Report of the Special Committee Appointed By the City Council

BY-LAW MAKES SOME DRASTIC CHANGES

Saloons Must Abolish All Solid Partitions on Their Prem-

Gentlemen—Tour committee on licensing public dining room to anyone who is ave given very great consideration to the tate of the municipal law governing the tate of the municipal law governing the tranting of liquor licenses, and after because advised by the law officers of the corhave given very great consideration to the state of the municipal law governing the granting of liquor licenses, and after be-ing advised by the law officers of the corration, have prepared a compendious bylaw dealing with the question of licensing.

and placing the conduct of licensing business in a form in which assistance will be afforded to the persons seeking and helding licenses, and we think it right to call attention to the mode in which the bylaw deals with the question.

Your committee obtained from various sources in the Dominion and from the States specimens of bylaws and forms showing how the subject is dealt with elsewhere. They also studied, the Vancouver bylaw, which, however, is issued under the authority of a special act, and makes provisions which are not permitted by the general act.

Your committee have been advised that, although certain regulations governing the ilquor trade may not be enforceable under the general act as penal provisions; yet it is open to the council to impose reasonable conditions and regulations upon the conduct of the trade, and that these conditions and regulations may take the form of the conditions of the license, which license is in fact a contract entered into between the license holder and the corporation. Accordingly such reasonable conditions for endorsement on the various stads of licenses, and a provision makes any breach of these conditions the subject of special consideration by the board in dealing with cancellation, refusal or renewal.

In order to bring existing licenses hold—line with the new regulations, machinery is provided whereby existing license hold—imitation authorized by sub-section B of section 205.

Your committee wish to point out that, with the growth of the tourist business, there may, in the near future, be an increase in the number of hotels to provide accommodation, and have considered whether the limitation as to the issue of new retail liquor ileenses should not exclude the power to grant, new hotel licenses. If this is not provided for the effect of the existing state of things is to place a premium upon existing retail licenses for the purpose of transfering same to any new hotel which may be provided for the public accommodation. Your committee recommend that legislation be sought in the next session giving the council; a discretion to issue new hotel licenses. In connection with this state of things, your committee desire to point out the proposals contained in the by-law to keep separate and distinct the saloan licenses.

proposals contained in the by-law to keep separate and distinct the saloon licenses from hotel and restaurant licenses, shop license and the retail license for the consumption of liquor upon the premises. Your committee are advised that it was contemplated by the legislature that hotel, saloon and shop licenses should be separate and distinctive licenses, and that a considerable loss of revenue-has resulted to the city by not observing the intention of the legislature in this respect.

The by-law prepared gives effect to the legislative intention, and if the proposals are acceptable to the council and the by-law becomes law, these provisions can be enforced by the exercise of the power of refusing renewals in the event of breach of the conditions of the licenses, although prosecution for penalties may not be possible without (alteration of the penal clauses of the act.

Your committee point out that the effect of enforcing the provision prohibiting the conduct of a saleon business under a hotel license will, unless new legislation is obtained dealing with the subject, oblige a hotel keeper desiring to keep a saloon to purchase an existing saloon license and to apply for a transfer, permission for which transfer is discretionary with the board. One desirable result will be the absorption of certain saloon licenses and their more desirable uses.

of certain saloon licenses and their more desirable uses.

Provigion will be found for the registration of bartenders, and for the registration of licensed houses by name. The interests of owners and mortgages of licensed premises have received consideration.

he regulations has been emarged to saw.
In conclusion, your committee have ramed the provisions of the by-law with ideaire to give to the board of licensing commissioners a more complete control, without placing upon the conduct of the unstness any unnecessary restrictions, and with due regard to the interests of the corporation from the point of review of evenne.

The bylaw which will be introduced in compliance with this report is a very voluminous document containing many pages of typewritten matter.

The bylaw will be introduced to regulate the licensing of salcons, liquor shops hotels, taverns and restaurants and for closing salcons during certain hours of closing saloons during certain hours of the night and on Sundays.

The licenses have been divided into several sections, including saloon license, shop or bottle license, wholesale license, restaurant license, hotel license, license, restaurant license, hotel license, and temporary license.

In referring to the saloon heensee, the bylaw states that the licensee shall sell by retail only, the liquor to be sold in one room only at one bar on the licensed premises. There shall be no partitions in the bar room of greater height than eight feet, and there must be a two foot space between the ceiling and the

In an interview with the News-Advertiser on Monday evening Mr. Hayes expressed himself as delighted with the Kai-en island and more than ever pleased with the harborage facilities of Prince Rupert.

"I consider," he said, "that as a harbor it is second to none on the Pacific Coast, It has splendid deep water right to the shore, while Digby island acts as a natural breakwater. The wharf now built there affords a very good landing. The passengers from the Princess May got off there and everyone was delighted with the place." "But may not your present work at Kai-en island be regarded in some measure as a preliminary to construction at this end?" was asked.

"You may depend upon it that when we are ready to begin," said Mr. Hayes in cheerful non-committal, "we shall start construction from both ends and in the middle too if we can do it."

Mr. Hayes was also delighted with the weather as he found it at Prince Rupert. "I was able to give some of the party a little jott on that," he said, "because they had told me it was always raining up there. I was there four years ago and it was fine sunary.

I question whether there is really so much difference between the various places along the Coast. We saw no
