THE CRIMINAL PROBLEM

The criminal problem is surely one of the biggest we have. We have several murderers abroad in Nova Scotia, we have had during the last year examples of wholesale dishonesty, and we have had two men shot to death in our midst, recently. To look at it from the economic point of view, which is not the highest, is to say the least, stunning. Crime costs the United States Ten billion dollars per year—one seventh of their total national earnings. This loss is made up by fraudulent bankruptcy, burglaries, common thieves, cost of prosecution, punishment, prisons, and the loss to industry from these idle people. This last item, alone, is estimated at one and a half billion dollars. This matter of crime was recently discussed by the American Bar Association. In 1921 there were in New York city 260 murders. For the same year in England and Wales, with seven times the population, there were only 63. One speaker said: "In the United States life and property are less secure from criminal violence than in any other country on the globe, that is not in a state of barbarism." The chief magistrate of New York, said that law and procedure were a "tragic farce" for well-known criminals, supposed by the public to be in penitentiary, are found walking the streets, to the astonishment of detectives who arrested them. What are the causes of this crime? The chief of police of New York declares as follows "lack of home training indifference to religion, plays and moving pictures are responsible for the new psychological outlook of a lot of young men and women." It is pointed out that most of those serving sentence are under twenty-five years of age.

We blame a good deal on the war when there was a relaxation in life all round, there are many contributing causes. One manifest cause is a deplorable lack of an apology for home training. Then the problem of adjustment in life is first met, and the boy who tolerates no restraint, is very unready to meet the world. Besides, law to often discriminates. The man who guilty of a big crime, if he has position, often gets off easily, or seems to; and the poor fellow who steals a loaf of bread or some old junk is hurried off to penitentiary. This was all brought out at the meeting above referred to. Young people misinterpret the situation and think others get off they stand a good chance, too. Too much often depend on technicality. Say what we will our criminals are the product of our present social order. It comes back ultimately to the central citadel of the home. If that fails us, God help us! "Spectator" in Halifax Herald.
