12th chapter of First Chronicles he read: "They were armed with bows, and could use both the right and the left."

"So many people today can do neither. In the familiar speech of the day, they are a lot of mutts," commented he.

"These men could use both the right hand and the left. When you were expecting a blow from the right you got a stinger from the left. The pulpit needs just that."

"God help us in the pulpit to say the things that you expect us to say, and also what you did not expect us to say."

"How in the name of all that's true, did some names ever get on the communion rolls of the church? When were they ever soldiers? When were they ever on the firing line?"

"They are just a lot of Chinese fire-works, guaranteed not to burn."

Reading again from the eighth verse: "Fit for the battle"—not the hospital. You'd almost think the church was a hospital—a hospital for incurables, for some people never die or get better. They are nursed and molly-coddled by the church, and I don't think half of you are worth the trouble."

"Instead of going 'Onward, Christian Soldiers,' they should be singing 'Backward Christian Soldiers,' backward from the war."

"Stop playing like children in a nursery—stop playing at Christian soldiers."

"Haven't we landed in a day of irresolution? How many Christian people today have that look which indicates helplessness, resolution? Do not we too often see that puzzled look—a look that says: 'Lead me gently home?'"

"They don't seem to know that the battle is on, or what is the issue."

"God take away from us all softness and flabbiness, and thread us with a backbone. Then we'll get on. Then the world will cease to say that the church is an organized hypocrisy."

Reading again in the fifteenth verse: "These are they that went over Jordan in the first month when it had overflowed its banks."

"Everybody said: 'You can't go over Jordan in the spring. We never did it, and our fathers never did it—it can't be done.'"

"These men took a hoary old saying and proved it to be a hoary old lie, and it's the greatest thing you'll ever do."

"You say certain things cannot be done because they are not in the Bible, and you say they can be done because they are in the Bible. You may not have the word here, but you have the thing."

"There's no use in bravely holding the fort when there's nobody attacking it. Hold the fort! No; say out and attack the enemy."

"The Word of God is forever up-to-date—ringing."

C. P. R. Locomotive Off Track at City Station

Traffic on the C. P. R. was delayed for a time Thursday evening when a locomotive was derailed at the city depot about 11:30. The engine was backing up to couple on to train No. 17, when the accident happened. It was pulled back out of the way so as not to delay traffic, and was not replaced on the rails until about nine o'clock this morning.

JOHN M. GUNN,
President of Men's Federation.

REV. JOHN McNEILL SPEAKS AT INAUGURATION OF MEN'S FEDERATION AT ST. ANDREW'S

Noted Presbyterian Divine Delivers Message of Exhortation to Congregation of All Denominations—"Be a Follower,"
He Urges, "You'll Soon Get Out of the Doldrums Into a Life of Glorious Experience."

"Fire won't burn you, water won't drown you, death won't kill you, and sin won't damn you, if you make Jesus Christ your peace," said Rev. John McNeill, formerly of Liverpool, and now pastor of Cook's Church, Toronto, at the conclusion of an eloquent sermon in St. Andrew's Church Thursday evening. Despite the inclement weather the church was completely filled with people desirous of hearing the noted divine, who enjoys the reputation of being one of the ablest preachers of his day. The purpose of the service was the inauguration of the Men's Federation of London, an organization having for its object unity of effort among the men of all the churches of all denominations throughout the city, along lines of social service. The service was given an enthusiastic send-off at a well-attended meeting of delegates held immediately after the service.

Source of Salvation.
Mr. McNeill chose as the subject of his discourse, St. Mark's account of Christ's stilling of the tempest—first the great storm and then the great calm. The first lesson that we learn from the story is that it's Christ's presence that is our salvation, he said. "He with us and we with Him—that is salvation for the individual, and it is salvation for the whole company. There never was any other, there never can be any other, and we do not want any other."

Referring to the text of the story, he pointed out that in some quarters today there was a tendency to dignify the boat, as if it had something to do with saving the disciples on that night of peril. "They even call it the barque of St. Peter," he said. "One would almost think she was an ocean liner, instead of a miserable little insular fishing boat."

The Church a Boat.
From thinking along such lines as that, he averred, the idea of salvation by the church crept in. "Salvation by the boat—especially our boat, the doctrine taught by some denominations. The boat that night saved nobody—it needed saving—it was sinking. And the church herself saves nobody—she herself needs to be saved. It was Christ's human, divine, living presence with them that saved them."

He read further from the text. "You must have noticed this painful anticlimax," he said, referring to the fear that was aroused in the disciples by the miracle. "They all shivered and shook. Not a soul said 'Hallelujah!' that's over and we're saved. These men were accustomed to sing psalms, the psalms of David. Of course, they hadn't the Scotch meter version—but then they couldn't have everything."

Didn't Have Hymn-Books.
He quoted a psalm which would have been suitable to the occasion, and remarked on the fact that not one of them thought of singing it. The reason was, that it wasn't in the church and it wasn't Sunday. They were caught outside without their hymn books. And some people today, away from church, are wonderfully empty. They don't seem to carry with them even some of the small change of religion."

USE RESIDENCES FOR CITY HALL

Suggestion Made That Hueston and Moore Houses Would Be Suitable.

EFFECT A BIG SAVING

Messrs. John Hayman and William Bernard are given credit for a suggestion regarding quarters for city hall employees that finds favor among the aldermen.

Their idea is that instead of fitting up quarters for the different staffs in the Spencer Block, the city should sell that property at once, and secure the Moore and Hueston residences for city hall quarters.

There are fine large rooms in both the Moore and Hueston residences, and they would afford ample quarters for all the city hall employees without expense to the city.

It has been estimated that it would cost $12,000 to fit up the Spencer Block so as to provide suitable quarters for the city employees.

Would Pay Claims.
Messrs. Hayman and Bernard believe that the money secured from the Spencer building would pay the claims of Dr. Moore and Mr. Hueston. It is understood that expropriation proceedings will be proceeded with in a short time to acquire the property not yet deeded to the city for the Federal Square.

HOW THE CITY
SOAKS ITSELF

Pays $11 Per Year for Lamp
That Private Consumer Can
Get for $4.50.

A TIMELY ILLUSTRATION

Ald. J. G. Richter and a reporter were chatting about municipal affairs this morning.

"How much does a lamp like that cost the city?" asked the newspaperman, pointing to one of the globes on Queen's avenue.

"According to the new rating of the hydro commission $11 per year," answered Mr. Richter.

"How much would it cost me to buy light for a lamp like that under the commercial rating system?" was the next question.

"You could secure it for $4.50," was the reply.

"How do you figure that out?"

"Those lamps are 75 watt lamps. That is a tenth of one horsepower. You can secure light under the commercial rating for a store or building for $50 a horsepower. A tenth of a horsepower's cost is $5. With the discount would be $4.50, and it could be burned for twenty-four hours every day for a year."

"So that while the city sells power to outside users for $4.50, it charges itself more than twice as much?" asked the reporter.

"That's exactly the state of affairs, and if it were not for competition from the private companies the people would not be getting it for $4.50. There is no competition in street lighting, so the city has to carry the burden that is taken off the private part of the business."

"That's a rather good illustration," suggested the reporter.

What I have been trying to get at all along," said the man who led the poll last election because the people of London have a great faith in his honesty and fairness.

Great Damage Done to Cricket Grounds at Tunbridge Wells—
Miss Emerson Very Ill With Appendicitis Following Forcible Feeding.

[Canadian Press.]
London, April 11.—Militant suffragettes started on their work of destruction at a very early hour this morning, when they set fire to the grand stand of the great cricket grounds at Tunbridge Wells. They left behind them a photograph of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, as an indication that the women had taken this means of protesting against her imprisonment in Holloway Jail. The fire started in the dressing rooms of the members' pavilion, in which large quantities of tarred netting used in cricket practice was stored. The building was extensively damaged, and the loss caused by the fire amounts to several thousand dollars.

PARKS EXPERT NOT IN FAVOR OF IRON
BRIDGES IN LONDON

Superintendent Dilger Wants
Concrete Structure at Wharncliffe Road.

Thinks Present Steel Structures
Are Unsightly and Not Durable.

Superintendent Dilger, of the parks department, cannot understand why the city should spend $25,000, probably a good deal more, to erect what, he considers, another unsightly steel bridge across the Thames. He considers it to be directly opposed to the materialization of the idea of the city beautiful.

An all-cement bridge would last a century or more, and would not require annual repairs as will a steel bridge. In his opinion London is already disfigured by too many bridges, which are anything and everything other than things of beauty.

Couldn't Estimate Cost.
Mr. Dilger would not estimate the cost of a cement arch bridge across the Thames on the Wharncliffe road, but he thinks that such an estimate might well be secured by the works department.

Rocky River, a small municipality near Cleveland, has a single span, 600-foot cement bridge crossing the river of the same name.

Mr. Dilger has himself completed in connection with the permanent plans for parks improvements, the design and plans for a 342-foot, three-span, all-cement bridge across the Thames over the Springbank dam, and connecting the park south of the river with the proposed golf grounds on the north.

May Tie Up Work.
There is possibility of the West London bridge project being tied up unless ways and means are found to secure the additional ten thousand or more which the actual construction of the bridge, judging from tenders already received, will cost above the $25,000 for which debentures are authorized.

BODY OF FINANCIER
NEARING NEW YORK

Elaborate Preparations Made for Arrival of Morgan's Remains.
[Canadian Press.]

New York, April 11.—The steamship La France, bearing the body of the late J. P. Morgan passed Nantuxet lights at 4 o'clock this morning, and was expected to dock about 8:30 o'clock this afternoon. The body will be immediately removed from the ship and taken under strong police guard to the Morgan library, where it will rest until Monday morning when funeral services will be held in St. George's Church. It will then be conveyed by special train to Hartford, Conn., and placed in the family mausoleum.

J. P. Morgan and his son, Junius S. Morgan, obtained permits to go down the bay in a revenue cutter and board the La France at Quarantine.

Extra details of police have been assigned to guard the pier, and no one will be permitted to enter the shed without a special customs pass.

FINED FOR ASSAULT.
[Special to The Advertiser.]
St. Thomas, April 10.—Bernard Macaulay, charged with striking William Brunning when the latter objected to the former's conduct at a dance in Yarmouth, Centre Town Hall, today pleaded guilty and was fined $50 with costs and damages, a total of $108.94.

CANNOT LOCATE GIRL.
The police have so far been unable to locate the 17-year-old girl who recently effected her escape from the Children's Aid shelter to which place she was remanded after appearing in the juvenile court charged with vagrancy. It is probable that she has left the city.

No Dividend This Year For Shareholders of the York Loan

Delay Is Due to Getting In Payments on Real Estate
Assets. Which Will Total in the Neighborhood of Two Million Dollars.

[Canadian Press.]
Toronto, April 11.—The next dividend will be a final one, and you may say that there will be no dividend this year," was the announcement at the National Trust Company, liquidators of the York County Loan and Savings Company.

The delay is due to getting in the payments on the real estate which formed the greater part of the assets. These will not be in till July, and there will then be more than six months figuring to be done.

The result of the sale of the real estate is a vindication of the official referee's decision not to sell the property in a block to a syndicate. An offer was made in 1906 of $600,000, but George Kappeler, K. C., refused to entertain it, and the liquidator proceeded with the sale, with the result that the receipts will be in the neighborhood of $1,800,000, or three times as much as was offered.

HEIRESS TO LARGE SUM DESIRES TO DO GOOD QUIETLY

Mrs. Edward Lowe Inherits
Chicago Property Valued at Nearly $500,000.

Father Leased Property for 25
Years and Time Is About to Expire.

A fortune of from $300,000 to $500,000 will come into the possession of Mrs. Edward Lowe, of 362 Simcoe street, within a few months. She told The Advertiser this morning that she expected soon to come to a realization of her ambition to engage in the work of charity.

Mrs. Lowe is the only daughter of the late E. H. Van Patten, a Canadian years head of one of the largest jewelry businesses in Chicago. At the time of the Chicago fire, Mr. Van Patten had large holdings of Chicago real estate, and just before his death he leased the property for twenty-five years.

Title Is Clear.
It was a condition that nothing should be paid out of the earnings of the property, Mr. Van Patten desiring that it should be given to his daughter after the lease had expired. Complications have occurred meanwhile, and Mrs. Lowe has just received word from her solicitors in Chicago to the effect that her title to the property is clear, and that her ownership will be verified within a short time.

"I have never had any doubt that the property was mine," said Mrs. Lowe. "My father did not want his money spent by his children while they were young, and he made it imperative that the property would not be turned over for twenty-five years. I have not said for twenty-five years, I have not said for anything to my husband about it for years, but two weeks ago when I received word from the solicitors, I had a surprise for him."

Desires No Publicity.
"Now, please don't say anything much about it," Mrs. Lowe asked. "Everyone will be talking about it, and I won't want to go down the street."

"But people do like to hear of the good fortune of others," the reporter suggested.

"Well, you may just make the bare announcement; I suppose that would be all right," she replied.

Asked as to her intentions, Mrs. Lowe said that she had no desire to change her style of living.

Do Good in Quiet Way.
"I've always thought I'd like to do all the good I could when the ship came in.
