

Cynthia Grey and EVERY WOMAN'S Page

Women Wearing Mercury Wings on Their Hats Now, Instead of Their Heels

And the Black and White Tailored Waist Also Is Very Fashionable.

CYNTHIA GREY'S CORRESPONDENCE

Paint On Print.

Dear Miss Grey: Will you kindly answer one question for me through your valuable column? How to take paint stains out of print? The print has never been washed since paint got on it. Hoping to see the answer at an early date, I remain M. R. S. A.

Saturate the spots with equal parts of turpentine and ammonia. When quite softened, wash out with soap and water.

Help For Ruby.

Dear Miss Grey: Have written you before and you helped me, so shall do so again. 1. Can you suggest a name for a home where there are no trees, etc., to distinguish it, frame house, verandah, every looking. 2. What would be a suitable gift to a girl for her wedding trousseau, not too expensive?

RUBY.

Shall She Ask Him?

Dear Miss Grey: I am sixteen years old, am in love with a young boy of seventeen. I love him and he loves me, but he talks about other girls, and tells me I am the only girl he ever loved. Do you think he means it? He never asked me to marry him and I have been going with him for about eight months. Would you advise me to ask him what he intends to do, marry me or not? 2. Do you think it would be better for me to be more childish and not bother with the boys for a few years longer. Mother says she likes me to remain more like a child and not to worry about marriage yet. My chum was married and is now worrying how to clean her house of bedbugs in your column.

SWEET SIXTEEN.

A.—1. Do not ask him. Stop a minute, little girl, and think seriously about what chance there would be of a 17-year-old boy buying bread and butter for two, let alone paying for rent, clothing, and one hundred and one other things. Be good friends, but do get the "marriage" idea out of your head for at least five years. 2. Your mother is perfectly right. Don't try being "grown-up" too soon, but get all the pleasant fun and gladness there is out of your girlhood years. 3. Applying turpentine to all crevices of bedroom furniture and floors is an excellent way to get rid of the pest.

Motoring Togs.

Dear Miss Grey: 1. What would be nice for a girl of fifteen to wear on her head while motor? Something not very expensive. 2. I am 5 feet 1 1/2 inches in height and weigh 96 pounds. Am I too fat? 3. My waist measure is 22 inches, and my hips are 31 inches. Would I look all right in a tight skirt and high waist line? 4. What would be nice for a woman of fifty with gray hair to wear on her head while motor? As this is the first time I have ever written I hope to have this answered as soon as convenient.

A.—1. A yard and a half of chiffon veiling makes a very useful scarf and the cost is not prohibitive. 2. I think not. 3. Yes. 4. Use chiffon veiling of a dark shade, or a small hat may be worn.

food when it reaches the house is the careful washing of that which is to be eaten raw, and cooking.

The danger of fresh contamination to food after it is made ready for consumption is also to be guarded against by keeping our doors and windows all perfectly screened by using fly paper, by vigorous bathing and flapping. In spite of every precaution a fly escapes we should see to it that no food is left exposed uncovered to the marauder.

Ceaseless vigilance is the price of liberty from flies.

CLEANSING GLASS.

A glass water bottle when constantly used soon becomes discolored. This may easily be cleaned by pouring a kettle of boiling water with the tips out of the water, which are thus cooked by steam, while the harder parts are cooked by the boiling water. If not separated, in some such way, the tips will be boiled to a mush, while the hard part is yet undone. A good way is to cut the stalks in two, boil the tender tips in one vessel and the hard parts in another, then when both are done mix and season.

Glasses which are used for milk or any milky substances should always be washed in cold water in preference to hot, as the latter is apt to leave a cloudy appearance and necessitate a great deal more labor in the washing. The same rule applies to perfectly new glasses which have not been used.

PREPARING ASPARAGUS.

Asparagus tips should be tied in bunches of equal length and tied in a kettle of boiling water with the tips out of the water, which are thus cooked by steam, while the harder parts are cooked by the boiling water. If not separated, in some such way, the tips will be boiled to a mush, while the hard part is yet undone. A good way is to cut the stalks in two, boil the tender tips in one vessel and the hard parts in another, then when both are done mix and season.

More and Better Bread will be the result of your baking, if you use White Swan Yeast. Cakes. Your grocer keeps them in 5c packages of six cakes. Send today for free sample, White Swan Spices and Cakes, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE DAILY MENU

BREAKFAST.
Broiled Tripe. Fried Potatoes.
Strawberry Shortcake.
Cereal or Plain Coffee.

LUNCHEON.
Creamed Spinach with Poached Eggs.
Pudding left from yesterday's dinner.
Sauce.

DINNER.
Clear Tomato Soup.
Cold Lamb. Gravy. Boiled Rice.
Dandelion Salad.
Washington Pie.

Dandelion Salad With Bacon.
Select crisp young greens, clean thoroughly without disturbing shape. Plunge into boiling water, then at once into cold water. Let stand 20 minutes. Fry 3 strips bacon, cut in 1/2 inch cubes. Reserve 3 tablespoons hot bacon fat, and add shallots, 1/4 teaspoon constantly, 1 1/2 tablespoons vinegar with a few grains cayenne. Use this as a dressing for the dandelion, which is dried well, and garnish with the bacon cubes. Use only young greens.

Washington Pie.

Two-thirds of a cup sugar, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 cup butter, 1-8 teaspoon mace, 1 egg, 1 1/2 cup pastry flour, 1/2 cup milk, 2 teaspoons baking powder.

Cream butter, add sugar gradually, egg well beaten, milk, vanilla and mace. Sift together baking powder and flour, add gradually to mixture, beat in, and bake in two layer cake pans. When done, spread one sheet with jam or jelly, place the other on top, sprinkle with powdered sugar, and serve while quite fresh.

Testing Coffee

Of all breakfast beverages, coffee is the most widely used — and the most widely adulterated.

To the pure coffee grains unscrupulous dealers frequently add a large percentage of chicory. Chicory is a plant belonging to the aster family, and its dandelion-like roots when roasted and pulverized are hard to distinguish from the genuine coffee. Although some people like the taste of chicory, it is, when taken in large quantities, extremely harmful.

There is a sure and simple way of telling whether your coffee is being adulterated. Fill a tumbler nearly full of cold water and scatter on its surface half a teaspoonful or so of the coffee grains.

As pure coffee contains a great deal of oil, the grains which are pure will float, and the adulterants will sink to the bottom. If the water promptly takes on a dark, muddy tint, it is a sure indication that chicory has been mixed with the coffee to an unwholesome extent. Pure coffee will not color cold water until it has been in it for quite a time.

SAVING STEPS IN THE KITCHEN

The foundation of kitchen efficiency is a convenient arrangement of the furnishings and tools. To place each article in the best position for use, to arrange the pantry in labelled order, to put the cooking table near the stove, and cleaning materials near the sink, to have the sink and range near together, pans and kettles at hand, these are the simple adjustments that will make a 25 per cent reduction in the time expended in preparing and clearing away of meals.

It is not necessary to spend a large amount of money in bringing about this transformation, for efficiency is rather the result of conscientious thought. One of the most useful articles, however, that can be purchased for a kitchen is an ordinary deal table, three and one-half by two and one-half feet — put upon castors, and the top covered with zinc. Such tables can be purchased at any hardware store for $2, and the zinc top will cost $1 more at the plumber's. If the table is made to order raise it 36 inches from the floor rather than the usual thirty, and you have a very suitable height for convenient work. A table of this sort is sanitary, easily cleaned and so light that it can be wheeled to any position in the room, by the stove or sink, or to the breakfast room, when preparing vegetables, before the window or on the back piazza in summer weather. It is far superior to the ordinary ironing-board for flat work, and the table top replaces the ironing-board in the kneading of bread and rolling of cookies and pastries.

Unless a pantry is provided for cooking, the table should have a permanent stand beneath a group of open shelves. (Cupboards have no place in a kitchen, as they are just catchers.) These shelves may be about nine inches wide, and on them can be arranged bowls, flavorings, baking powder, seasonings, etc., while measuring cups, egg beaters, graters and cookie cutters can be hung on hooks along the edge. The cake pans can be placed on these shelves. If there is room, or on a half shelf below the table, a small shelf should be placed, by the way, so that the pans will not slide off when the table is moved, or on a shelf put up for the purpose near the table. The supplies may be kept in the attractive porcelain jars now on sale in the stores, or in pound coffee cans, painted and white enameled. Glass preserve jars are also excellent for this purpose. Whatever style is used, the shelves should be plainly labelled, and the label varnished on, so that the jars can be washed. It is surprising to notice how much time is lost, and how many failures are due to opening the wrong bag or jar, and putting in the wrong ingredient.

With this arrangement a cake, muffins, cookies and many other dishes may be prepared without leaving the table except to bring milk, butter or eggs from the icebox. To take the fewest steps, to make every motion count, will conserve the only time but the health of the housekeeper.

SOME NOVEL "SHOWERS"

A Trouble Shower.
The invitation were cards, with one corner turned down and fastened with a needle or pin, and the quotation, written in gilt, "Needles and pins! When a maid marries her trouble begins."

The hostess furnished a very pretty work-basket, and the guest supplied the contents, all in the bride's favorite color — pumpkin-yellow. There was a box of needles, a box of pins, cushion, needle-book, emery, scissors, ribbon threaders, tape needles, and darning utensils enough to last for many a moon. All of these gifts, done up in yellow paper, were hidden in a box to send their gifts in advance, doing them up in quaint or funny fashion; no gift to exceed ten cents. When "Shower Day" came, it took two large clothes baskets to hold every conceivable sort of bundle. To each guest was given a bag holding a hundred beans, representing as many dollars.

A Ten Cent Shower.
The thirty guests to this novel party were invited by phone and envelope to send their gifts in advance, doing them up in quaint or funny fashion; no gift to exceed ten cents. When "Shower Day" came, it took two large clothes baskets to hold every conceivable sort of bundle. To each guest was given a bag holding a hundred beans, representing as many dollars.

A Spider Shower.
A large spider-web made of stout twine was woven in the arch between

For Class Day

Some very pretty gowns are now being shown for school girls' commencement wear.

The one selected for this sketch has a wide, white collar and cuffs, with an overdress of plain white net. The net is arranged simply on the foundation and is used in a fine pleating on the skirt. The collar and sleeves have a wide band of the chiffon satin and soft satin folds are braided around the waist, ending in a rose at each side of the lace panel.

Crash Coat Sets

Ultra smart are the coat sets in heavy crash. While a few of them are entirely of a creamy hue, the most effective are in old rose, delft blue, pastel green, or khaki, embroidered with white or black linen floss. This needlework, which is in a bold design and done in a close, solid stitch, runs from the inner to the outer edge of the collar and cuffs, where the hemstitched border is very coarse and effective. The collars are five pointed and so extremely broad that one Van Dyke terminates at the centre of the back, two Van Dykes fall over the top of the arm and the remaining pair extend almost half way to the waist line. The cuffs have three sharp Van Dykes, a deep one running backward to the elbow and two shorter ones pointing toward the inner side of the arm. These coat sets are now worn with plainly tailored serges of dark blue, but they will be equally smart looking with the tailored frocks in white, gray or tan.

Kingsmills
IF IT'S NEW IT'S HERE.

DRYGOODS,
CARPETS.

Kingsmills
IF IT'S HERE IT'S NEW.

HALF PRICE Clearing Sale of Millinery

Every Hat at Half Price

A most important event starts here tomorrow. Important because of the style, exclusiveness and quality. Important because of the opportune time. Important because of the savings.

Come, choose from hundreds of Hats. Many imported shapes and models from Europe. Every Hat the latest, all styles, all shapes, all colors. The original price on every one. Come tomorrow, get the latest style and full wear and value. Just pay half price.

Charming Display of Parasols

Every Parasol the latest. The new canopy shape and the cover more style, with directoire or crooked handles, in silks, repps, wash fabrics and fancy styles, in black, white, tans, raw silk shades and all colors, plain and striped designs. Priced at 75c, $1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50, $3.00 to $5.00. CHILDREN'S PARASOLS, in all colors, white, embroidery, silk and wash parasols, each.....45c to $1.00

Daylight Drygoods Store
Dundas Street

KINGSMILL'S

Important Sale of Ladies' Blouses

Latest styles, every one of them. Some plain tailored, some with laundered collar and cuffs, some with French cuffs and soft collar, some embroidered with high or low neck, three-quarter or short sleeves.

Made of lawn, muslin, gingham, vestings, embroideries, etc., all sizes. SPECIAL SALE,

98c

Embroidery Dresses Special $5.00

More style, daintiness and beauty in these crisp, new dresses than you usually find at such a popular price. Several pretty styles of allover embroidery, high or low neck. Special value at.....$5.00

Canada's Largest Carpet Store
Carling Street

SAVING YOUR EYES.

Here is advice about the eyes, recommended by the committee of the Children's Welfare Association of Women Principals, New York, and the Advisory Board of Oculists:

"Your eyes are worth more to you than any book. Your safety and your success in life depend on your eyes; therefore take care of them. Always hold your head up when you read. Hold your book fourteen inches from your face, and be sure that the light is clear and good. Never read in a bad

Do You Tan?

No need to worry, or to refrain from outdoor pleasures, because your skin tans easily.

Nyal's Face Cream

If used regularly, will preserve the natural, healthy color of the skin, and effectually remove all traces of tan and sunburn.

Twenty-five and Fifty Cents.

P PERCIVAL,
Richmond Cor. Central
Phone 1261

L LISTER,
Wortley Road, cor. Craig
Phone 1920

O OMOND,
468 Dundas
Phone 1429

THE PROGRESSIVE DRUGGISTS.

Advertiser Patterns

Beauty Pattern Company.

9229—A New Coat Style—Lady's Jacket.
Any of these popular coatings, also silk, linen, cotton, corduroy and serge, may be used for this model. It is fitted with the usual seams, and the collar forms wide-pointed revers over the fronts. The pattern is cut in five sizes, 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. It requires 2 1/2 yards of 44-inch material for the 36-inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of fee in silver or stamps.

PATTERN DEPARTMENT OF THE ADVERTISER.

Please send above-mentioned pattern, as per directions given below, to

Name

Street Address

Town

Province

Measurement—Bust..... Waist.....

Age (if child's or misses' pattern).....

CAUTION.—Be careful to inclose above illustration, and send size of pattern wanted. When the pattern is sent measure, you need only mark 32, 34, or whatever it may be. When in waist measure, 22, 24, 26 or whatever it may be. If a skirt, give waist and length measure. When misses' or child's pattern, write only the figure representing the age. It is not necessary to write "inches" or "yards." Patterns cannot reach you in less than one week from the date of order. The price of each pattern is 10 cents in cash or in postage stamps.

MONTREAL METHODISTS FAVOR CHURCH UNION

Vote as Reported to Conference is 27,373 For Change.

[Canadian Press.]

Kingston, June 3.—The Montreal Methodist Conference was in session on the King's birthday. The statistical report was presented, and was regarded as disappointing, especially in one of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

GIRLS ON LINER GET A BAD SHOCK

"Pansy" Maiden Annexes "Romeo," Whom Each of Others Thought

Theirs.

New York, June 3.—Hearts that had fluttered with various emotions all the way across the Atlantic in the Minnetonka, which arrived from London, experienced other emotions when P. E. White-Hurst ran down the gangplank into the waiting arms of a beautiful girl, all gowned and slipped in pansy-purple.

Half a dozen girls looked their astonishment for a moment and then several of them gathered about and held a whispered consultation, eyeing P. E. White-Hurst and his apparent "best girl." Then they went away to their places on the pier and sorrowfully awaited the customs men.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.

One of the most interesting features of the engagement, which was announced on the pier, was the fact that the chum of Miss Carvel was a passenger on the Minnetonka and did not know her friend and Mr. White-Hurst were even acquainted, to say nothing of a more tender attachment. Her astonishment was more pronounced when she saw the young man embrace Miss Carvel.

For each of them had imagined, all the way across, that P. E. White-Hurst, young, cultured, and good looking, was heart-whole and fancy-free, and particularly devoted to himself.

It proved difficult, at first, to learn who the beautiful vision in pansy-purple was, but she finally said she was Miss Virginia Carvel, of the Old Dominion, living now at 6 West Ninety-eighth street, and that she expected to become Mrs. P. E. White-Hurst. He is a young London engineer. She is into him on a world tour. Mr. White-Hurst is 30 years old, and a director in a London engineering company. Miss Carvel is less than 20, with violet-pancy eyes, which were most admirably matched in her costume of chiffon and satin.